Register

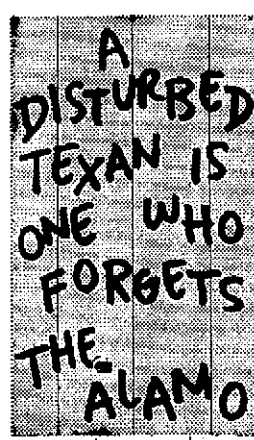

Q. Is it true that barmaids and topless dancers in Long Beach must register with the police department? I've heard the Los Angeles police have this requirement. K. H. Seal Beach.

A. Long Beach police generally keep records only of bar owners and employees who have been arrested, said a spokesman for the vice detail. However, bar personnel operating in the downtown amusement area are required to register with police, largely because of the high turnover rate of employment in that area, he said. A spokesman for the Los Angeles Police Department said they do not register bar employees except in cases of arrest.

Tough Code to Crack

Q. Most dairy products in markets are coded so that clerks can keep track of which are the freshest products. It seems to me that the buying public also should know this code. It is very discouraging to get home with old eggs or cottage cheese that isn't fresh. Can ACTION LINE tell me what the code is? Mrs. R. E. B., Long Beach.

most likely misinterpret what they mean and refuse to buy perfectly good products."

Matter of Law

Q. Is there a California law requiring a body to be embalmed? Mrs. D. F., Long Beach.

A. There is no law requiring embalming, except under certain conditions, according to David Buck, executive secretary of the California Board of Funeral Directors and Embalmers in Sacramento. The body must be embalmed if the remains are to be shipped by any means of public transportation, and the County Health Department often will require embalming if the person died of a communicable disease, Buck said. And in some areas such as Los Angeles, coroner's cases are routinely embalmed at the coroner's office unless the office is otherwise instructed by the survivors.

Electric Lines?

Q. I have had several repairmen check my six-month-old television set, but none of them have been able to fix the set's distorted picture with lines running across it. The repairmen told me that the interference is caused by the Southern California Edison Co. plant near my home. Is this true? J.J.H., Long Beach.

A. "The interference possibly could be caused by the Edison plant, although we have not had any other complaints from home owners in your reader's area,"

However, if you call Hanawalt at 435-1121, and give him your name, address and a description of the interference, the Edison Co. will investigate the problem. "If the interference is caused by our equipment, we will correct the situation," Hanawalt added.

Rave for Rod

Q. I have admired poet and songwriter Rod McKuen ever since I read one of his books, "Listen to the Warm." Can you tell me where I can write to him and where I can get a picture of him? L.P., Paramount.

A. A picture is on its way to you courtesy of Warner Bros. Records. You can write to McKuen in care of the Warner Bros. Records, Publicity Department, 4000 Warner Blvd., Burbank, Calif. 91503. McKuen was born in Oakland, Calif. on April 29, 1933. His father deserted Rod's mother before he was born, and Rod spent his childhood hopping from state to state while his mother looked for work. His schooling was repeatedly interrupted, and when he was 11 he got a job herding cattle. When he was discharged from the Army in 1955, he made his professional debut in San Francisco at the Purple Onion. He sang folk songs, and started writing his own because he didn't like the available material. Since that time he has written more than 900 songs.

Float Photos

Q. Every year I used to buy a booklet of color photographs of the float in the Tournament of Roses parade to send to my relatives in England. The last couple of years I haven't been able to find the books. Can you tell me if they are still available? S. S., Lynwood.

A. They still are printed and are placed at some newsstands and other retail outlets for a short period following the New Year's Day parade. You can obtain the booklet now by sending $1.10 to J. L. Sampson, 2932 Alford St., Lakewood, Calif. 90712.

$20 Million Plan to Build 'Ships of the Future'

Todd Shipyard in San Pedro will embark immediately on a $20 million expansion program, enabling it to build "ships of the future," the firm's president said in a speech prepared for delivery today.

John T. Gilbride said naval reconstruction needs, the growing field of oceanography and the necessity for new tankers to service Alaskan oil fields, are providing Todd with the expansion opportunity.

Gilbride is to speak at this morning's San Pedro launching of the destroyer escort USS Fanning, the last of 14 such ships built by Todd under a $247.5 million contract with the U.S. Navy.

HE SAID recent "unfair publicity" about the destroyer escort contract resulted from "fragmentary reporting of testimony" before a joint congressional subcommittee on economy in government.

Gilbride said a full reading of the testimony showed no criticism of Todd.

"Fragments of testimony in the news media could lead the public to believe American shipyards are inefficient and, as a result, are costing the American taxpayer millions of wasted dollars," he was quoted as saying.

TODD CONTRACTED five years ago to build the destroyer escorts for $151 million, but late technological developments resulted in added costs of $96.5 million, he said.

Gilbride said the additional settlement was agreed to by the Navy after an "extensive" review of the situation by government experts.

"And for this money, the Navy has achieved a breakthrough of the most important nature in a submarine search ship that is operationally the quietest and most shock resistant surface ship ever built," he said.

GILBRIDE reviewed criticisms of the USS Knox, first ship in the series built by Todd, that it "fell apart" during shock tests.

Weatherman Predicts Rain Will Move in After Fog

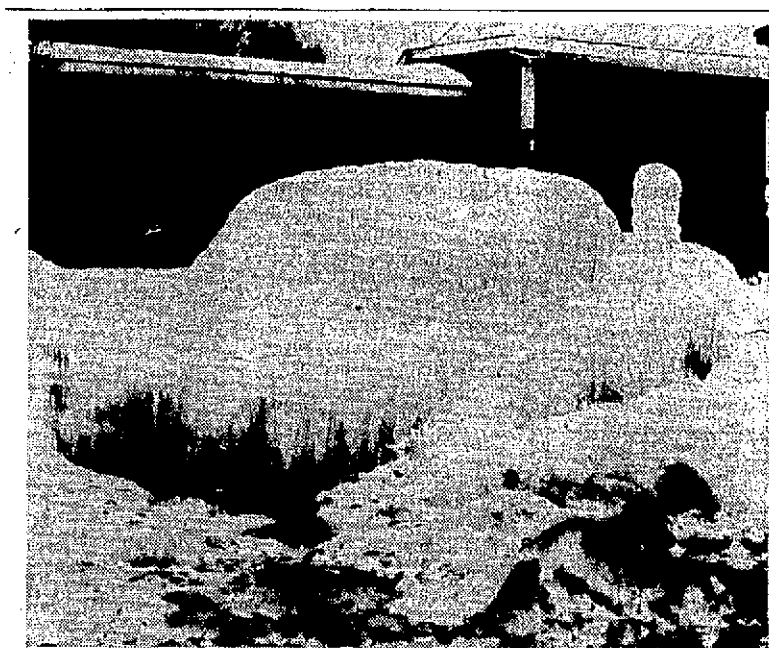

A patchy, swirling fog which slowed night-time motorists should have dissolved into rain by sun-up this morning, the Los Angeles Weather Bureau says.

But the rain should pass by late tonight, leaving Sunday cold and mostly fair.

The rain, which the weatherman predicted would range from light to moderate over the Southland, comes on the southern edge of an intense storm that pushed into the Pacific Northwest and Northern California Friday.

FRIDAY'S deluge posed new threats to low-lying areas north of San Francisco, already sodden from 16 consecutive days of rain.

60 Coast City Leaders Urge Oil Pollution End

By BOB SANDERS Staff Writer

Calling 1970 "The Year of the Environment," more than 60 representatives of 17 coastal cities and four counties Friday urged "immediate and meaningful" action to prevent further oil pollution of ocean waters.

During the all-day session at the Newporter Inn in Newport Beach, five speakers outlined the history of the problems and reviewed past legislative efforts to control the problem.

The meeting was called by Newport Beach City Manager Harvey L. Hurlburt to formulate prospective legislation which all the cities could agree to support.

ASSEMBLYMAN Robert E. Badham of Newport Beach set the tone for the meeting when he said:

"This is the 'Year of the Environment' and we must all get together and act together if we expect to accomplish anything."

Badham pointed out that more than 60 per cent of the bills introduced in the Legislature during the first week of this session dealt with environmental problems.

He added that California's regulations on oil drilling — which legally can extend only to the three-mile limit — are "three times as strong as the federal controls."

"We feel that the state has done about as much as it can do to control drilling," the assemblyman said. "It is now time for the federal government to take positive action to control drilling out to the 12-mile limit."

A three-man team of speakers from the city and County of Santa Barbara, headed up by Santa Barbara City Manager Clifford Petrie, led off the discussion.

After outlining the problems of Santa Barbara, where he said from 10 to 15 barrels of oil are still being leaked into the channel daily, Petrie also called for federal action.

"We have serious, serious problems," Petrie told the audience, "if the federal government continues to allow, drilling on the 68 oil leases in the Santa Barbara channel."

Suspension of 4 Airlines Requested

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Civil Aeronautics Board's enforcement bureau asked Friday for the suspension of two U.S. supplemental airlines and two foreign lines for alleged illegal transatlantic charter flight operations.

The bureau said it also contemplates the start of court proceedings to collect civil penalties that could go as high as $70 million from the four airlines and one other U.S. supplemental line, all described by one CAB official as "well heeled."

Denies Official 'Gambling' Tag

By DON BRACKENBURY Staff Writer

The would-be operator of "Ringo" filed suit Friday in Superior Court in an effort to force the city to issue him a license for the game, which city officials contend is gambling.

The suit, a petition for a writ of mandate, was filed by attorney William T. Pillsbury on behalf of C. Ray Shira, 123 Junipero Ave.

Named as defendants were the city, members of the City Council, tax collector William R. Ramsdell and city clerk Margaret L. Moore.

The defendants were directed to appear March 6 and show cause why the writ of mandate should not be issued.

The petition states that Shira filed an application last October with Ramsdell, seeking a license to operate "Ringo," which it describes as a "skill game." Ramsdell denied the application.

SHIRA appealed the decision to the City Council, and a hearing was conducted last Oct. 28. Councilmen voted 4-to-3 to grant the permit.

The petition for the writ says the decision came after testimony from the city prosecutor's office and the city attorney and the attorney for the applicant.

"Thereafter, petitioner, in reasonable reliance upon the granting of the license, obligated himself for the purchase and/or leasing equipment for said games, leasing premises and paid the required license fee to the City of Long Beach," the petition declares.

It contends that when the City Council, on Nov. 4, voted to annul its Oct. 28 action, it did so "unlawfully, illegally and without authority."

Councilmen, after the Nov. 4 vote, scheduled a new hearing on Shira's application, which was held Dec. 16, and denied the license.

"Between Oct. 28, 1969, and Dec. 16, 1969, neither the nature of the game 'Ringo,' nor the method of operation was changed," the petition states.

IT FURTHER asserts that the game was not in operation between Oct. 28 and Dec. 16, and that "no evidence or opinions as to the game 'Ringo' were produced that were contrary to those given to the City Council on Oct. 28, 1969."

If Shira is not granted the license, the petition contends, he will be "irreparably damaged in that he will be deprived of the right to engage in a legitimate business enterprise."

The petition asks the court to vacate the "annulment" of the Oct. 28 decision granting the license, and order the city to issue an "amusement license-skill game" for the game "Ringo."

It also asks for "damages in a sum to be established at the time of trial," and court costs.

"Ringo" was described at the October hearing as a modified form of bingo, in which players first attempted to throw a hoop over a post to win cards to play a bingo game.

3 Adrift in Crippled Boat Saved

Three men who had been drifting in a crippled motor boat for about 20 hours off Newport Beach were rescued by a Coast Guard cutter Friday.

A Coast Guard spokesman said the boat was found by the cutter Point Divide, drifting in dense fog about two miles off Newport Beach shortly after 11 a.m.

HE SAID the men were "a little cold and tired" but otherwise in good condition.

The rescued men were the boat's owner, Arthur N. Brock, 26, and Sully Anthony, 75, both of Orange, and Ralph Mauch, about 30, address not given.

They were taken aboard the Point Divide which towed their boat into Newport Beach.

THE THREE men had gone on a fishing trip Thursday morning. They told authorities the outboard motor on their 15-foot boat failed about 3 p.m.

They were reported missing Thursday evening when they failed to return as scheduled, and the Coast Guard launched a search early today, using the Point Divide and a second cutter, Bollard.

The Coast Guard said visibility in the fog was between 500 and 1,000 yards. The boat was located by use of radar equipment aboard the cutter.

Combined News Services

SAIGON — American B-52 Stratofortresses flew bombing missions Friday night over the A Shau Valley, where Communist forces reportedly are staging a buildup for a possible new Tet offensive in the northern sector of South Vietnam. Military spokesmen said the eight-engine bombers dropped 90 tons of explosives on Communist positions in the valley, 375 miles northeast of Saigon. The bombing raids came shortly after U.S. intelligence sources reported a major Communist buildup, including construction of battalion-size base camps. The B-52s also flew raids in the southern sector of the country, dropping 180 tons of bombs on Superstition Mountain 120 miles southwest of Saigon near the Cambodian border.

Debate Rages on Nigeria Aid

LAGOS — Nigeria indicated Friday it knew nothing about and did not need massive U.S. aid for starving civil war refugees. A Lagos newspaper bluntly told U.S. Secretary of State William P. Rogers he was "not welcome" in Nigeria. In Washington, the State Department said Friday that the U.S. had received assurances from Nigerian officials that Rogers will be welcome when he arrives in Lagos. Robert J. McCloskey, official State Department spokesman, said Washington's "greatest concern" was to get aid to victims of the civil war, but "to do so in a manner inconsistent with the Nigerian government's sovereignty is not a realistic alternative" and "only through giving the government our support can we accomplish the task of relief."

Israel, Egypt Report Conflict

TEL AVIV — Israel said its Shadwan Island raiding party came home in victory Friday with a complete radar set. Egypt had used to monitor ship movements in the Red Sea. Egypt claimed its troops drove the invaders into the sea. With both sides issuing conflicting communiques, Israel sent its jet fighter-bombers on attacks that hit targets 12 miles from Cairo. Egypt struck back with air raids against Israeli artillery positions around El Arish in their deepest penetration into Sinai since the war of June 1967.

Women Weep as Letters Denied

VIENTIANE — Four disappointed California women who traveled halfway around the world west Friday as they watched a plane take off for Hanoi without the letters they had written to their husbands in North Vietnamese prisoner of war camps. The women have been refused in all attempts to find out if their husbands are alive or dead. All are listed as missing. The plane headed for Hanoi Friday. The crew of the plane had agreed to carry the letters, then decided the procedure would violate regulations and returned the letters to the women moments before taking off.

Reds Mock Nixon Peace Remark

ARIS — Communist sources Friday mocked President Nixon's State of the Union remark that peace in Vietnam was closer than ever before. A Viet Cong spokesman at the peace conference said Nixon's statement was too optimistic and that he was actually seeking to prolong the war. North Vietnamese sources echoed the condemnation of the Nixon address, delivered to a joint session of Congress.

No Women Priests, Says Rome

VATICAN CITY — The Vatican daily newspaper published an article Friday saying women could not be ordained as Roman Catholic priests. It clearly was a response to increasing speculation in liberal Catholic circles about the possibility of a female priesthood. The article in L'Osservatore Romano said the main reason women could not be ordained was that priests are "other Christs" and Christ was a man.

Yorty Appeals Cartoon Suit Dismissal

Combined News Services

Mayor Sam Yorty said Friday he has appealed a court ruling that dismissed his $2 million libel suit against the Los Angeles Times because of a political cartoon. Superior Court Judge Jerry Pacht, in rejecting the suit last Feb. 18, said the cartoon "In itself was not libelous." The cartoon was drawn by Paul Conrad and published Nov. 19, 1968. It depicted Yorty sitting on a desk and talking on a telephone while four men in white coats beckoned Yorty to come with them. The caption had Yorty saying, "I've got to go now... I've been appointed Secretary of Defense and the Secret Service men are here."

The cartoon was published shortly after President Nixon was elected and was selecting his cabinet. At the time, there was speculation Yorty might be appointed defense secretary. The appeal said the cartoon indicated Yorty was claiming he had been appointed to the post, and in doing so, he was insane. Yorty's attorney said the Mayor never claimed he would be appointed to the post but was "qualified for such an office in view of his military and political background." Judge Pacht ruled that any implication that the mayor's mind was impaired was removed in an editorial that said, in part, the cartoon was published without malice.

Former Indonesian President Sukarno has accepted a request for a divorce Saturday filed by his Japanese wife Ratana Sari Dewi, Kyodo News Service reported Friday in a dispatch from Jakarta. Kyodo said Sukarno signed the request and returned it to Dewi after she asked him for the divorce last November. She sent the document to Sukarno through Indonesian Foreign Minister Adam Malik, who was visiting Japan at the time.

HOUDINI'S PLACE

An attempt to preserve a historical landmark as a home once occupied by the late illusionist Harry Houdini was stymied Friday. Los Angeles Superior Court Judge Richard Schauer rejected a petition to order the city to cease tearing down the Laurel Canyon home now owned by Fania Pearson. The house, damaged by fire in 1939, was condemned as unlivable. Mrs. Pearson bought the property for $75,000 and intended to have the place repaired but the work was delayed. She said the house would be of historical value if refurbished and would be worth $250,000.

JOSEPH SMITH

Joseph Fielding Smith, a tough-minded fundamentalist who is Mormonism's foremost theologian, Friday was chosen president of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. He succeeds David O. McKay, who died Sunday. Smith, 93, was selected by the Mormon Council of the Twelve Apostles, which assumes control at the death of a church president. Smith was the council's president and senior apostle.

SMITH MRS. WOLFF

PORT POSITION

Miriam E. Wolff was named San Francisco Port Director Friday. Mayor Joseph L. Alioto said she will be the first woman to boss a major port. Attractive, auburn-haired Miss Wolff, 53, was named to succeed Rae F. Watts, who has resigned effective May 1 after 10 years in the port's top administrative post. Miss Wolff has been the port's chief counsel.

PARENTS APPEAL

The parents of 14-year-old Ray York were sentenced Friday to 30 days in jail and fined $1,000 each for defying a court's order directing that the boy transfer from a neighborhood school to another Oklahoma City school. U.S. Dist. Court Judge Luther Bohannon suspended the sentence and fine pending an appeal by Mr. and Mrs. Raymond P. York.

JOAN COLLINS

Actress Joan Collins Friday petitioned the Los Angeles Superior Court to dissolve her six-year marriage with actor-director Anthony Newley. Miss Collins complained of "irreconcilable differences." The actress married Newley in Connecticut May 27, 1963. They have two children, Tara, 6, and Alexander, 4.

WEDDING PLANS

Prince Bertil, 58-year-old son of King Gustav VI Adolf of Sweden, said Friday he intends to marry a former British chorus girl he has known for 25 years. The marriage probably will take place next year when his nephew, Prince Carl Gustav, officially becomes crown prince at the age of 25. Bertil, on a visit to London, said he can then relax and go ahead with his marriage to Lillian Craig, London divorcee in her late 40s.

LOUIS WOLFSON

Millionaire financier Louis E. Wolfson will be freed Monday from the federal government's honor prison at Eglin Air Force Base, Fla. Wolfson, whose income was estimated at $2 million a year before he went to prison, is finishing a one-year sentence given him in 1967 for selling unregistered stock in a Florida firm he controlled, Continental Enterprises, Inc. He is appealing an 18-month term on a second conviction.

NOT ENGAGED

Tricia Nixon held up her left hand Friday to show that she wore no ring and isn't engaged to be married. It is a recurring question about the President's daughter. It came up Friday when she posed at the White House with television actress Kathy Garver, national youth chairman of the March of Dimes. A reporter said he had to ask the question. "I know," Tricia replied with a smile. "The day wouldn't be complete without it."

JOHN, YOKO ABSORBED IN FASTING

Beatle John Lennon and his wife Yoko Ono Friday were too absorbed in fasting and meditation to care much about the big fuss over the new Lennon haircuts, Danish associates reported in Fjerritve. The couple was on the fifth day of a 20-day fast. They took little interest in the fact that photographs of their new hairstyles had been distributed worldwide. The photographs were taken by Anthony Cox, Yoko Ono's former husband, who is now host to the Lennons in a remote Jutland farmhouse. Also at the farmhouse are Cox's wife Be-Linda and his 5-year-old daughter by Yoko Ono, Kyoko.

Yorty Appeals Cartoon Suit Dismissal

Combined News Services

Mayor Sam Yorty said Friday he has appealed a court ruling that dismissed his $2 million libel suit against the Los Angeles Times because of a political cartoon. Superior Court Judge Jerry Pacht, in rejecting the suit last Feb. 18, said the cartoon "in itself was not libelous." The cartoon was drawn by Paul Conrad and published Nov. 19, 1968. It depicted Yorty sitting on a desk and talking on a telephone while four men in white coats beckoned Yorty to come with them. The caption had Yorty saying, "I've got to go now. I've been appointed Secretary of Defense and the Secret Service men are here."

The cartoon was published shortly after President Nixon was elected and was selecting his cabinet. At the time, there was speculation Yorty might be appointed defense secretary. The appeal said the cartoon indicated Yorty was claiming he had been appointed to the post, and in doing so, he was insane. Yorty's attorney said the Mayor never claimed he would be appointed to the post but was "qualified for such an office in view of his military and political background." Judge Pacht ruled that any implication that the mayor's mind was impaired was removed in an editorial that said, in part, the cartoon was published without malice.

DIVORCE OK

Former Indonesian President Sukarno has accepted a request for a divorce Saturday filed by his Japanese wife Ratana Sari Dewi, Kyodo News Service reported Friday in a dispatch from Jakarta. Kyodo said Sukarno signed the request, and returned it to Dewi after she asked him for the divorce last November. She sent the document to Sukarno through Indonesian Foreign Minister Adam Malik, who was visiting Japan at the time.

Stratofortresses Pound Red Sites

Combined News Services

SAIGON — American B-52 Stratofortresses flew bombing missions Friday night over the A Shau Valley, where Communist forces reportedly are staging a buildup for a possible new Tet offensive in the northern sector of South Vietnam. Military spokesmen said the eight-engine bombers dropped 90 tons of explosives on Communist positions in the valley, 375 miles northeast of Saigon. The bombing raids came shortly after U.S. intelligence sources reported a major Communist buildup, including construction of battalion-size base camps. The B-52s also flew raids in the southern sector of the country, dropping 180 tons of bombs on Superstition Mountain 120 miles southwest of Saigon near the Cambodian border.

Debate Rages on Nigeria Aid

LAGOS — Nigeria indicated Friday it knew nothing about and did not need massive U.S. aid for starving civil war refugees. A Lagos newspaper bluntly told U.S. Secretary of State William P. Rogers he was "not welcome" in Nigeria. In Washington, the State Department said Friday that the U.S. had received assurances from Nigerian officials that Rogers will be welcome when he arrives in Lagos. Robert J. McCloskey, official State Department spokesman, said Washington's "greatest concern" was to get aid to victims of the civil war, but "to do so in a manner inconsistent with the Nigerian government's sovereignty is not a realistic alternative" and "only through giving the government our support can we accomplish the task of relief."

Israel, Egypt Report Conflict

TEL AVIV — Israel said its Shadwan Island raiding party came home in victory Friday with a complete radar set. Egypt had used to monitor ship movements in the Red Sea. Egypt claimed its troops drove the invaders into the seas. With both sides issuing conflicting communiques, Israel sent its jet fighter-bombers on attacks that hit targets 12 miles from Cairo. Egypt struck back with air raids against Israeli artillery positions around El Arish in their deepest penetration into Sinai since the war of June 1967.

Women Weep as Letters Denied

VIENTIANE — Four disappointed California women who traveled halfway around the world wept Friday as they watched a plane take off for Hanoi without the letters they had written to their husbands in North Vietnamese prisoner of war camps. The women have been rebuffed in all attempts to find out if their husbands are alive or dead. All are listed as missing. The plane headed, or Hanoi Friday. The crew of the plane had agreed to carry the letters, then decided the procedure would violate regulations and returned the letters to the women moments before taking off.

Reds Mock Nixon Peace Remark

ARIS — Communist sources Friday mocked President Nixon's State of the Union remark that peace in Vietnam was closer than ever before. A Viet Cong spokesman at the peace conference said Nixon's statement was too optimistic and that he was actually seeking to prolong the war. North Vietnamese sources echoed the condemnation of the Nixon address, delivered to a joint session of Congress.

No Women Priests, Says Rome

VATICAN CITY — The Vatican daily newspaper published an article Friday saying women could not be ordained as Roman Catholic priests. It clearly was a response to increasing speculation in liberal Catholic circles about the possibility of a female priesthood. The article in L'Osservatore Romano said the main reason women could not be ordained was that priests are "other Christs" and Christ was a man.

NATIONAL

15 States Doubtful of Draft Quota

WASHINGTON — Selective Service officials in 15 states said Friday it was unlikely they would be able to fill their February draft allocations because of federal orders that they go no higher than lottery No. 60. Officials in another 15 states and New York City said they were unable to predict the effect of the ceiling at this time. Officials in 16 states and the District of Columbia said they thought they could meet their quotas. Officials in four states could not be reached for comment. February will be the second month of operation for the new draft system that President Nixon signed in November. Eligibility was determined by a lottery-by-birthday drawing Dec. 1.

10 Accused in IRS Bribe Try

NEW YORK — Ten men, including a reputed Mafia figure from N.Y. were accused Friday by the government of bribing or trying to bribe federal tax officials. The government said some of those arrested tried to recruit Internal Revenue Service employees to get information about tax investigations. Among those arrested was John A. Massiello, Sr., 50, the alleged rackets figure who was convicted of corrupt payments to postal officials. Two carting companies owned by Nicholas Rattenni of Yonkers also were named in the complaint. An IRS intelligence agent and a former agent also were named, the government said.

Snow Plasters Dixie, East

CHICAGO — Southern youngsters had a ball with snowballs Friday. Their dads and mothers slipped and skidded on snow-iced streets and highways. Snow plastered wide areas of the South, shattering traffic and giving thousands of workers and school children an unexpected holiday. North Carolina shut down all state offices in Raleigh because of the weather. State workers in South Carolina's capital, Columbia, were dismissed early. Snow also plastered wide areas of the Great Lakes to the Appalachians. Bitter cold remained entrenched in the East. Two Pittsburgh men died of exposure in subzero temperatures.

Yablonski Probe Starts Tuesday

CLEVELAND — A Federal Grand Jury next Tuesday will start investigating the murder of Joseph A. Yablonski, his wife and daughter, strengthening reports that more suspects will be arrested. Three Ohio men have been charged with the killings. A U.S. attorney said Friday he was prompted to convene the Grand Jury "due to the information presently available to the government."

Claude E. Vealey, 26; Aubran W. Martin, 23, and Paul E. Gilly, 37, all of Cleveland, are being held here and charged with "violently by force" killing Yablonski to prevent him from testifying before a federal Grand Jury investigating last month's union mine workers presidential election. Yablonski lost the union election to incumbent W.A. "Tony" Boyle.

Air Controllers Set to Strike

SAN FRANCISCO — The Professional Air Traffic Controllers are on the verge of a walkout Sunday. PATCO says it could cripple nearly every commercial airport in the country. Wayne Smith, PATCO representative, said the meeting was called to determine what action to take on the "arbitrary transferring" of controllers by the Federal Aviation Administration. F. Lee Bailey, famed lawyer, and PATCO's counsel is scheduled to address a meeting of PATCO directors tonight.

PATCO plans to make a "test case" of the transfer of its 100 per cent membership in Baton Rouge, La., breaking up the organization. The FAA claims that four men were moved to advance their careers.

Southern States May Enter Pasadena School Case

ASKING UNIFORM DESEGREGATION RULES
Attys. Gen. A. F. Summer and Jack Gremillion
—AP Wirephoto

United Press International

The attorneys general of Louisiana, Alabama and Mississippi announced Friday they would try to intervene in a Pasadena school suit to fight an integration deadline.

Basis of their action, they said in New Orleans, is to bring every state, north and south, under uniform federal desegregation standards.

In Washington, Gov. Claude Kirk of Florida filed suit with the Supreme Court to extend a Feb. 1 deadline for integration of his state's schools.

In his petition, Kirk said it would be physically and financially impossible for Florida school authorities to bring about integration of the scope ordered by lower courts before Feb. 1.

HE SAID that the Feb. 1 order applied to Florida, Louisiana, Alabama, Mis-issippi and Georgia would be discriminatory because they would lose their rightful share of federal funds from the Health, Education and Welfare Department for failure to comply with desegregation orders.

He also voiced concern that the integration would require widespread school busing of children from their neighborhoods. Kirk asked the court to block busing in every state in the Union.

The governor gave a spokesman this basis of his appeal: "I am going to be in compliance by Sept. 1 and the rest of the states are not, so you are shipping my (state's tax) money to give to other states not in compliance."

His suit asked that all of the states and HEW Secretary Robert H. Finch be barred "from applying a standard of a unified school system different from that as may be enacted to the State of Florida."

The attorneys general who announced the Pasadena action were Jack P. F. Gremillion of Louisiana, A. F. Summer of Mississippi and Macdonald Gallion of Alabama.

At the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans, they said they intended the Pasadena effort to be the first of a series of legal actions aimed at forcing court-ordered integration in non-Southern communities.

THEY BASED their action on grounds the federal government has initiated anti-segregation action against the California school system.

Gremillion said: "We have already begun a freedom of choice movement to file suits in other parts of the country so that they will either abide by the same constitutional principles that we are forced to abide by or we in turn will have the privilege to abide by their constitutional standards."

"We looked into the school system at Pasadena and it was being run as a segregated system," he added. "All we want is that the same laws applied to us are applied in California."

A U.S. District Court last Tuesday ordered the Pasadena School District to desegregate classes in all elementary, junior high and high schools by September and to submit a plan for implementation by Feb. 16.

Pasadena, with approximately 30,000 Negro students in its schools, is split sharply into white and black residential sections and the basic policy of the district has been to assign children to schools in their neighborhood.

Judge Manuel Real said it was by "understatement" to say there was racial imbalance in the Pasadena schools. He said the realignment must result in no school having a majority of black students.

Gov. John Bell Williams of Mississippi, meanwhile, said the court orders conceivably could result in his ordering some public schools closed.

He told a news conference in Jackson, Miss., he has no intention of using a state law permitting him to close schools but "if worse comes to worse that would be a last resort."

Williams said he has been "barraged" by letters and telegrams from citizens urging him to close all schools.

SUPER WEATHER SATELLITE ZOOMS INTO POLAR ORBIT

Tiros-M, an advanced weather-watching satellite, shot aloft Friday almost exactly on its planned course from the national space agency's Western Test Range at Vandenberg Air Force Base.

The box-shaped, 682-pound vehicle was aimed at a 909-mile-high polar orbit to enable it to view cloud cover over every portion of the earth in daylight at least once every 24 hours.

No Public Funds for Defendant

No public funds will be used to pay attorney's fees for Susan Denise Atkins, charged with the murders of actress Sharon Tate and seven others, a Los Angeles Superior Court judge said Friday.

Presiding Judge Joseph A. Wapner said the woman would be represented by Richard Caballero, a court-appointed attorney, but that Miss Atkins has retained him as private counsel.

Caballero was originally assigned to the case when Miss Atkins was indicted Judge Wapner said, but "there have been reports that part of a large amount assertedly paid her by news media for a story would go to her lawyer."

Caballero said he would not request public attorney fees, Wapner said.

Fall Kills 5th

Transit Victim

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A 60-year-old ironworker died Friday when he fell 20 feet from a steel girder at a Bay Area Rapid Transit construction site near the Civic Center.

Police identified the victim as Albert James Morrow of Project City, near Redding.

Morrow was the fifth workman to die on the BART project since it began in 1963.

from Service Station

Burglars broke a side window to gain entry to the Shady Acres Service Station, 5588 Long Beach Blvd., and stole tires valued at $1,000, police said Friday.

CALSTATE STUDENTS' PLEA DENIED

Demonstration Ban Stays

A temporary restraining order barring demonstrations which "disrupt" normal business at California State College at Long Beach, was continued until Feb. 6 in Los Angeles Superior Court Friday.

The order was issued Jan. 15 after a mass march and 150-student sit-in at the CSLB administration building by students protesting the suspension of two sociology professors.

The professors, Dr. Don Robertson and Prof. Marion Steele, were suspended after they illustrated a Jan. 12 lecture on "the myth of obscenity" with nude models and films depicting sex acts.

Twenty students went to court Friday to seek rescission of the order. They included Tom Blackburn, leader of the radically-oriented Oct. 24 Coalition, who is named with other students — including 500

"John Does" — as defendants.

Blackburn called the restraining order, requested by the state college Board of Trustees, "unconstitutional and a denial of our basic rights."

"We have 300 signatures of students who want to be identified as John Does in this action," Blackburn said.

A three-member faculty committee began meeting at CSLB this week to investigate Robertson and Steele's controversial Jan. 12 obscenity lecture.

The panel, headed by Dr. Ralph Allen of the English department, will report before Feb. 10. It recommends a formal hearing a second three-man panel will be chosen for that purpose.

The investigative committee includes Allen, Dr. Clyde R. McCone, anthropology, and Dr. Hubert Hall, marketing.

Panthers Ordered to Trial

Eighteen Black Panther members Friday were ordered held for Los Angeles Superior Court trial on felony charges resulting from police raids last Dec. 8 at three party locations.

Municipal Court Judge James Harvey Brown made the ruling after a preliminary hearing which began Jan. 6.

The judge ordered the defendants to appear Feb. 6 in Superior Court, Dept. 100, for arraignment.

The jurist held there was sufficient evidence to hold 11 of the defendants on a charge of conspiracy to murder police officers.

A conviction on this charge carries a possible death penalty. Judge Brown refused to allow bond for eight of the 11 defendants. He set bail for the remainder in amounts ranging from $10,000 to $100,000.

Before ruling that the defendants should be held for trial, Judge Brown declared the police searches at the three locations were legal and that evidence seized is admissible.

Submachine guns, Molotov cocktails, pipe bombs, incendiary ammunition and guerrilla warfare documents allegedly were seized in the raids.

Marketing Bureau

Appoints New Chief

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Vernon L. Shabazian, 47, has been appointed chief of the bureau of marketing for the Department of Agriculture, Jerry W. Fielder, department director, said Friday.

Shabazian, who joined the department in 1952, succeeds Harry J. Krade, who was recently assistant director for marketing services.

Younger Rips Gas Chamber Crime Solution by 'Phonies'

By BOB HOUSER
Political Editor

Beware of "phonies" who would solve crime with the gas chamber, Los Angeles County Dist. Atty. Evelle J. Younger, a Republican candidate for attorney general, told the Long Beach Lions Club Friday.

Younger said he's glad the pendulum is swinging toward the public demand for a no-nonsense attitude toward crime but "giving 20 years to every kid caught smoking marijuana" is not the answer although "it may get you some good headlines."

THERE ARE just "too damn many people," he said. The principal crime-committing age group, 14 to 29, grew by 110 per cent in the last 10 years, he said, while general population increased only 50 per cent, "so a crime increase was inevitable." The same age group, even in the time of the Pharos was responsible for 75 per cent of the crime, he said.

The only thing provable by statistics, with regard to punishment, said Younger, is that the criminal is more apt to repeat his crimes if he is given (1) the maximum sentence, or (2) is put on straight probation. "And so the proper penalty is somewhere in between."

The 1970's attack on crime, he said, must include a progressive approach, an imaginative attitude. "Law enforcement officers, judges and lawyers must be willing to explore new ideas. We are wedded to the past in our profession, and judges are the worst of all."

Rather than thinking something is automatically right because it has been done for 50 years, he said, "the approach over the next few years should be 'if we've been doing it for 50 years, it must be wrong.'"

Younger advocates strengthening law enforcement across the board, modernizing penal laws, community involvement and space age techniques in the fight against crime.

Among reforms he suggested are legalization of wire tapping and electronic surveillance, authorization for telephonic search warrants and reform of the bail system.

HIS PROPOSAL for bail reform would enlarge the use of release on a defendant's own recognizance, rather than require money bail, and would permit judges to set conditions for release. If a condition is violated, the offender could be sentenced on both the charged offense and the bail violation, sentences to be served consecutively.

It also would permit a judge to deny bail outright to protect the community from a dangerous offender or to protect a defendant's own safety. He cited the Sirhan Sirhan case as an example of the latter. A judge's only present resort, he said, is to set bail at an astronomical figure which "is an abuse" of the bail system.

The judge said he intends to order the simultaneous trials of Beausoleil and the defendants in the Tate-LaBianca slayings, including the 35-year-old Manson and Susan Atkins, 21, in separate courtrooms.

Keene said arrangements would make it possible to shield the jurors in both cases from undue publicity.

Beausoleil Retrial Set for Los Angeles

The retrial of 21-year-old Rober Beausoleil for the July, 1969 slaying of Malibu musician Gary Hinman, 34, will be held in Los Angeles, Superior Court Judge William B. Keene ruled Friday.

Keene turned down a defense motion that the trial be held elsewhere because Beausoleil, in his first trial, had been linked with the Charles Manson hippie clan, which his attorney said had been given "excessive" publicity in the Sharon Tate and LaBianca murder cases.

Beausoleil's first trial for the death of Hinman ended in a hung jury last July.

Keene set March 30 for retrial and said if there is any question about the de-

MUSSEL, CLAM BAN LIFTED

The ban on mussels was lifted Friday, according to County Health Officer Gerald H. Heidbreder, who urged shellfish fanciers to use caution when eating the fish. His warning also included clams.

Dr. Heidbreder suggested all clam and mussel dark meat be discarded because it is that portion of the sea animals that contains toxin.

Mussels and clams should be cooked at high temperature and never eaten raw, only a moderate amount of the fish should be consumed, and brouillon or broth in which the shellfish have been cooked should be discarded, he said.

Dr. Heidbreder said the fish are being tested constantly and that the quarantine will be reimposed if toxin levels increase above hazard levels before May 1.

Senate Votes Approval of Anticrime Bill

New York Times Service

WASHINGTON — The Senate approved by a 73-1 vote Friday a sweeping revision of criminal laws and procedures designed to provide new legal weapons in the battle against organized crime.

The bill, which now goes to the House, was the first major new piece of legislation to be adopted by the Senate, and it was rushed through in three days of debate as both congressional Democrats and the Administration jostled for political advantage on the anti-crime issue.

Both sides can and probably will take credit for the measure, which would broaden federal jurisdiction over gambling, attack racketeer infiltration of businesses and close what are described as defects in the present evidence-gathering process in organized crime investigations.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Mayor Walter Washington Friday outlined a $12.5-million-a-year program to help fight crime in the nation's capital. He said the plan has the wholehearted support of President Nixon. Heart of the program would be an increase in the uniformed police force from 3,900 to 5,100 men by July 30. The program would also increase facilities for treating narcotics addicts and would help streamline the court system.

The measure incorporates proposals made by President Nixon in his organized crime control message to Congress last April, such as provisions granting immunity to witnesses and making it a federal felony to engage in large-scale gambling or to obstruct enforcement of state and local gambling laws.

BUT THE bill also embracing process in organized crime investigations. The measure incorporates proposals made by President Nixon in his organized crime control message to Congress last April, such as provisions granting immunity to witnesses and making it a federal felony to engage in large-scale gambling or to obstruct enforcement of state and local gambling laws.

Nixon Joins Family at Camp David

WASHINGTON — President Nixon left the White House Friday afternoon for an overnight stay at Camp David. He will return before going to Philadelphia this evening.

Mrs. Nixon and their daughter, Julie, and her husband, David Eisenhower, drove to Camp David, the presidential retreat near Thurmont, Md., Thursday afternoon.

Nixon plans to return today, then go by train to Philadelphia for a concert marking the 113th anniversary of the Philadelphia Academy of Music. Mrs. Nixon will accompany him.

They will travel on a special coach of the Metroliner, a new high-speed train which runs between Washington and New York.

SONAR GEAR CAN TELL WHALE FROM SUBMARINE

WASHINGTON — The Navy reported Friday some of its scientists may have scored a breakthrough toward allowing sonar to distinguish more effectively between a whale and a submarine.

The service's Oceanographic Office did so in reporting what a spokesman said is believed to be the first visual verification of a whale as long-suspected cause of certain sonar "pings" picked up by Navy destroyers.

The report said the Navy destroyer USS Basilone, operating off the Rhode Island coast several months ago, sighted five finback whales after tracking some suspicious sonar echoes to their source.

Without saying whether the Navy has had any real trouble in differentiating between whales and submarines by means of sonar equipment, the report said the Basilone's tape-recorded evidence could lead to learning definitely "what a whale looks like on sonar equipment."

This, in turn, could lead to classifying various bodies many other provisions, many as controversial and as sweeping as those proposed by the Administration, that were authored by the Democratic-controlled Senate Judiciary Committee. Sen. Hugh Scott, the Senate Republican Leader, gave credit to both sides Friday by saying the bill was worked out on "a bipartisan basis" by the Senate Judiciary Committee on the basis of recommendations made by the President.

With the President chiding Congress, as he did in his State of the Union message, for failing to act thus far on any of his anti-crime bills, the Senate Democratic leadership was in an evident hurry to push through the measure over the objections of a small group of Democratic liberals. With the organized crime bill out of the way, the Senate leadership immediately called up another modified version of an Administration bill dealing with drug control.

While entitled "The Organized Crime Control Act" and ostensibly designed to deal with the problems of organized crime, the bill goes much further in making substantive changes in criminal procedures and laws.

In a letter distributed to all senators, the American Civil Liberties Union protested that the measure presented "serious constitutional problems" and would make "drastic incursions on the civil liberties of everyone, not just members of organized crime."

IN CONTRAST to two years ago when the Senate debated at length the constitutionality of various provisions of the omnibus crime control bill, the Senate, however, was in no mood to discuss the legalities of the complex, 99-page organized crime bill. As one frustrated Democratic liberal complained privately: "The crime issue has become too political to mount much of a fight."

The only senator to vote against the measure on final passage was Sen. Lee Metcalf. The Montana Democrat, who is regarded as one of the Senate's leading constitutional lawyers, offered no explanation on the floor for his vote.

Later, however, he told a reporter that he was aware of the political risks of voting against the measure but felt it was "the wrong way to curb crime to take away the basic rights of individuals."

"I stand here as a senator ready to vote for more judges, more policemen on the streets, more grants in aid to sheriffs and municipalities to help them train their police services," he declared. "But I feel this will take away individual constitutional rights that will not contribute to the law enforcement that we seek."

SILVER HAMMER STRIKES NOTE OF AWARENESS

THE CALIFORNIA 'SYMBOL OF FORESIGHT' Laird Sees Nuclear Ship as Challenge to Russia

By LOU CANNON
From Our National Bureau

NEWPORT NEWS, Va. — Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird, using the language of his command-in-chief for a different purpose, Friday issued a "challenge of the 70s" to the Soviet Union in the race for nuclear naval supremacy.

The Laird challenge came at the historic keel-laying of the nuclear-powered, guided-missile frigate California, at a ceremony here that also celebrated a naval triumph over congressional critics.

The lady who "authenticated" the keel — driving the date in the metal of the ship with a die and silver hammer — was Mrs. Glennard P. Lipscomb, wife of the ranking Republican member of the defense subcommittee of the House Appropriations Committee. Rep. Lipscomb, who is ill, was unable to be present, but his warning that the U.S. must maintain nuclear parity with the Soviet Union was engraved on a plaque embedded into the keel.

"Future generations of Americans will recognize it was Congress that had the foresight, wisdom and courage to take this initiative to strengthen the defense of our nation," reads the Lipscomb quotation, taken from a 1966 speech urging new expenditures on a nuclear navy.

Laird sounded the same theme in his address.

"The additional radius of action which the California and her successors will provide to naval forces will be of great value to the defense of our country and the defense of our allies," he said.

"This is particularly important as we face the inescapable reality of a growing Soviet navy expanding its seapower around the world. The Soviet navy is now second in power only to our own."

"As we make major reductions in the defense budget, we must guard against impairing our research and development programs and endangering a ship modernization program that is vitally needed as we face the challenge of the 1970s."

President Nixon used the "challenge" theme Thursday in referring to the problems that confront America in our society's effort to preserve the environment and a peaceful world.

In the invocation, delivered by Atlantic Fleet Chaplain Francis L. Garrett, the California was referred to as a "ship of war" that would serve as "an instrument of peace."

The California, scheduled for delivery in July 1972, will carry two Tartar surface-to-air missile launchers and boast advanced antiaircraft, anti-submarine and electronic warfare systems.

The designation "frigate" is somewhat misleading. With a displacement of 10,000 tons, a length of 596 feet and a speed of more than 30 knots, the California is larger and faster than any of the cruisers deployed by the U.S. Navy in World War II.

Traditionally, state names have been reserved for battleships, but the last battleship, New Jersey, has been retired from the fleet.

Five previous American naval ships have borne the designation California, the fifth and most famous of which was the battleship severely damaged in the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor, which subsequently earned seven battle stars in the Pacific. It was scrapped in 1959.

The primary advantage of the nuclear frigate over conventional destroyers and cruisers is that it can operate independently of refueling ships.

This was dramatically demonstrated by the nuclear cruiser Long Beach last year, when it made a nonstop voyage from the Philippines to Long Beach in 10½ days.

The Long Beach cost $250 million, and the cost of the smaller California at delivery time is estimated at $200 million. But cost overruns will probably boost the latter figure.

Capt. James Wilson, former executive officer on the Long Beach, was on hand for Friday's ceremonies along with two Southern California congressmen, Rep. Craig Hosmer, R-Long Beach, and Rep. H. Allen Smith, R-Glendale.

Study Shows Pill Users Likely 'Cancer-Prone'

WASHINGTON — Preliminary findings of a government-backed study indicate women who decide to use birth control pills may be more cancer-prone than others, Congress was told Friday.

"If further analysis confirms this observation," said Dr. Philip A. Corfman, "it will mean that women who choose oral contraceptives are somehow different from women who choose other methods — even before the medication is begun."

Corfman, director of the Center for Population Research at the National Institute of Child Health, testified before the Senate monopoly subcommittee.

Dr. Daniel Seigel, a statistician who works with Corfman, said that among the differences that could make women wanting to use the pill more prone to cancer are frequency of intercourse and number of partners.

CORFMAN said the study was one of three supported by the government designed to provide information on whether oral contraceptives increase the risk of cancer.

Corfman and Seigel testified as the subcommittee, headed by Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., concluded the first phase of what is expected to be several months of hearings into safety of birth control pills.

The final session was disrupted by a group of young women representing the Washington Women's Liberation who jumped in the midst of Corfman's testimony and began shouting questions.

Some of the group have been present at all five sessions the subcommittee has held so far and have heckled Nelson and witnesses off and on. This time, however, they refused to sit down and Nelson ordered the room cleared. Only newsmen were allowed to re-enter.

Major complaint of the young women, there appeared to be between eight and a dozen, is that no women were among the 18 witnesses who have been called to testify.

At the outset of Friday's hearing they handed out a document citing numerous suspected side effects from the pill. Each sheet had a pill taped to it.

"WE ARE not opposed to oral contraceptives for men or for women," their statement said. "We are opposed to unsafe contraceptives foisted on uninformed women for the profit of the drug and medical industries and for the convenience of men."

Corfman said the West Coast study on cervical cancer is a four-year project, now in its third year. He said the study had suggested that cervical dysplasia, an alteration in the appearance of the cervix, is more common among women who choose oral contraceptives than women who choose other methods.

"Since many investigators believe that cancer of the cervix may originate as cervical dysplasia, information from this study on progression rates will have relevance to the question of whether oral contraceptives increase the risk of cervical cancer," he said.

Corfman appeared with Dr. William N. Spellacy, of the University of Miami School of Medicine, and Dr. Hilton A. Salhanick of Harvard University. Most of Friday's testimony hinged on how birth control pills change the body chemistry and arouse suspicions that they can cause liver damage, vascular disease and diabetes. All three agreed that the pill can aggravate any existing disorder in these areas. They also agreed that the pill contributes to startling changes in body chemistry.

They said, however, that it has not been proven that these changes in body chemistry could lead to lasting or harmful effects.

"It is very difficult to say whether the pill causes diabetes or just causes changes," said Salhanick.

Education Bill OK Challenges Nixon

WASHINGTON — The Senate Labor and Public Welfare Committee recommended to the Senate Friday a massive $35-billion education bill going far beyond President Nixon's recommendations.

The effect of the panel's approval of the bill with bipartisan support is to mount a sharp challenge to the President on an issue over which he already is embroiled in a dispute with Congress.

The principal provisions of the bill extend for four years the 1965 Elementary and Secondary Education Act, the largest program of federal aid to education. The Administration asked for a two-year extension and for no expansion of present authorizations pending a complete review of the effectiveness of the programs.

The bill also would broaden greatly the impacted areas program of aid to school districts crowded because of federal installations. Nixon had asked, on the contrary, that this program be cut back sharply.

Providing federal funds for education is a two-step process.

First there must be an authorization of funds which may cover several years; such legislation is handled in the Senate by the Labor and Public Welfare Committee, which sets the amounts it thinks are needed for various programs in each year.

Then Congress votes the actual cash in annual appropriations bills.

Many new federal aid programs to benefit trade and high schools as well as colleges and universities were passed in the Kennedy and Johnson administrations.

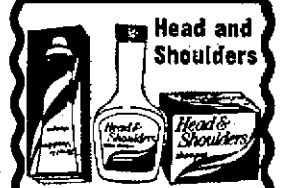

Thus the total authorization for all education aid in the current financial year is $9 billion.

But the actual money provided has been far less. Nixon is seeking for the present year — fiscal 1970 — $3.1 billion, or only a third of the authorizations.

Congress rejected his figures and added more than a billion dollars for education to a pending appropriations measure. Even so, its total would be less than half the authorizations.

This bill is about to be sent to the White House; Nixon has announced he will veto it.

Southern States May Enter Pasadena School Case

CAL-STATE STUDENTS' PLEA DENIED

Demonstration Ban Stays

A temporary restraining order barring demonstrations which "disrupt" normal business at California State College at Long Beach, was continued until Feb. 6 in Los Angeles Superior Court Friday.

The order was issued Jan. 15 after a mass march and 150-student sit-in at the CSLB administration building by students protesting the suspension of two sociology professors.

The professors, Dr. Don Robertson and Prof. Marion Steele, were suspended after they illustrated a Jan. 12 lecture on "the myth of obscenity" with nude models and films depicting sex acts.

Twenty students went to court Friday to seek rescission of the order. They included Tom Blackburn, leader of the radically-oriented Oct. 24 Coalition, who is named with other students — including 500

"John Does" — as defendants.

Blackburn called the restraining order, requested by the state college Board of Trustees, "unconstitutional and a denial of our basic rights."

"We have 300 signatures of students who want to be identified as John Does in this action," Blackburn said.

A three-member faculty committee begin meeting at CSLB this week to investigate Robertson and Steele's controversial Jan. 12 obscenity lecture.

The panel, headed by Dr. Ralph Allen of the English department, will report before Feb. 10. If it recommends a formal hearing, a second three-man panel will be chosen for that purpose.

The investigative committee includes Allen, Dr. Clyde R. McCone, anthropology, and Dr. Hubert Hall, marketing.

from that as may be enunciated to the State of Florida."

The attorneys general who announced the Pasadena action were Jack P. F. Gremillion of Louisiana, A. F. Summer of Mississippi and Mac Donald Gallion of Alabama.

At the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans, they said they intended the Pasadena effort to be the first of a series of legal actions aimed at forcing court-ordered integration in non-Southern communities.

THEY BASED their action on grounds the federal government has initiated anti-segregation action against the California school system.

Gremillion said: "We have already begun... a freedom of choice movement to file suits in other parts of the country so that they will either abide by the same constitutional principles that we are forced to abide by or we in turn will have the privilege to abide by their constitutional standards."

"We looked into the school system at Pasadena and it was being run as a segregated system," he added. "All we want is that the same laws applied to us are applied in California."

A U.S. District Court last Tuesday ordered the Pasadena School District to desegregate classes in all elementary, junior high and high schools by September and to submit a plan for implementation by Feb. 16.

Pasadena, with approximately 30,000 Negro students in its schools, is split sharply into white and black residential sections and the basic policy of the district has been to assign children to schools in their neighborhood.

Judge Manuel Real said it was by "understatement" to say there was racial imbalance in the Pasadena schools. He said the realignment must result in no school having a majority of black students.

Gov. John Bell Williams of Mississippi, meanwhile, said the court orders conceivably could result in his ordering some public schools closed.

He told a news conference in Jackson, Miss., he has no intention of using a state law permitting him to close schools but "if worse comes to worse that would be a last resort."

Williams said he has been "bombed" by letters and telegrams from citizens urging him to close all schools.

SUPER WEATHER SATELLITE ZOOMS INTO POLAR ORBIT

Tiros-M, an advanced weather-watching satellite, shot aloft Friday almost exactly on its planned course from the national space agency's Western Test Range at Vandenberg Air Force Base.

The box-shaped, 682-pound vehicle was aimed at a 909-mile-high polar orbit to enable it to view cloud cover over every portion of the earth in daylight at least once every 24 hours.

Firing of the McDonnell Douglas Delta booster rocket came at 3:31 a.m., after two delays due to technical problems earlier in the week.

The RCA-built satellite achieved a near-circular orbit with an altitude of 918 miles at its highest point and 890 at the lowest. Spokesmen said it is scheduled to begin taking weather pictures within a week.

new weather sentinel is designed to collect more information than two of the current satellites performing environmental services. He said Tiros-M will save the cost of at least one spacecraft and one launch vehicle and supporting services annually.

Circling the earth every 115 minutes, Tiros-M carries four television cameras, two infra-red scanners for night pictures, a monitor to record solar flares and a radiometer to measure the absorption and radiation of heat on the earth's surface.

No Public Funds for Defendant

No public funds will be used to pay attorney's fees for Susan Denise Atkins, charged with the murders of actress Sharon Tate and seven others, a Los Angeles Superior Court judge said Friday.

Presiding Judge Joseph A. Wapner said the woman would be presented by Richard Caballero, a court-appointed attorney, but that Miss Atkins has retained him as private counsel.

Caballero was originally assigned to the case when Miss Atkins was indigent Judge Wapner said, but "there have been reports that part of a large amount assertedly paid her by news media for a story would go to her lawyer."

Caballero said he would not request public attorney fees, Wapner said.

Fall Kills 5th Transit Victim

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A 60-year-old ironworker died Friday when he fell 20 feet from a steel girder at a Bay Area Rapid Transit construction site near the Civic Center.

Police identified the victim as Albert James Morrow of Project City, near Redding.

Morrow was the fifth workman to die on the BART project since it began in 1963.

$1,000 Tires Stolen from Service Station

Burglars broke a side window to gain entry to the Shady Acres Service Station, 5588 Long Beach Blvd., and stole tires valued at $1,000, police said Friday.

Panthers Ordered to Trial

Eighteen Black Panther members Friday were ordered held for Los Angeles Superior Court trial on felony charges resulting from police raids last Dec. 8 at three party locations.

Municipal Court Judge James Harvey Brown made the ruling after a preliminary hearing which began Jan. 6.

The judge ordered the defendants to appear Feb. 6 in Superior Court, Dept. 100, for arraignment.

The jurist held there was sufficient evidence to hold 11 of the defendants on a charge of conspiracy to murder police officers. A conviction on this charge carries a possible death penalty. Judge Brown refused to allow bond for eight of the 11 defendants. He set bail for the remainder in amounts ranging from $10,000 to $100,000.

Before ruling that the defendants should be held for trial, Judge Brown declared the police searches at the three locations were legal and that evidence seized is admissible.

Submachine guns, Molotov cocktails, pipe bombs, incendiary ammunition and guerrilla warfare documents allegedly were seized in the raids.

Marketing Bureau Appoints New Chief

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Vernon L. Shabazian, 47, has been appointed chief of the bureau of marketing for the Department of Agriculture, Jerry W. Fiedler, department director, said Friday.

Shabazian, who joined the department in 1952, succeeds Harry J. Krade, who was recently assistant director for marketing services.

MUSSEL, CLAM BAN LIFTED

The ban on mussels was lifted Friday, according to County Health Officer Gerald H. Heidbreder, who urged shellfish fanciers to use caution when eating the fish. His warning also included clams.

Younger Rips Gas Chamber Crime Solution by 'Phonies'

By BOB HOUSER
Political Editor

Beware of "phonies" who would solve crime with the gas chamber, Los Angeles County Dist. Atty. Evelle J. Younger, a Republican candidate for attorney general, told the Long Beach Lions Club Friday.

Younger said he's glad the pendulum is swinging toward the public demand for a no-nonsense attitude toward crime but "giving 20 years to every kid caught smoking marijuana" is not the answer although "it may get you some good headlines."

THERE ARE just "too damn many people," he said. The principal crime-committing age group, 14 to 29, grew by 110 per cent in the last 10 years, he said, while general population increased only 50 per cent, "so a crime increase was inevitable." The same age group, even in the time of the Pharaohs was responsible for 75 per cent of the crime, he said.

The only thing provable by statistics, with regard to punishment, said Younger, is that the criminal is more apt to repeat his crimes if he is given (1) the maximum sentence, or (2) is put on straight probation. "And so the proper penalty is somewhere in between."

The 1970's attack on crime, he said, must include a progressive approach, an imaginative attitude. "Law enforcement officers, judges and lawyers must be willing to explore new ideas. We are wedded to the past in our profession, and judges are the worst of all."

Rather than thinking something is automatically right because it has been done for 50 years, he said, "the approach over the next few years should be 'if we've been doing it for 50 years, it must be wrong.'"

Younger advocates strengthening law enforcement across the board, modernizing penal laws, community involvement and space age techniques in the fight against crime.

Among reforms he suggested are legalization of wire tapping and electronic surveillance, authorization for telephonic search warrants and reform of the bail system.

HIS PROPOSAL for bail reform would enlarge the use of release on a defendant's own recognizance, rather than require money bail, and would permit judges to set conditions for release. If a condition is violated, the offender could be sentenced on both the charged offense and the bail violation, sentences to be served consecutively.

It also would permit a judge to deny bail outright to protect the community from a dangerous offender or to protect a defendant's own safety. He cited the Sirhan Sirhan case as an example of the latter. A judge's only present resort, he said, is to set bail at an astronomical figure which "is an abuse" of the bail system.

defendant getting a fair hearing, it can be determined during the questioning of prospective jurors.

The judge said he intends to order the simultaneous trials of Beausoleil and the defendants in the Tate-LaBianca slayings, including the 35-year-old Manson and Susan Atkins, 21, in separate courtrooms.

Keene said arrangements would make it possible to shield the jurors in both cases from undue publicity.

Beausoleil is not charged in the Tate-LaBianca murders, but testimony at his first trial linked him with Manson and the Spahn Ranch at Chatsworth, where the Manson "family" lived for a time.

Beausoleil's first trial for the death of Hinman ended in a hung jury last July.

Keene set March 30 for retrial and said if there is any question about the de-

Beausoleil Retrial Set for Los Angeles

The retrial of 21-year-old Rober Beausoleil for the July, 1969 slaying of Malibu musician Gary Hinman, 34, will be held in Los Angeles, Superior Court Judge William B. Keene ruled Friday.

Keene turned down a defense motion that the trial be held elsewhere because Beausoleil, in his first trial, had been linked with the Charles Manson hippie clan, which his attorney said had been given "excessive" publicity in the Sharon Tate and LaBianca murder cases.

Beausoleil's first trial for the death of Hinman ended in a hung jury last July.

Keene set March 30 for retrial and said if there is any question about the de-because it is that portion of the sea animals that contains toxin.

Mussels and clams should be cooked at high temperature and never eaten raw, only a moderate amount of the fish should be consumed, and bouillon or broth in which the shellfish have been cooked should be discarded, he said.

Dr. Heidbreder said the fish are being tested constantly and that the quarantine will be reimposed if toxin levels increase above hazard levels before May 1.

dent Nixon's proposals inadequate, called Friday for a five-year, $12.5 billion federal contribution toward cleaning up the nation's waterways.

"At some point you've got to have the money, the manpower and the resources to do the job," Muskie said. "You don't get it simply by exhorting housewives to clean up their living rooms."

The 1968 Democratic vice presidential candidate, one of the Senate's most ardent antipollution crusaders, said Nixon's State of the Union promise of $10 billion in five years for clean water had raised "great expectations" but fell short of what Congress already has authorized.

Muskie said Nixon actually would provide only $4 billion in federal funds over nine years, or 40 per cent federal financing of municipal waste treatment plants. The senator proposed 50 per cent federal financing in five years of a $25 billion program, starting with $2 billion next year.

Muskie called for an additional $1 billion in five years to combat air pollution and another $800 million for reclaiming resources from solid wastes. This would bring Muskie's plan to nearly $15 billion.

"We cannot afford to spend less," Muskie said. "The environment will not wait for our priorities to be reordered themselves."

The White House said Nixon's pollution control message would be among the first to go to Congress, some time next month. Administration officials said his plan would average about $445 million a year in federal clean-water grants to the cities. Congress last year appropriated $800 million for this purpose — $586 million more than Nixon had asked.

Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott said Nixon's plan would embody the concept that "those who contribute to the problem ought to contribute to the solution."

Scott added there was no thought of establishing a "pollution tax" or fee on industries which pollute rivers and streams, as proposed by Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis.

Scott hinted, though, that the Nixon approach would allow states and localities to impose such a fee.

federal moratorium on drilling similar to the one the state recently declared. The request for it should come from the governor but, so far, he has appeared reluctant to ask for it.

"The time is now ripe. We need action and we need it before the November elections."

"If we delay beyond that time we will have lost our opportunity."

PETRIE ADDED, later in the meeting, that he did not believe legislative action would accomplish what was necessary and called for President Nixon to declare the moratorium. Seal Beach City Manager Lee Risner reviewed legislation affecting oil drilling and called for unity among the cities and counties in backing new legislation during the present sessions and the state and national legislatures.

"Because of extreme pressures from other quarters," Risner told the group, "we must all act together to support legislation that helps solve the problems."

Victor C. Andrews, Laguna Beach president of the Coastal Area Protective League, asked for strong support of Senate Bill 3093, authorized by California Senator Allan Cranston and supported by Sen. George Murphy, R-Calif.

would extend protection from drilling in the waters off shore from any of the California marine sanctuaries where drilling is now prohibited.

At present there are no federal restrictions beyond the three-mile limit and since the state has no jurisdiction, the effect of the sanctuaries can be nullified by drilling in federal-ly-controlled waters.

"I think this bill has a chance of passing," Andrews said, "but only if we all get behind it and back it."

At the afternoon session the group informally supported the Cranston bill and was urged by Hurlburt to review the discussion at the meeting and make their views on upcoming legislation known.

"We hope we can come up with certain bills that all the cities including those that already have off-shore drilling and those that do not, can agree to give their full support," he said.

Andrews urged that all the cities and counties discuss the problems with their representatives and urge them to give, not only verbal support, but active support in the form of contributions.

He proposed that a fund be set up, to be administered by the County of Orange, to fight for passage of proper legislation in Washington.

No formal action was taken on the matter but Hurlburt told the group the question would be discussed, and presumably decided, at the group's next meeting.

jeered the Knox to "near-miss" tests, and failures occurred in government-furnished equipment more susceptible to shock than the machinery and steel structure of the ship itself.

The ship survived the tests to the "complete satisfaction of naval authorities," Gilbride said.

(In an exclusive interview with the skipper of the USS Knox, as reported in this newspaper Dec. 31, it was learned the ship was fit for sea duty when delivered to the Navy by Todd, which had constructed the vessel at its Seattle yards.

(Commander William A. Lamm, captain of the Knox, told The Independent, Press-Telegram the vessel was a "good ship" and lauded its designers for providing the Navy with a versatile vessel that readily could be altered for adaptation to new weapons systems.)

GILBRIDE blamed delivery of the ship without torpedo tubes, drone helicopters and sonar equipment to the Navy, saying the service made the decision to postpone installation of the equipment, after delivery, at a minimum cost.

The Fanning was scheduled to be christened in a traditional, champagne ceremony by Mrs. Robert H. Lathrop, a descendant of Lt. Nathaniel Fanning, a Revolutionary War hero after whom the ship was named.

The destroyer escort is 438 feet long, weighs 3,877 tons and can attain 27 knots. Also scheduled to attend the launching were Rep. Alphonzo Bell, R-Los Angeles, Rear Adm. John W. Dolan and Andrew Pettis, president of the Industrial Union of Marine and Shipbuilding Workers of America.

replies, and the CAB eventually will hold formal hearings if necessary. An adverse ruling by the board can be appealed to the U.S. Court of Appeals here.

Richard J. O'Melia, the CAB's director of enforcement, said the actions were the result of months of investigation of complaints of illegal pro rata charter flights between the U.S. West Coast and Europe.

UNDER CAB and other federal regulations, air charters are available primarily to clubs and organizations established for purposes other than chartering and only to regular members of these groups.

Instead, the bureau charged, the airlines named in the complaints carried members of the general public under the guise of these so-called pro rata flights. (The term pro rata refers to the fact each passenger on the flight pays an equal share of the cost of the flight and the club they belong to is not permitted to charge any extra to turn a profit.)

SING-OUT HELD FOR CLEAN-UP

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP) — Northwestern University students launched a "sing-out" and "sing-out" for a healthier environment Friday night. It was the first of a series of antipollution sessions planned on campuses nationwide.

Organizers of the all-night event adopted much the same "teach-in" format as used in recent years to mobilize students against the Vietnam war. Observers were on hand from other Midwestern colleges and universities.

The list of speakers included: Adlai Stevenson III, state treasurer of Illinois; Lt. Gov. Paul Simon and Dr. Barry Commoner, director of the Center for the Biology of Natural Systems at Washington University, St. Louis; Dr. Lamont Cole, Cornell University ecologist and Dr. Peter Flawn, University of Texas geologist.

A $1,000 supply of coffee and doughnuts was laid in to keep participants awake and refueled from 7 p.m. Friday to 6 a.m. today in the university's Technological Institute.

Sponsor of the event was Northwestern Students for a Better Environment, with Evanston area residents participating. James Reisa, a student who helped organize the project, said "the teach-in is called a 'teach-out' in order to dramatize its environmental aspects — all interested public are invited as the university reaches out into its own environment."

Fog-Bound
from L.A.

A United Air Lines DC-8 circled Los Angeles International Airport for 90 minutes Friday, waiting for visibility to improve so it could land.

But the combination of what a weather forecaster called "haze, smog, industrial smoke and marine air" did not lift, and the jet was diverted to Palm-dale Airport.

Flight controllers refused to let the jet land at International Airport because the pilot, R.B. Cassidy of New York, had a rating which precluded his landing in visibility of less than 5,000 feet.

The 20 passengers waited in the plane at Palm-dale while the aircraft was refueled. But before it could take off, darkness closed in and the airport was shut down for the night.

The passengers were taken to Los Angeles by bus.

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Nearly 30 state legislators have proposed a constitutional amendment in reaction to the Angela Davis-University of California case.

Sen. William E. Coombs, R-Rialto, principal author of the amendment, said any person who "knowingly and wilfully advocates the overthrow of the state or federal government by lawless action" will be prohibited from employment by the University of California if the amendment is adopted.

"WE VIEWED with sadness the harm to a great university that can be done by a few misguided people," Coombs said, referring to Miss Davis, an admitted communist who was employed by the university.

He said the amendment will provide a much-needed step toward removal of the special immunity now granted by the State Constitution to the University of California, which the university has so clearly shown in recent years that it does not deserve."

COOMBS ALSO has introduced legislation permitting employers under the Labor Code to discharge employees who take time off without permission to engage in political demonstrations.

a Nobel Prize-winning chemist told a UC Irvine audience Friday.

Dr. Willard Libby, speaking at the UCI engineering school, said since no rain falls in the stratosphere, exhaust-polluted air could remain there forever.

He called for in-depth research on the exhaust danger.

Dr. Libby, a UCLA professor who serves on state and federal pollution investigating boards, said the exhaust problem from earthbound vehicles — cars and trucks — "can be stringently reduced or eliminated."

He said California's anti-pollution laws are pioneering the way and predicted auto makers will develop efficient exhaust control.

IN A CALL for research into other causes of air pollution, he detailed the disaster which stratospheric flights may bring. Science knows little about the effects of upper-air contamination, however, he said.

The next targets of pollution control will be the giant plants which generate electricity by use of fossil fuels to fire their boilers, Dr. Libby predicted.

"The California Air Resources Board is on record in opposition to building any more fossil fuel-burning power plants in the Los Angeles basin," he said.

The Orange County Board of Supervisors and the state's newly-formed Environmental Quality Control Board, headed by Supervisor David L. Baker of Garden Grove, also disapproved of such plants.

DRAW ONE: Electronics has taken over the drawing of draft beer in taverns. BREWMASTER INTERNATIONAL of Albuquerque, New Mexico, is marketing a beer tap that looks exactly like the conventional tap, except that the pull handle is inoperative. The bartender instead touches a button and a "perfect" glass of beer pours forth. The Brewmaster unit features easy, quick connection, trouble free operation, accurate booking and unusually high profits for distributors. For the tavern owner, this does away with waste, unauthorized give-away, over-pulls and spillage.

Investment required $5,250 and up, completely secure by equipment. For complete details regarding a distributorship available in your area, write, wire or phone:

JULIET MILLS--A MODERN TV NANNY

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Juliet Mills—sister of Hayley, daughter of John—is the star of a mid-season replacement television series in which she plays an English nanny who is a co-alescence of Maria Von Trapp, The Flying Nun and Mary Poppins.

Raised by English nannies herself, Juliet is equipped to play the part but chary about the magical or extrasensory perception with which the character is endowed.

IF THE NEW ABC show is to be a success, viewers must fall in love with Juliet in "Nanny and the Professor."

This should prove rather easy. Juliet is blessed with that smooth, pink and white English skin, a musical voice, an impertinent nose and enough femininity to stock a sorority house.

She's lovely.

Juliet is also a realist. The show is a cliché. She appears as a nanny at the home of a widower—Richard Long—with three children. There is a sloppy dog, guinea pig and other fauna available for laughs.

"I'm not playing the tweedy nanny of the old days," Juliet said at 20th Century-Fox.

"I won't be wearing a pearl hat, shawl or doing my best to look like Elsa Lanchester.

Juliet is following in the footsteps of her distinguished father who bombed in a Hollywood series two years ago. After

For that reason, it is certainly highly commendable that a certain li'l ol' lady has left her home at 7:40 A.M. and returned from work at 5:55 P.M. five days a week for fifteen years without interruption.

When she reached her home 30 minutes late last Tuesday evening, she was met by a dozen neighbors who were concerned about this lapse in her schedule. Upon asking what delayed her, she sheepishly replied, "WELL, THE FELLA IN THE SEAT AHEAD OF ME ON THE BUS WAS GIVING HIS FRIEND SUCH A FASCINATING ACCOUNT OF HIS PREVIOUS EVENING'S ESCAPADES—I WENT 8 BLOCKS PAST MY STOP TO SEE HOW IT TURNED OUT!"

Paulsen Treks to Triumph in Humphrey's Icy Land

By GEORGE ERES
TV-Radio Editor

Former Vice President Hubert Humphrey was the guest star on the new Pat Paulsen "Half a Comedy Hour" on Ch. 7 Thursday night.

More TV News on Page A-5

Vice President Spiro Agnew was the guest-star on the Friars Club "Roast" of Jack Benny.

Mr. Agnew's presentation was in the form of a speech. He had, I thought, a pretty good script writer for this outing.

Mr. Humphrey's appearance on Paulsen's show was the opening bit, which an old pro like Paulsen ought to know should be a real grabber.

Well, this opening had Paulsen's car stalled in snow and Pat trudges, for seemingly endless footage, through slush to get to a house to seek help. Whose house? Mr. Humphrey's. Paulsen is unable to talk because of being nearly frozen and Mr. Humphrey assumes this is a social call and shows the shivering Paulsen around the grounds. It was as dead as it sounds.

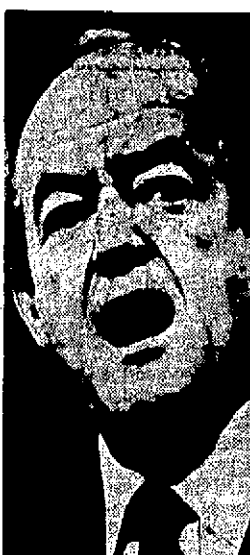

I'm afraid Mr. Humphrey lost again.

WHILE I'M on this bit about politicians on TV, I have a card from a gentleman complaining about lack of TV balance.

The writer states: "Agnewism was unusually successful, if one uses the TV schedule of this week (Jan. 18) as a gauge. Sunday's interview programs are exclusively (devoted) to Republicans or ultra-right wing conservative politicians as follows: Secretary of State Rogers, Congressman Gerald Ford and Barry Goldwater, Secretary of Defense Laird, Former Georgia Gov. George Wallace, William Buckley Jr. Monday is Gov. Reagan, Buckley again; Tuesday four stations carry President Nixon, etc."

Checking over the schedule, I don't find a Gov. Reagan listed last Monday, although he will be on Sunday and on Carol Burnett's show next Monday. He is, after all, the governor of California.

I suppose the reference to four stations carry President Nixon on Tuesday should be Thursday. Is the writer suggesting that the President of the United States' State of the Union message was carried because of pressure from Agnew? TV did this for Democratic presidents, too.

When you consider the other Republicans mentioned, it seems, on the face of it, that there is an overload. Still, if you are conducting an interview program on the Administration's foreign policy plans and views, you'd probably try to get the Secretary of State to answer questions, too. Ditto on Department of Defense matters. Wasn't that the case when we had a Democratic administration, too?

As to Sen. Goldwater, this show, with Arthur Godfrey, was taped some time ago. As I understand, it dealt with ham radio operations — something Godfrey and the senator are both interested in. The show had originally been scheduled to run some time ago — before the Agnew speech.

TV was carrying Buckley's programs long before Mr. Agnew's speech. Similarly, it has reported periodically on Gov. Wallace. I see no insidious plot here.

It may very well be that Mr. Agnew's speech has made TV people conscious of presenting Administration viewpoints. What's wrong with that?

It doesn't appear to me that TV has knuckled under, and is now afraid to air views of the opposition to the Administration. But, perhaps, it's something to keep looking out for.

... But He Won't Plead for Ratings

By RICK DU BROW

Near the end of Pat Paulsen's new half-hour comedy series for ABC-TV Thursday night, the satirist came forward to say he wasn't going to plead for ratings that would keep him on the air. He thereupon embarked on a teary plea for ratings. He pleaded, and pleaded, and pleaded.

It was, of course, the patented style of Paulsen satire — the inverted nonsense delivered in a deadpan cross between monologue and lecture. It was the kind of thing Paulsen does best, and was a very good ending to his half-hour show. Unfortunately, it came almost a half-hour too late.

THE BASIC problem with the debut was not so much the sketches themselves, despite their general failure. The problem is that a little bit of Paulsen — like a little bit of Jonathan Winters — goes a long, long way. The sort of thing he did at the end is, as indicated, his meat. But to do that kind of thing for a half hour is too much to ask for a performer and his writers — and also too much to ask an audience to accept.

Therefore, the debut fell back on sketches. The viewer could see that nearly every sketch had the germ of a satirical statement — but, alas, the overall effect was to prove that, despite the emphasis on "statement" comedy today, it can be every bit as flat as the oldest music hall routine by baggy-pants comics. The secret is still in execution, and this was another problem for the Paulsen premiere. Paulsen is a highly specialized humorist, and he does not yet have the final polish for sketch comedy.

THE OPENING sequence found Paulsen with his car stalled in the snow near Hubert Humphrey's Minnesota home. Humphrey actually was in the sketch — and, as Paulsen kept looking for warmth and help, the former vice president kept wanting to show him around, and also kept talking, and talking. The satire was clear, but was only very moderately successful, and that is being charitable.

Some of Paulsen's other sketches found him as a hobby expert who was not very expert; as an interviewer of Daffy Duck (an obvious spoof of talk shows); and as a go-easy warden in a prison in which Debbie Reynolds was a tough convict. There were other quickie skits, and the less said about their level, the better.

INSIDERS say that, as with Paulsen's funny ratings plea, there are other really good sketches on succeeding shows. The question is how many — and how he can sustain the level between them.

Another ABC-TV mid-season premiere Thursday night, an hour series called "Paris 7000," found George Hamilton as an aide to the U.S. embassy in the French capital, helping American tourists in trouble. Since Hamilton is employed by the government, this normally would mean he is an expense of American taxpayers. On the other hand, perhaps he is being paid out of petty cash.

JULIET MILLS—A MODERN TV NANNY

By VERNON SCOTT

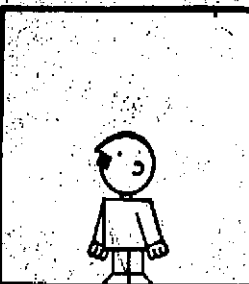

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Juliet Mills—sister of Hayley, daughter of John—is the star of a mid-season replacement television series in which she plays an English nanny who is a coacescence of Maria Von Trapp, The Flying Nun and Mary Poppins.
 Raised by English nan-nys herself, Juliet is equipped to play the part but chary about the magical or extrasensory perception with which the character is endowed.

IF THE NEW ABC show is to be a success, viewers must fall in love with Juliet in "Nanny and the

 This should prove rather easy.
 Juliet is blessed with that smooth, pink and white English skin, a musical voice, an impertinent nose and enough femininity to stock a sorority house.

 She's lovely.
 Juliet is also a realist.
 The show is a cliché she appears as a nanny at the home of a widower—Richard Long—with three children. There is a sloppy dog, guinea pig and other fauna available for laughs.
 "I'm not playing the tweedy nanny of the old days," Juliet said at 20th Century-Fox.
 "I won't be wearing a pearl hat, shawl or doing my best to look like Elsa Lanchester.

Galaxy Towers' Leasing

Mrs. Jean Burton Gilmore, manager of the Galaxy Towers new apartments at 2999 E. Ocean Blvd. in Long Beach, reports a great increase of leasing since the final touches have been completed at the inviting high-rise.

Mrs. Burton said: "Frankly, many people still think that the Galaxy Towers is a condominium because it was originally presented that way, and others remember how it was before being completely changed."

"Today, once prospective tenants find they can rent rather than buy an apartment at the Galaxy Towers and they actually come and look through our model apartments, half our work is done."

The Galaxy's completely new exterior includes extensive floral landscaping, a sweeping entry protected by a 50-foot canopy and a tastefully luxurious lobby. The model apartments, which are open daily, have been professionally furnished in various motifs.

THE GALAXY TOWERS unique construction of four separate 20-story towers connected by a bright, window lined central hall provides each apartment with a spectacular, panoramic view of Long Beach.

With no common walls between apartments, tenants have complete privacy and quiet. Each spacious apartment contains 1600 square feet, with two bedrooms and two baths and features a separate entry, a wet bar, large closet space and a private balcony.

Luxurious shag carpeting and custom draperies are included.

The all-electric kitchens have ranges with double ovens, dishwashers, disposals and built-in blenders.

Tenants of the Galaxy Towers also enjoy indoor parking, individual storage rooms and thorough security. Coldwell, Banker & Company is the exclusive rental and management agent.

P&G 1968-69 Sales Hit $2.7 Billion

CINCINNATI — The Procter & Gamble Company this week announced record sales and earnings for the six months ended Dec. 31, 1969.

Net earnings for the period, covering the first half of P & G's fiscal year, were $114,021,000, compared with earnings of $100,809,000 for the same six months in 1968.

Earnings per share, based on an average 40,739,440 shares outstanding for the period, were $2.82. This is an increase of 18 per cent over earnings per share of $2.38 for the same period a year ago.

Worldwide net sales for the six months were $1,454,491,000, an increase of eight per cent over sales of $1,343,736,000 for the comparable six-month period in 1968.

Because the divestiture of the Clorox Company was completed Jan. 2, 1969, the number of P & G shares outstanding is lower than a year ago and the results for the current period do not include Clorox sales and earnings. The results for the same period last year include Clorox sales of $45,509,900 and net earnings of $5,259,000.

In the six months reported, provision was made for foreign and federal income taxes, including the 10 per cent surtax, or $120,132,000.

ON JANUARY 13, the company's board of directors called a special meeting of shareholders for April 14 to consider a two-for-one split in shares of P & G common stock. This proposed action will increase the authorized number of common shares from 50 million to 100 million.

The directors also announced that, "provided the profits of the company and business conditions (Continued on Page 2)

Westminster Civic Center Praised

The Westminster Civic Center, a 27-acre development for the City of Westminster, received a Certificate of Merit Award at the 17th annual Landscape Awards Program of the American Association of Nurserymen in Washington, D.C. Erikson, Peters and

Thoms, ASLA, were the landscape architects and Burke, Kober, Nicolais & Archuleta were the architects. Owen H. Peters (left, Peters was cited in connection with the landscaping at Westminster Civic Center.

POPULAR FAIRHAVEN MODEL AT SHOWCASE HOMES... Has Boat Storage Area

LIMITED NUMBER TO BE SOLD

1969 Interest Rate Available at Showcase

As Showcase Homes moves into its last and final unit in Westminster, builder-developer Bill Krueger has announced the homes will be sold at the old 1969 interest rate as long as possible.

There are a limited number of homes to be sold on these terms, but an excellent selection is available.

Also available is Showcase's unique Custom Completion Plan, one of the most successful and popular customizing programs offered anywhere in the country.

Three to six-bedroom homes with two and three bathrooms are selling for as low as $30,495. Ten family-flexible floorplans and 33 attractive exterior stylings are available in this last unit.

Hundreds of Southern California home owners live in Showcase homes, some in their second and third Showcase community.

"Rated high on their preference list is the Custom Completion Plan," says sales agent Frank McFarland Jr.

The custom Completion Plan, a Showcase exclusive, has set an entirely new trend in the home building industry and offers buyers an opportunity to literally design a home to suit their individual needs.

The only restriction is the architectural limits of the ten basic floor plans which serve as guides for buyers' customizing ideas.

Virtually everything within the home may be changed, except the bearing walls. Decisions as to where certain rooms will be and how many there will be are up to the buyers.

They may select colors, materials and many other features making Showcase communities true custom neighborhoods.

Another important feature Krueger offers is the "Growing Room" (in all of the two-story plans). It is a large area which can serve the family in a variety of ways.

It can be completed as an extra two or three bedroom suite, spacious rumpus room, hobby area, nursery and play room, or any number of uses depending on family requirements.

One buyer, whose hobby is big game hunting, had his "Growing Area" finished as a giant trophy room with a ten-foot ceiling.

The area is fully framed and rough plumbing for the bathroom is installed. The "Growing Room" is flexible and may be rearranged over the years as family requirements change.

The area need not remain unfinished even at time of purchase — for if the family has already decided how to use the space, the builder will finish it to their specifications for a nominal cost which may be added to the original loan.

ANOTHER feature of the two-story homes is the terrace deck. With its attractive wrought iron railing and vinyl all-weather "carpet", the deck is a pleasant retreat for private lounging and conversation.

Fidelity Federal Acquires Two Orange County S&L Associations

Fidelity Federal Savings and Loan Association, Glendale-based with an office in Long Beach, has received approval of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board for acquisition of two Orange County savings and loan associations, it was announced by N. C. Hayhurst, Fidelity president.

The two, First Federal Savings and Loan of Fullerton and Occidental Savings and Loan, Stanton, will become Fidelity Federal regional offices effective January 1, 1970.

Earlier this month Fidelity announced the acquisition of Jefferson Savings and Loan in Van Nuys. With the new additions, Fidelity now has seven offices in Los Angeles and Orange Counties and assets of $520 million.

Spencer Scott, executive vice president of Fidelity and in charge of the association's acquisition program, stated that First Federal of Fullerton is a mutual association and becomes part of Fidelity Federal through merger agreement. Occidental Savings, a state chartered association, was acquired through stock purchase.

Terms were not disclosed.

Executive officers and operating employees of both acquired associations will be retained to staff the new Fidelity Federal regional offices, Scott announced.

Herbert Watkins of First Federal of Fullerton and Norman Dickson of Occidental Savings have been named Fidelity Federal vice presidents and managers of their respective offices.

In making the acquisition announcement, Hayhurst, who has been president of Fidelity Federal since 1940 and directed the association's growth from assets of $400,000 to today's $520 million, stated:

"We are very pleased to have this increased representation in dynamic and growing Orange County. We have the highest regard for the staffs of these two associations and look forward to being of service to savers and home buyers in the Stanton and Fullerton areas."

Campus Drug Problem Is Invading Halls of Industry

By ROBERT BECKMAN
Business-Real Estate Editor

The drug problem on the college campuses in time had to begin edging into the business world.

Industry leaders, however, have chosen to say little about the impending invasion of new, young workers who have at least experimented with drugs.

The mail bag has been watched closely here during 1969 for some evidence the problem would be faced up to at last.

As the year ebbed away, the first evidence arrived.

"Drug abuse, previously confined to the most down-and-out elements of society," the missive began, "now poses a frightening problem for industry in 1970."

Speaking out boldly is Occupational Hazards, one of the nation's leading magazines of industrial safety and security management.

A source close to the periodical estimates that three out of every four plants, with 50 or more employees, may now have a drug abuse problem.

NOT EASY TO PINPOINT

The new problem is not easy for industry to pinpoint. The user sometimes is the least suspected, but with so many abuse-prone compounds around and available, personnel workers are urged to be especially watchful.

First of all, there are the so-called "hard narcotics."

These include opium and its derivatives, heroin and morphine. It is highly unlikely that anyone with the heroin habit could stay on a payroll, the magazine says.

Most of these addicts can't hold steady jobs. The hallucinogenic drugs — LSD, STP, DMT, peyote and mescaline — grew mightily in popularity during the middle 1960s. These drugs produce an artificial psychosis in the user.

They distort his perception of reality, cause visions and hallucinations, and disrupt normal thought flow.

LSD is the most potent of them. It's unlikely that anyone would report to work while on an LSD trip, but there is the possibility of a user experiencing a spontaneous "flashback" reaction while on the job, Occupational Hazards explains.

Because during flashback, the user is subject to a recurrence of the drug's effects without having taken another dose, he could become a grave safety menace to himself and other employees, the magazine says.

SIGNS OF MARIJUANA

Marijuana, or "pot," is another of the hallucinogens, although a mild one, according to the magazine. It is not addictive, but may cause psychological dependence. Signs of marijuana use are reddened eyes, dilation of pupils and a dreamy, out-of-it mood.

While in this dreamy state, a pot user is prone to injury and, inadvertently, can injure others.

The so-called "up and down drugs," amphetamines and barbiturates, present the most serious threat to industry.

Amphetamines, or "ups," stimulate the central nervous system to help combat fatigue and sleepiness. The most commonly used are amphetamine (Benzedrine), dextroamphetamine (Dexedrine) and methamphetamine (Methedrine). Slang terms, common among abusers, are pep pills, bennies and speed.

"Ups" are readily available to almost anyone bent on abusing them. On the average, the legitimate drug industry turns out enough of them to supply every man, woman and child in the United States with 25 doses every year, the magazine says. Illicit producers turn out billions more.

CAUSES SERIOUS ACCIDENTS

Amphetamine overdose has caused many serious accidents, notably on the highways, because it dulls the emotions and prevents organization of one's thinking.

Recent U.S. Department of Transportation reports disclosed one truck driver demolished his rig when he "simply left the wheel while the truck was moving and crawled into the sleeper for a nap."

Narcotics agents reported a case where the proprietor of a chicken packing house in the South hired teenagers to chase runaway chickens. To keep the youngsters from tiring, he fed them amphetamines.

"Down drugs" — barbiturates or sedatives — are as dangerous as amphetamines and nearly as common and easy to get. Excessive doses create an effect similar to drunkenness. The user is confused, he staggers, his speech is slurred and he loses emotional control.

Because barbiturates distort vision and slow down responses, they can cause accidents.

Taken with alcohol, the effect could be lethal. These some experts to be more difficult to cure than narcotic drugs are physically addicting and are considered by addiction.

What has been done to combat drug abuse?

In the trucking industry, the problem was met head on by a cooperative campaign mounted by the American Trucking Association and the Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs.

The campaign's objectives were to educate truckers to the dangers of stimulants and to drive out the criminal element, which was supplying truck drivers with pep pills.

A WORLD OF THEIR OWN

Most sociologists point to the pace of modern life, ever-present threats of war and mass destruction, lust for kicks and a desire to flout authority as the reasons for the upsurge in drug abuse among the young, the publication says.

Adolescents have always wanted a world of their own, free from adult interference, the magazine continues.

The desire manifests itself in teen-age slang and jargon, the less intelligible to adults the better, in their own music, the less acceptable to adults the better.

If you doubt it, take a stroll through the rock music section of your local record shop.

In addition to the overt references to grass, speed and marijuana in song titles and group names, there are code-word references to drugs in the song lyrics: "Lucy in the Sky with Diamonds" (LSD); "Puff the Magic Dragon" (marijuana cigarettes with a pun on drag); and "The Windmills of Your Mind" (visions of windmills or propellers are common during an LSD trip).

Crude Oil Runs Remain Constant

The index gained 0.1 per cent, as steel and auto output combined to pull the figure above last week's.

Despite an 0.3 per cent rise in steel production, in the current week, shipments for the remainder of the year threaten to drop, due in part to slowing auto sales.

Auto output, down 4.9 per cent from a year ago, rose 4.8 per cent in the current week, overtime schedules were light.

Crude oil refinery runs maintained its week-ago level; electric output gained 3.7 per cent.

The surface transportation components registered gains. All other carloadings increased 6.8 per cent, due to a boost in coal and grain output. Inter-city truck tonnage went up 17.1 per cent; miscellaneous carloadings gained 1.4 per cent.

Paperboard production slipped 1.3 per cent.

Galaxy Towers' Leasing

Mrs. Jean Burton Gilmore, manager of the Galaxy Towers new apartments at 2999 E. Ocean Blvd. in Long Beach, reports a great increase of leasing since the final touches have been completed at the inviting high-rise.

Mrs. Burton said: "Frankly, many people still think that the Galaxy Towers is a condominium because it was originally presented that way, and others remember how it was before being completely changed."

"Today, once prospective tenants find they can rent rather than buy an apartment at the Galaxy Towers and they actually come and look through our model apartments, half our work is done."

The Galaxy's completely new exterior includes extensive floral landscaping, a sweeping entry protected by a 50-foot canopy and a tastefully luxurious lobby. The model apartments, which are open daily, have been professionally furnished in various motifs.

THE GALAXY TOWERS unique construction of four separate 20-story towers connected by a bright, window lined central hall provides each apartment with a spectacular, panoramic view of Long Beach.

With no common walls between apartments, tenants have complete privacy and quiet. Each spacious apartment contains 1600 square feet, with two bedrooms and two baths and features a separate entry, a wet bar, large closet space and a private balcony.

Luxurious shag carpeting and custom draperies are included.

The all-electric kitchens have ranges with double ovens, dishwashers, disposals and built-in blenders.

Tenants of the Galaxy Towers also enjoy indoor parking, individual storage rooms and thorough security. Coldwell, Banker & Company is the exclusive rental and management agent.

P&G 1968-69 Sales Hit $2.7 Billion

CINCINNATI — The Procter & Gamble Company this week announced record sales and earnings for the six months ended Dec. 31, 1969.

Net earnings for the period, covering the first half of P & G's fiscal year, were $114,021,000, compared with earnings of $100,889,000 for the same six months in 1968.

Earnings per share, based on an average 40,739,440 shares outstanding for the period, were $2.82. This is an increase of 18 per cent over earnings per share of $2.38 for the same period a year ago.

Worldwide net sales for the six months were $1,454,491,000, an increase of eight per cent over sales of $1,343,736,000 for the comparable six-month period in 1968.

Because the divestiture of the Clorox Company was completed Jan. 2, 1969, the number of P & G shares outstanding, is lower than a year ago and the results for the current period do not include Clorox sales and earnings. The results for the same period last year include Clorox sales of $45,509,000 and net earnings of $5,259,000.

In the six months reported, provision was made for foreign and federal income taxes, including the 10 per cent surtax, or $120,132,000.

ON JANUARY 13, the company's board of directors called a special meeting of shareholders for April 14 to consider a two-for-one split in shares of P & G common stock. This proposed action will increase the authorized number of common shares from 50 million to 100 million.

The directors also announced that, "provided the profits of the company and business conditions (Continued on Page 2)

POPULAR FAIRHAVEN MODEL AT SHOWCASE HOMES . . . Has Boat Storage Area LIMITED NUMBER TO BE SOLD 1969 Interest Rate Available at Showcase

As Showcase Homes moves into its last and final unit in Westminster, builder-developer Bill Krueger has announced the homes will be sold at the old 1969 interest rate as long as possible.

There are a limited number of homes to be sold on these terms, but an excellent selection is available.

Also available is Showcase's unique Custom Completion Plan, one of the most successful and popular customizing programs offered anywhere in the country.

Three to six-bedroom homes with two and three bathrooms are selling for as low as $30,495. Ten family-flexible floorplans and 33 attractive exterior stylings are available in this last unit.

Hundreds of Southern California home owners live in Showcase homes, some in their second and third Showcase community.

"Rated high on their preference list is the Custom Completion Plan," says sales agent Frank McFarland Jr.

The custom Completion Plan, a Showcase exclusive, has set an entirely new trend in the home building industry and offers buyers an opportunity to literally design a home to suit their individual needs.

The only restriction is the architectural limits of the ten basic floor plans which serve as guides for buyers' customizing ideas.

Virtually everything within the home may be changed, except the bearing walls. Decisions as to where certain rooms will be and how many there will be are up to the buyers.

They may select colors, materials and many other features making Showcase communities true custom neighborhoods.

Another important feature Krueger offers is the "Growing Room" (in all of the two-story plans). It is a large area which can serve the family in a variety of ways.

It can be completed as an extra two or three bedroom suite, spacious rumpus room, hobby area, nursery and play room, or any number of uses depending on family requirements.

One buyer, whose hobby is big game hunting, had his "Growing Room" finished as a giant trophy room with a ten-foot ceiling.

The area is fully framed and rough plumbing for the bathroom is installed. The "Growing Room" is flexible and may be rearranged over the years as family requirements change.

The area need not remain unfinished even at time of purchase — for if the family has already decided how to use the space, the builder will finish it to their specifications for a nominal cost which may be added to the original loan.

ANOTHER feature of the two-story homes is the terrace deck. With its attractive wrought iron railing and vinyl all-weather "carpet", the deck is a pleasant retreat for private lounging and conversation.

Fidelity Federal Acquires Two Orange County S&L Associations

Fidelity Federal Savings and Loan Association, Glendale-based with an office in Long Beach, has received approval of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board for acquisition of two Orange County savings and loan associations, it was announced by N. C. Hayhurst, Fidelity president.

The two, First Federal Savings and Loan of Fullerton, and Occidental Savings and Loan, Stanton, will become Fidelity Federal regional offices effective January 1, 1970.

Earlier this month Fidelity announced the acquisition of Jefferson Savings and Loan in Van Nuys. With the new additions, Fidelity now has seven offices in Los Angeles and Orange Counties and assets of $520 million.

Spencer Scott, executive vice president of Fidelity and in charge of the association's acquisition program, stated that First Federal of Fullerton is a mutual association and becomes part of Fidelity Federal through merger agreement. Occidental Savings, a state chartered association, was acquired through stock purchase.

Terms were not disclosed.

Executive officers and operating employees of both acquired associations will be retained to staff the new Fidelity Federal regional offices, Scott announced.

Herbert Watkins of First Federal of Fullerton and Norman Dickson of Occidental Savings have been named Fidelity Federal vice presidents and managers of their respective offices.

In making the acquisition announcement, Hayhurst, who has been president of Fidelity Federal since 1940 and directed the association's growth from assets of $400,000 to today's $520 million, stated:

"We are very pleased to have this increased representation in dynamic and growing Orange County. We have the highest regard for the staffs of these two associations and look forward to being of service to savers and home buyers in the Stanton and Fullerton areas."

Now ranked among the nation's 25 largest savings and loan associations, Fidelity Federal established its first regional office in Long Beach in 1966. Sherman Oaks and Santa Ana regional offices were established in 1968, and Van Nuys was added in December, 1969.

Standard Brands Ups Cash Dividend

Directors of Standard Brands Paint Company, Torrance, have today voted an increase in the quarterly cash dividend rate on the common stock.

The directors announced a quarterly cash dividend of 9 cents per share, payable Feb. 5 to shareholders of record at the close of business Jan. 19.

This represents a 12½ per cent increase over the prior annual rate of 32 cents per share to the new annual rate of 36 cents per share.

This is the seventh consecutive year in which Standard Brands Paint Company's common stock dividend has been increased.

THE PAYMENT will be the 27th consecutive quarterly cash dividend paid by the company.

The directors also elected the following officers:

Dan Greenberg, formerly chairman of the board, to the position of chairman of the executive committee.

Sid Greenberg to chairman of the board.

Greenberg is succeeded as president of the company by John DeGregory, who had been the senior vice-president.

All other officers were reelected.

DODGE TRUCKS ... Going to the Dogs

WORLD OF WHEELS

By ART STEPHAN
Auto Editor

It used to be that a guy came to your door to sharpen knives and scissors. Then came the Fuller Brush Man and the Avon Lady. Now, along comes a mobile service for dog grooming from Ultrapep, Inc.

Converted Dodge Sportsman Vans come right to your home to provide a unique grooming service for pets.

The air conditioned van, called a "Groomobile," has a roof extension and is equipped with hot and cold running water, fluorescent lighting, adjustable grooming table stainless steel cages, special soaps, shampoos and other grooming materials.

Ultrapep, Inc., a New York firm, contends that the pet business, one of the fastest growing markets in the country, has become a three billion dollar a year industry which has doubled in the past seven years.

Modern, fully-equipped Dodge vans have been selected by Ultrapep as prime vehicles for the new business.

Dodge's new Challenger T-A will be something special. It will have a 6-pack "340" engine, rallye suspension, front power disc brakes and a host of other goodies.

Bob McCurry, Dodge general manager, announced that the "T-A" is scheduled to enter production in early March. The first 2,500 units will be completed by mid-April.

The engine will be a special 340 cu. in. powerplant with three 2-barrel carburetion, modified block, special cylinder heads and a modified valve train.

The block has been reinforced in the main bearing webs, and the special cylinder head casting has been modified to provide better intake ports and accommodate a longer pushrod. The valve train has been modified to accept a slightly different angle on the pushrod, and a special camshaft.

The car will have a special side exhaust, low-restriction, dual exhaust system with two single-pass mufflers located ahead of the axle. The exhaust outlets will emerge under the side sills ahead of the rear wheel openings.

Power brakes will be standard with disc brakes in front, and 11" diameter drum brakes in the rear. The linings, pads, proportioning valve, etc. will be selected for optimum braking under competitive conditions.

Two transmissions will be offered: a 4-speed manual with close ratios, or the automatic torque-flite. The ratios on the 4-speed will be: first gear — 2.47; second gear — 1.77; third gear — 1.34; and fourth gear — 1.00.

The rallye suspension, with front and rear sway bars, will be used. Heavy-duty shocks are standard. Rear spring camber will be special to provide necessary clearance for side exhaust and G-60 rear tires.

The standard steering will be manual with a 24 to 1 ratio. Quick ratio power steering is optional. Quick ratio manual steering is available as a dealer-installed option.

Five New Lake Forest Models Shown

Five new Lake Forest model residences will be introduced during the grand opening of the Greenwood Homes this weekend.

Located in the woods area of Lake Forest, in southeastern Orange County, Greenwood Homes is a presentation of Occidental Petroleum Land & Development Corp., previously operated as Deane Brothers, Inc., a former Occidental Petroleum Corp. wholly-owned subsidiary.

Prices for the new residences commence at $32,985 according to Ronald J. Ramos, Lake Forest marketing director.

Situated on the shore of the first of three large lakes being opened in Lake Forest, the $500,000 private club facility offers an array of recreational activities for the residents of homes built by Occidental.

The Countryside model epitomizes the recreational atmosphere that Occidental has created for all of the new Greenwood Homes.

It features four bedrooms on the main floor and an optional bonus room on the second level which can be utilized as a den, sewing room or fifth bedroom.

The Brookside is designed as a tri-level, four-bedroom home.

The Hearthside, another two story, emphasizes the qualities of its surroundings with an eye-catching conversation pit bounded by a massive raised hearth stone fireplace.

The ceiling of The Mountside's sunken living room soars two stories above the main level of the new home. The area is bordered by an interior garden planting area in keeping with Greenwood's blending of indoors and outdoors.

The Woodside is designed to provide privacy and relaxation for its occupants, with all three bedrooms placed at one side of the spacious home.

Commenced in late 1967, Lake Forest contains three distinct areas, The Lakes, The Woods and The Villages. The portion of The Woods under construction covers 275 acres of the 1900-acre development, according to Ramos.

Other Occidental model home presentations at Lake Forest include Lakeshore Homes and Garden Homes, with two additional model areas slated to open within the next eight months.

To visit Lake Forest and the new Greenwood Homes model showcase, take the Santa Ana or San Diego Freeway to the El Toro cutoff and follow directional signs.

Saddleback Inns Announce Program

Saddleback Inns of the Americas of Santa Ana has announced an extension of its program to develop an international network of hotels which authentically reflect the heritage of their locale.

According to Bruce Gelker, SIA president, wide interest in the hotel venture has prompted the establishment of a similar program for motels. Each will carry the name, Saddleback Inn Bunkhouse.

Like Saddleback hotels, he said, the 50 to 120-room Bunkhouses will deal strongly in nostalgia. Quaint reminders of yesterday will be blended with space age conveniences and facilities.

DESIGN AND interior decor of each Bunkhouse will mirror the culture and history of the area.

Plans call for an extra large lobby mindful of an old country store and containing such curios as a pot-bellied stove and pine harvest tables where guests may partake of morning coffee and doughnuts.

Gelker revealed that negotiations are in progress to launch the Bunkhouse program in Buena Park, Santa Ana, San Diego and Santa Barbara, Calif. Other sites are being investigated, he added.

Gelker initiated the novel Saddleback Inn concept in 1964 with the building of an original Saddleback Inn in Santa Ana. He since has become known in his native Orange County as a zealous guardian of the past.

IN ARCHITECTURE, furnishings, memorabilia and imagery, the Santa Ana Saddleback and a later one in Norwalk emphasize the Spanish heritage of California.

Each evokes memories of the hacienda and each houses a cornucopia of western curios, artifacts and historical treasures.

Growing inquiries from persons wanting to duplicate the concept prompted Gelker to form Saddleback Inns of the Americas. The corporation is headquartered in Santa Ana.

Philippine Law

MANILA (UPI) — President Ferdinand E. Marcos has signed a bill assuring greater protection to small bank depositors.

The law, prompted by a bank run last year, sets aside a fund of 15 million pesos ($2,500) to depositors who otherwise would not recover their money in banks closed by the Philippine Central Bank.

41 YEARS
W. R. (Widgie) Griffiths, 246 Ravenna Dr., closes a career this month of 41 years with Union Oil of Calif. He will be honored by over 300 friends at a retirement banquet at the Long Beach Petroleum Club on Jan. 29.

Management and Income Courses Set

Courses in income and apartment management are scheduled for the second semester to start this month in the North Orange County Junior College District.

Eugene I. Zechmeister, executive vice president, Apartment House Association, Long Beach-Southern Cities, will be the instructor for the class to be held at the Oak Street Junior High School, Los Alamitos. Class registration is at 7 p.m. Monday at the junior high school.

The course will be directed toward better tenant-landlord relationships, Zechmeister said. He cited the current rent strikes in Long Beach and Berkeley, and housing problems in Washington, D.C., St. Louis and New York. Tenant strikes, tenant unions and housing problems have been created in many areas by owners who lack proper management education, the instructor stated.

HUD Says 'Train More People

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) says it will be necessary for the nation to double the training of skilled construction workers if it hopes to meet its goal of producing 26 million new housing units in the next 10 years.

"Manpower is one of the major costs in housing," HUD's Samuel J. Simmons said. "To a great extent, that comes about as a result of a limited, controlled labor supply."

Simmons, assistant sec-

relary for equal opportunity, told a reporter that training must be stepped up — even if the powerful building trades unions object to programs designed to end the current "seller's market" in construction labor.

After an hour-long meeting with HUD Secretary George W. Romney, Simmons said the government could require all contractors doing business with federal departments to engage in some job training. He said the government could pay for "extraordinary costs" resulting from the training programs.

"THE ONLY way we are going to make progress is a combination of the union, the contractor, the government and the community working in concert to develop the manpower that we need," Simmons said.

"If any one of those partners falls down or resists, the government has a responsibility to move ahead anyway."

Fore! Quality

Virginia Vista homes present the last available parcel of land adjoining the Virginia Country Club Golf Course.

All homes have been designed with 3 spacious bedrooms and 3 baths. Each unit has a panorama view across four fairways.

Included in the 2,650 square feet of livable area are features such as: Built-in all electric kitchen, air conditioning, interior atriums, entrance courts, complete landscaping, open beam ceilings, tiled entries and hallways, oversized garage with extra large storage area, wet bar and shake roof.

In this planned development, home owners will receive fee title to the home square footage plus 1/16 interest in all of the common area and facilities in the 6 1/2 acre tract area which includes private streets, large heated pool, gazebo and putting green. Total prices range from $84,500 to $89,500.

Landmark Offering 3 Models

"You get a lot more from a Landmark home, because we put more into it!"

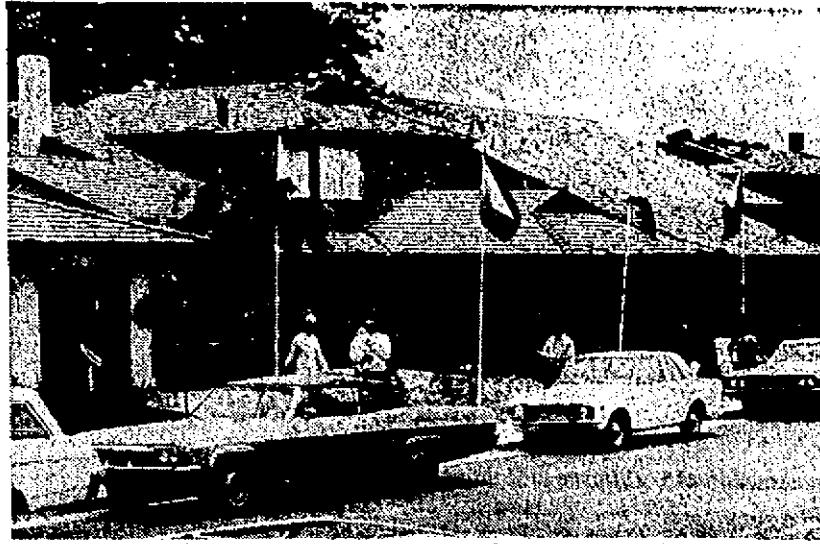

So say Shattuck & McHone, Southland developers and builders of Landmark La Palma homes, which are priced from $32,975 to $34,125.

Visitors have three models to choose from with 10 different arrangements designed by R. J. Marvick & Associates in a completely walled homesite of two story, four and five bedroom homes.

Included in the purchase price is 100 per cent nylon carpeting, front yard fencing, built-in television antenna, underground utilities, insulation and exciting patio kitchens with deluxe equipped range, oven, disposal, hood, fan and dishwasher.

All homes have three baths and two or three-car garages, spacious family rooms and living rooms with dramatic fireplaces.

The models are located on Walker Street between La Palma Avenue and Orangethorpe Avenue in the city of La Palma. For information, phone (714) 523-1011.

South Hampton Apartments Set for Immediate Move-in South Hampton Apartments, 5505 Ackerfield Ave., Long Beach, open today. Gracious, sophisticated living is the theme of these spacious 1, 2 and 3-bedroom apartments.

Heralded as the "ultimate address for sophisticated adults" the complex was designed for the young at heart. Each floor plan offers wall to wall carpeting, convenient kitchen appliances, plus two baths and dressing area. All are available for immediate possession.

Lucille Valek, sales and rental agent, with Joe Jarvis, project manager, will be on hand to greet all guests and assist apartment shoppers.

South Hampton consists of eight apartment complexes, being developed by the Boise-Cascade Building Company. Three of the complexes have been sold to Groesbeck Associates, a Beverly Hills based investment company.

Sales were handled by Lucille Valek, sales agent for Boise-Cascade, and another 55 units complex has been sold to Ackerfield Company, a Long Beach based investment group.

Norwalk Manor Offers Attractive Townhouses

There is a limited, but good, selection of attractive townhouses available at Norwalk Manor, Boise Cascade Building Company's residential complex at 12912 Bloomfield Avenue in Norwalk.

The four bedroom townhouses have two stories, two bathrooms and a choice of two exterior elevations, according to sales manager Joe Garibay.

The $20,495 price includes Waste King gas ranges and ovens. Food disposers are provided also. Other features at Norwalk Manor are 2½ car garages, thermostatically controlled forced air heating and wall-to-wall continuous nylon filament carpeting.

Residents now enjoy the large swimming pool, wading pool and recreation building. There are tennis courts, a football field, baseball diamond and a completely equipped clubhouse with spacious recreation hall and stage, kitchen and dining facilities, library, card room and billiard rooms.

A continuing program is conducted at the clubhouse for teenage dances and women's and men's club events.

A grammar school, junior high and high schools are within walking distance. Nearby is a big, new shopping center with a Montgomery Ward, super market and complete complement of shops and service stores.

A new $10 million office building is going to be built nearby, and it is expected that this will provide additional employment opportunities, as well as more professional service.

Furnished models are open daily from 10:00 a.m. to dusk and may be reached from the Santa Ana Freeway by driving north on Bloomfield Avenue for one mile to Imperial Highway. The sales information phone is (213) 863-3719.

PORTS O' PROGRESS

By JACK O. BALDWIN
Marine Editor

Port of Long Beach officials are designing a 120-acre container terminal which when completed in 1973 will be the largest such facility in the world committed to one tenant.

The terminal complex, to be operated by Sea-Land Services, Inc., will represent approximately a $30 million development.

Thomas J. Thorley, port general manager, estimates the new terminal will generate "... a bare minimum of $2 million in port revenue annually."

The marine terminal will contain 100 acres serviced by eight container cranes. The present sea-land container freight station will be expanded by 20 acres with an office, warehouse, maintenance garage and an inspection station.

CONSTRUCTION IS UNDERWAY in the Port of Los Angeles on a new import auto handling facility. The "auto ready" operation will enable Distribution Auto Service, Inc. to deliver Datsun Vehicles directly to dealers.

Cost of the facility being built at Berths 134-139 will be shared jointly by the DAS and the Los Angeles Harbor Department.

SHATTUCK & MCHONE BUILDERS

HUNTINGTON BEACH

Yorktowne Homes Nearly Complete

Families wanting a good selection of homes and thinking about moving into an area which has established schools and shopping centers as well as being close to the beach should take advantage now of the new 1970 model homes under construction at Yorktowne in Huntington Beach.

Dick Kurth, of Kurth & Associates, sales agents for the Larry Shields development, said construction on these new homes is nearly complete, so families buying now have the widest possible selection of exteriors and interior floor plans.

These homes, which come in two, three and four bedroom models, are priced from $26,995 with FHA, VA as well as conventional financing available. Ideal for either a young, growing family or a smaller or older family, Yorktowne homes are suited to a wide range of people.

Less than a 20-minute drive to some of the best beaches in Southern California, Yorktowne is perfect for the family which enjoys water sports, but is also looking for a solid home buy, Kurth said.

All of these homes — with 12 different exterior styles to choose from — come complete with standard features which would normally cost more in similar homes, said the sales manager. The famous Shields "Turn-Key" package allows a new home buyer to move into his home as inexpensively and as quickly as possible. This is achieved by furnishing carpets, drapes, fencing, built-ins and other items that normally would cost more, said Kurth.

A score of excellent shops, including the huge Huntington Center, are a few minutes from Yorktowne making life easier for the active residents.

Montgomery Ward Tells of Price Cuts

Montgomery Ward has announced price cuts ranging up to 60 per cent on clothing and 40 per cent on household items in its 248-page winter sale book now being delivered to 4½ million customers.

"The price cuts reflect our concern about the squeeze on customer pocketbooks and budgets," stated S. W. Alfred, catalog merchandise vice president.

"Ward's large spring and summer catalog, also being distributed now, will maintain its historic price advantages while offering more higher quality products and more consumer services than ever before."

Examples of price cuts featured in the sale catalog are: bathroom fixtures and power tools, up to 38 per cent; garden tools, vacuum cleaners, slide projectors and wrist watches, up to 20 per cent; women's apparel, up to 60 per cent; men's apparel, up to 37 per cent; paint and portable radios, 40 per cent.

Pacific Coast Exchange Is 'Doing a Better Job'

Thomas P. Phelan, president of the Pacific Coast Stock Exchange, probably would agree with John Kenneth Galbraith, the economist, that at least one thing: modernity is an over-rated virtue.

Ask Phelan why his Exchange's gains have out-paced the New York and American Stock Exchanges and other regional exchanges and he quickly replies that it is because the West Coast board is doing a better job.

"A lot of it is because of the growth of the economy out here, but there's also the fact that the Exchange is doing a better job," he said. Trading volume on the Pacific Coast Exchange, compared with 1968 levels, was up 28.6 per cent in dollars.

During the same period volume dropped 4 per cent on the big board and 12 per cent on the Amex. Through August, 116,921,782 shares were traded on the Pacific Coast Exchange.

WHILE THE price of a seat on the New York Stock Exchange has fluctuated downward from $515,000 to about $300,000 recently, the price of a seat on the Pacific Coast Exchange has held steady at about $70,000.

This price compares with about $7,500 four years ago and $1 in the thirties.

The number of memberships, also has been rising and Phelan expects 220 soon, compared with 179 at the end of 1968.

The Exchange is adding listed securities at a record pace. By the end of September, the board had exceeded its 1968 record addition of 83 new securities and has another 60 in the works.

Phelan hopes that soon 120 new issues will have been added, bringing the total to 876.

PHELAN is especially gratified that his Exchange has maintained its growth rate this year. "That's quite an accomplishment," he noted, "When you realize that up until a month ago, the New York Exchanges were closing at 11 a.m. our time. We had just one full hour of New York market time."

The curtailed trading hours in New York, brought about by the back-office paper-work jam, were described by Phelan as "brutal to the West Coast. Brutal, brutal, brutal," he said.

He pointed out that despite the growth of trading here the securities industry remains oriented to New York.

"Some 12 per cent of all big board business originates in California. We have a great potential, but we're only doing 3 per cent of the business."

THE "BETTER" job of the Pacific Coast Exchange is attributed by Phelan to the Exchange's willingness to innovate and modernize.

Not the least of these innovations is the Exchange's long-standing system of clearing and settling securities transactions, the so-called net-to-net system that eliminates a lot of paper shuffling and offsetting trades.

This method requires member firms to bring forward each day their security and money positions in much the way a bank reaches its daily balance. The system has conclusively proved itself during the paper crunch of recent years, Phelan contends.

Increasing use of computers by the Exchange's two subsidiaries — the Pacific Coast Stock Exchange Clearing Corporation and the Pacific Coast Service Corporation, which provides computerized readouts of all transactions for brokerage-company back offices — is another reason for growth, the Exchange believes.

It also is an important factor because the Exchange's two trading floors are 400 miles apart.

THE PACIFIC Coast Exchange was formed in 1957 by the merger of the San Francisco and Los Angeles Stock Exchanges and both trading floors are still used.

The distance between the two trading floors is minimized by the computerization and telephone circuits. A buy order for 30 shares in San Francisco, for example, could be matched with 200 shares on the Los Angeles floor and 100 from a specialist in San Francisco within 10 seconds through the telephone set-up.

The dual trading-floor arrangement also requires Phelan to carry a diplomatic portfolio to smooth over the traditional rivalry between Northern and Southern California.

A native of the Southland, Phelan now has his home in the San Francisco area and maintains an apartment in Los Angeles.

APRIL COMPLETION Rollins-TER Building New Complex in L.B.

Construction has been started by Rollins-TER, Inc., on a new $300,000 office and maintenance facility at Long Beach.

The complex is expected to provide full service truck leasing as well as truck rental service for the Long Beach area, according to James O. Nelson, Rollins-TER president.

The facility is being constructed on a 73,000-square-foot site at 20340

Sante Fe Ave., in the Dominguez Hills area adjacent to the Long Beach Freeway.

Completion is expected by April. Ground was broken Dec. 16.

Rollins-TER is a Portland, Ore.-based company that specializes in full-maintenance truck leasing and maintains a large fleet of short-term rental trucks at branches throughout the West Coast, Arizona and Nebraska.

The Long Beach facility will be the company's 10th leasing and rental outlet. Others are at Anaheim, San Leandro and Montebello, Calif.; Portland and Toledo, Ore.; Seattle and Tacoma, Wash.; Phoenix and Omaha.

THE COMPANY was formerly Transportation Equipment Rentals, Inc.

It was acquired by Rollins International, Inc., of Wilmington, Del., in 1968, and the name was changed to Rollins-TER last December.

The parent company is active in a number of corporate services including full-maintenance truck and automobile vehicle leasing coast-to-coast, disposal of liquid and solid industrial pollutants, communications and electrical engineering and plant operations maintenance, bulk commodity distribution and terminaling, computer training center and stock certification and transfer.

Its common stock is traded on the American Stock Exchange.

THE building provides office space and fully equipped maintenance shop that includes two drive-through bays, one with a service pit.

For his first 21 years, life for Soto was bleak — in the place of his birth, Tayoltita, in Durango, Mexico.

Shortly after his 21st birthday, Soto came to the Southland and, although not a citizen, was accepted as a Marine Corps enlistee. He spent 18 months in Vietnam and, upon his discharge at El Toro in 1967, he immediately applied for citizenship.

Four months later he proudly pocketed his "papers."

Then he heard of an equal opportunities program at Macmillan Ring-Free Oil Company, applied and was hired at its Signal Hill refinery.

Within one year he had three job advancements — from the "black" gang to laboratories to loader.

Each day, Soto commutes 60 miles round trip from Los Angeles where the young bachelor cares for his widowed mother.

HOPE FOR RELIEF

Experimental Trains Solve Noise Problem

Few elements of modern life are more exasperating than the transportation systems — highways overloaded with traffic, buses that fill city air with fumes, shrieking subway trains and whining jets that add to the general din.

One hope for relief lies in a new generation of experimental trains that move in swift silence and may ultimately entice travelers off the highways and air lanes.

Two developments have made such trains possible: the air cushion that replaces wheels and virtually eliminates friction, and the linear electric motor that pulls the train in almost complete silence.

While air-cushioned vehicles are not new, there have recently been some radical innovations in that domain.

Notable among these is the "negative air cushion" or "vacuum cleaner" train being developed in Lyon, France. Known as "Urba" because it is designed for municipal rapid transit, it hangs by suction from an overhead rail, without touching it, and is propelled by a linear motor.

THE United States Department of Transportation and a California aerospace firm, The Garrett Corp., recently displayed a railroad train propelled by a linear motor and designed to attain speed of 25 miles an hour.

This experimental model rides on rails and carries only two men.

However, when the train was shown inside a hanger at Los Angeles International Airport, James M. Beggs, U.S. Under Secretary of Transportation, looked to the ultimate replacement of wheels by an air cushion system.

What he had in mind was not overhead suction but cushion-supporting the train by a downward blast of air. A French group near Paris is developing such a system, the Aero-train, that rides on an air cushion and is propelled by a linear motor.

A CONVENTIONAL electric motor operates on a simple principle: when an electric current is passed through a wire that traverses a magnetic field, the magnetism pushes at the wire.

This is exploited by building a device, or "stator" that remains stationary and a "rotor" inside it that spins.

The stator is wired to generate a magnetic field that swiftly rotates around the circumference of the stator. At the same time an electric current is induced in the rotor so that it responds to the magnetism. The result is that the rotating magnetic field causes the rotor to spin.

A linear induction motor operates on the same principle, but a thin, straight rail takes the place of the rotor. Magnets on the movable motor enclose (but do not touch) the rail on both sides and an electric current is induced in the rail, causing it to push the magnets forward. If the flow of current is reversed, the pull is in the opposite direction, making it possible to slow the train rapidly, much as reverse thrust on jet engines brings plane to a quick halt.

THE disadvantage of linear motors is their energy consumption. The designers of France's Urba train estimate that it will require about 20 per cent more energy to move one passenger one mile than does, for example, the New York City subway system.

However, they argue that energy costs are a small part of the budget for a rapid transit system and that light, air-cushioned cars like those of Urba are so much cheaper to build that this will more than make up for the higher energy cost.

The prospects are also for steadily declining power costs as atomic power

AT ORANGE

Kerney Tindle, former administrative officer with Bank of America's San Bernardino regional headquarters, have been appointed manager of Chapman-Tustin branch in Orange.

Home Savings Expands

Home Savings and Loan of Los Angeles, America's largest savings and loan association, with assets in excess of 3 billion dollars, has acquired all the outstanding stock of Guarantee Savings and Loan of Livermore.

This marks Home's initial entry into the San Francisco Bay area with offices in San Francisco, Oakland, San Jose, and Livermore.

"Extending our services into the San Francisco Bay area is a natural development," says Richard Dehl, president of Home, pointing out that the firm's savings in that area already total in the millions.

FUTURE plans for the new northern branches, according to spokesmen, include on-line computerization for instant inquiry on any account.

The system already is in use in Home's Southern California branches, and has greatly improved the quality of service to customers, making it possible for them to eventually transact business on their account in any branch, in any other of Home's offices throughout the state.

Procurement Meeting Set

Top military procurement officers from Southern California will meet with industry representatives in a day-long workshop Jan. 26 on selling commissaries and post exchanges.

The meeting will be held at Rodger Young Auditorium, Los Angeles, and will be sponsored by the Southern California chapter, Defense Supply Association.

Crucible Breaks Ground in Carson

Crucible Specialty Metals Division of Colt Industries has broke ground in Carson for a new $600,000 warehouse and office.

When opened in early spring, the building will house the most modern and efficient facilities for the expeditious handling of specialty steel and titanium bar, rod and wire.

Turning the first shovel of earth at ground breaking ceremonies, Fred H. Thoke, district manager, said:

"The area will benefit from delivery service of one day or less from this new facility which will carry complete stocks of every product we manufacture. Fast deliveries are also assured other coast areas and customers in the Rocky Mountain states, Arizona and New Mexico."

The new structure rising on a 4.1-acre plot will be close to north, south, east and west freeways providing rapid trucking service. It also will be served by a spur track of the Southern Pacific routed directly into the warehouse. Loading of trucks and rail cars will be facilitated by two floor-operated pendant-controlled overhead cranes of 5 and 10 ton capacity.

VERTICAL storage to within six feet of the 29-foot high warehouse roof will utilize cantilevered racks and steel trays for storage purpose.

These are to be serviced in the 4 1/2 foot wide aisles by a 6,000-pound capacity, battery-powered loader. This system expedites the handling of a wide range of jobs in the least amount of space in the 17,300 square-foot warehouse.

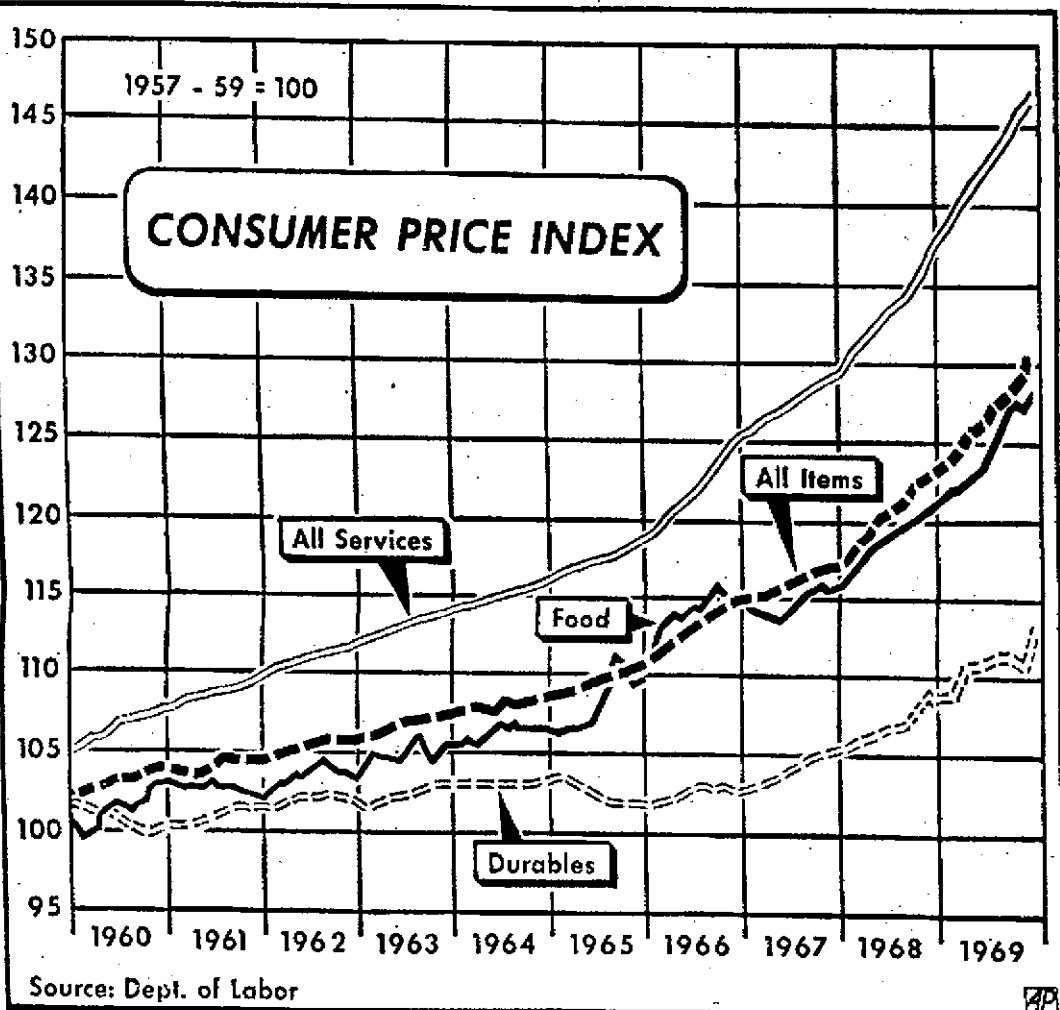

Several hacksaws including the largest commercial unit in the area and one of the fastest precision-cutting bandsaws made, will cut stock to customers' close tolerance specifications.

Exterior walls of the warehouse are planned to be tilt up type reinforced concrete. The office building will be faced with brick and the warehouse walls painted in desert tones. Reinforced concrete building columns space the interior walls of the warehouse every twenty feet. The warehouse floor will be eight-inch reinforced concrete.

Landscaping calls for the planting of California native sycamores, Canary Island pine, Algerian Ivy and Pfitzer Junipers. Parking space is planned for 48 private cars in the 40,000 square-foot yard.

Low noise levels are unquestionably a great asset of vehicles propelled by linear motors.

A ride in the Urba prototype shows that it is quieter than an automobile. Some of the high-speed train designs call for propulsion by jet or propeller, Extending our services into the San Francisco Bay area is a natural development," says Richard Dehl, president of Home, pointing out that the firm's savings in that area already total in the millions.

FUTURE plans for the new northern branches, according to spokesmen, include on-line computerization for instant inquiry on any account.

The system already is in use in Home's Southern California branches, and has greatly improved the quality of service to customers, making it possible for them to eventually transact business on their account in any branch, in any other of Home's offices throughout the state.

Procurement

Meeting Set

Top military procurement officers from Southern California will meet with industry representatives in a day-long workshop Jan. 28 on selling commissaries and post exchanges.

The meeting will be held at Rodger Young Auditorium, Los Angeles, and will be sponsored by the Southern California chapter, Defense Supply Association.

Crucible Breaks Ground in Carson

Crucible Specialty Metals Division of Colt Industries has broke ground in Carson for a new $600,000 warehouse and office.

When opened in early spring, the building will house the most modern and efficient facilities for the expeditious handling of specialty steel and titanium bar, rod and wire.

Turning the first shovel of earth at ground breaking ceremonies, Fred H. Thoke, district manager, said:

"The area will benefit from delivery service of one day or less from this new facility which will carry complete stocks of every product we manufacture. Fast deliveries are also assured other coast areas and customers in the Rocky Mountain states, Arizona and New Mexico."

The new structure rising on a 4.1-acre plot will be close to north, south, east and west freeways providing rapid trucking service. It also will be served by a spur track of the Southern Pacific routed directly into the warehouse. Loading of trucks and rail cars will be facilitated by two floor-operated pendant-controlled overhead cranes of 5 and 10 ton capacity.

VERTICAL storage to within six feet of the 20-foot high warehouse roof will utilize cantilevered racks and steel trays for storage purpose. These are to be serviced in the 4½ foot wide aisles by a 6,000-pound capacity, battery-powered loader. This system expedites the handling of a wide range of jobs in the least amount of space in the 17,300 square-foot warehouse.

Several hacksaws including the largest commercial unit in the area and one of the fastest precision-cutting bandsaws made, will cut stock to customers' close tolerance specifications.

Exterior walls of the warehouse are planned to be tilt up type reinforced concrete. The office building will be faced with brick and the warehouse walls painted in desert tones. Reinforced concrete building columns space the interior walls of the warehouse every twenty feet. The warehouse floor will be eight-inch reinforced concrete.

Landscaping calls for the planting of California native sycamores, Canary Island pine, Algerian Ivy and Pfitzer Junipers. Parking space is planned for 48 private cars in the 40,000 square-foot yard.

Joint Tenancy Clause Isn't Fool-Proof Method

By DON CAMPBELL

Each of us, in his own way, and in his own time, has to learn that "there's no such thing as a free lunch," no fool-proof system for betting on the horses and no positive cure for the common cold.

To this list we should, perhaps, add the pointed reminder that, contrary to the thinking in some circles, joint tenancy isn't a fool-proof method of beating the high cost and tedious delays of probate.

MR. CAMPBELL: I have read your weekly column for some time past with a great deal of enjoyment and, as long as I have been a constant reader, I appreciate being able to avail myself of your counsel.

Some 17 years ago, my divorced sister decided that, as I was a bachelor, it would be advantageous to us both if she were to make her home with me. Inasmuch as she offered the down payment for the purchase of a house, we decided it would be advantageous if we were to purchase the property in "joint tenancy, i.e. brother and sister." The deed and necessary papers were recorded in that manner.

"This arrangement has been satisfactory, and she has no income and has been a volunteer housekeeper, making her home with me. But now, we are wondering if our action in purchasing in such a "joint tenancy" was as smart as at first blush it appeared to be.

In the event of the death of either party, we are wondering what legal complications would be involved in recording a deed or in the survivor attempting to sell the property. — MR. M. C. H.

ANSWER: Legally, people in this position are known as "joint tenants with rights of survivorship" — and that last noun, of course, is the key word since property held this way usually passes automatically to the survivor when one owner dies.

Since it isn't considered part of his probate estate it bypasses the tedious and costly probate-court process.

The process, in fact, has become so common as to be taken, for granted in most instances of home ownership by husband and wife and has, inaccurately, been called "the poor man's will."

But, like all "sure things" joint tenancy can have its pitfalls as well as its obvious advantages — in the case of simultaneous death of the two parties or, in the case of husband and wife, when separation or divorce enters the picture, to name only a couple of examples.

For openers, though, it should be emphasized that joint tenancy does NOT rule out the necessity for a will and, since the laws governing joint tenancy will vary slightly from state to state, a lawyer should be consulted if you have any reservations about acquiring property under these terms.

In the cases of Mr. M. C. H., however, it is difficult to see why joint tenancy shouldn't prove to be a perfectly practical solution for him and his sister. The estate involved here apparently isn't large enough to create the sort of tax headache that some relatively wealthy property owners encounter under their "rights of survivorship." Nor does it seem likely, after 17 years, that the brother and sister are going to dissolve their partnership.

I would, however, advise them to see their lawyer on the matter of wills designed to make the joint tenancy fool-proof.

MR. CAMPBELL: I know that the most patriotic course of action today is to stop spending where possible, and to put off large expenditure until the national economy settles. But I hate being a "patsy."

I feel that it will be much to my benefit to have a $3,000 pool installed now, betting that inflation will cause me to pay for it with cheaper dollars. Don't you agree that it is most likely we will continue at our present pace of inflation? (Frankly, I'm glad not to be facing retirement right now.)

I earn some $10,000, have three kids, a mortgage payment of $135 and a car payment of $52 — nothing more. Some savings — less than $1,500 in all. We live in a good area of town and feel a pool would be of considerable value to the entire family. It would also add to the properly value, but that is not important since we don't foresee moving.

The $3,000 will come from a loan on a life insurance policy, repayable at will, not on demand — and at 5 per cent. I only hesitate to get into a nonliquid position. — Mr. D. S.

ANSWER: Betting on, or against, continued inflation is always a tricky proposition although, granted, gambling on a steadily eroding dollar has paid off handsomely enough in recent years. The thought has to be held, though, that the government's current anti-inflation campaign may, indeed, work and halt — if not reverse — the trend.

Frankly, though, I wouldn't let such sweeping matters as the United States government's monetary and fiscal policies influence me too much in my decision to build, or defer, a swimming pool. And, from what you have told me about your finances, I can't see that undertaking this project would strain your resources very much.

It's true that you're sacrificing some liquidity, but you are in great shape where it counts the most — in your personal debt load. I think that the advantages outweigh the disadvantages, and this is particularly so in your part of the country where a pool is so clearly an asset to good living. I suggest, however, that you establish a reasonable repayment schedule for yourself and stick to it.

(Campbell welcomes letters. He is unable to enter into personal correspondence, but will attempt to answer as many letters as possible in his column.)

Truck Traffic Strangling Cities, Experts Agree

NEW YORK (UPI) — If American cities are to survive they're going to have to unfreeze truck traffic, according to trucking leaders.

The city today lives largely off trucks, and in the bigger cities truck traffic slowly being strangled by other vehicles and by costs that are rising spectacularly. Sometimes the traffic breaks down completely in snowstorms.

The American Trucking Association reports that, in spite of an 8 per cent rise in total business to a record $13.3 billion in 1969, the trucking industry had a $36 million shrinkage in profit. Much of it was in the big cities.

When a truck approaches the heart of a big city, its operating cost per mile skyrockets. A study in Toronto, a city less strangled than some, showed average operating cost of a truck jumps from 78 cents a mile in the suburbs to more than $2 a mile in the heart of Toronto.

SOME idea of the magnitude of the problem may be seen from industry calculations that in dense cities such as New York, Chicago and Los Angeles, it takes one truck trip a day for every five inhabitants to keep the city going.

That means 1.6 million trips a day to serve the eight million inhabitants of the central city of New York, and many trucks can make only one trip a day.

John Page, head of the Trailer Division of Clark Equipment Co. of Buchanan, Mich., says the streets of big American cities simply aren't adequate to handle the truck and passenger traffic simultaneously, and not enough people are facing up to that fact.

"SINCE 20 per cent of almost every dollar the average American spends goes for transportation it's time we did face up to it and start cutting the drain," Page said.

"Money wasted on expensive transportation in the cities is as bad as money wasted on unduly high taxes."

Some cities are tackling the problem with special routes for trucks that speed up traffic as much as 25 per cent — Detroit, Minneapolis, Dallas and Miami, for example.

Philadelphia has a law requiring off the street truck loading docks in all new buildings going up in the central city.

But Page said trucking experts don't believe these measures will be enough to halt the strangulation of truck traffic in the big cities. Much more drastic measures will be needed.

HE SAID trucking men believe serious consideration soon will have to be given to such measures as:

— Charging tolls on out of town passenger cars entering inner cities. Also taxing local drivers by means of an electronic meter for using inner city streets.

— Closing downtown areas completely to private automobiles in the hours of the day when truck deliveries are heaviest.

Researchers at Northwestern University said in a recent report that where special truck routes have been laid out in cities, they usually are run over poorly paved secondary streets.

The Northwestern researchers concluded it would make more sense to establish special truck routes over the widest and best streets and let the passenger cars keep out of their way.

FREEDOM OR OBSCENITY?

Smut Trial Arguments End

By MOLLY BURRELL
Staff Writer

How far does freedom of expression go in the context of a changing society? This question, posed by the prosecution, was the major issue before Long Beach jurors Friday as the smut trial of two "adult" book store merchants ended in Municipal Court.

The defendants, Martin Allen, 40, operator of the A&A Bookstore, 214 W. Anaheim St., and Robert Burros, 31, of Los Angeles, clerk at the A&A Shop, 23 N. Locust Ave., are charged with possession and peddling of pornographic materials.

Police said three films and two magazines introduced as evidence at the trial Thursday were bought at the stores by officers prior to the arrest of the two men last October during a six-store smut crackdown.

"Does consumption or use make a thing right or acceptable or legal by community standards?" City Prosecutor Alfred Doybisch asked in his final summary.

"If this were the case, we could say 'let's throw out all our laws against homosexuality, marijuana, and prostitution he said.

"WE MUST weigh the right to profit with the danger to society, and the law which says sale of obscene material is illegal," he told the jury.

"This seems to be a problem of trying to impose the will of a minority on the majority. That minority says 'we must be able to buy whatever we want.' But the law says no — you can't buy obscene material, narcotics without prescription, stolen goods, or imports from Red China. Profit doesn't justify the existence of any business dealing in any of these," Doybisch said.

Defense attorney George Grove Jr. argued that "the Constitution protects the individual's right to receive and express ideas regardless of their social value."

"To some, these materials have a value. Are we to condemn a person because he wants something — wants to buy something?" he asked.

GROVE URGED jurors to weigh testimony of Sgt. Jack Greenlee of the Sheriff's vice detail, whose survey of community standards was a major point of discussion in the trial.

"Remember: this is a police officer whose job it is to prosecute obscenity — if indeed there is such a thing," Grove told the panel.

Grove also urged jurors to consider Supreme Court standards for determining obscenity: that which appeals solely to prurient interest, lacks redeeming social value, and exceeds contemporary community standards.

"There is no expert testimony here on what is prurient, whether this material appeals solely to these interests. Nor is there any expert testimony on redeeming social value," Grove said.

Grove earlier had put his own survey taker on the stand in an effort to establish a "community standard" at variance with that reported by Sgt. Greenlee.

Grove's witness, Arthur Kidder, told of interviewing 100 people in four large cities — 95 per cent of them male — 90 per cent of whom had no objection to having materials similar to the trial exhibits available in stores.

Defendant Allen testified that he reviewed all materials prior to placing them on sale in an effort to determine if they were within legal bounds.

Judge Charles Litwin adjourned the jury until 9:30 a.m. Monday when they will be instructed prior to adjourning for deliberations.

Five More File for Council Seat in April Election

By DON BRACKENBURY
Staff Writer

There are 17 potential candidates in the April 7 special election to fill the Sixth District vacancy on the City Council.

To qualify, each must file with the city clerk by 5 p.m. Tuesday a nomination petition signed by a minimum of 50 registered voters within the Sixth District.

The other 12 who filed previously, are:

James P. McGuinness Sr., 2652 Cedar Ave.
Richard Tate, 1885 Corinne Ave.
Ben Lett, 1164 Salt Lake St., Apt. No. 1.
Stephen D. Kokinas, 325 W. 17th St.
John B. Emmons, 2348 Atlantic Ave.

Vance A. Hardy, 2465-A Atlantic Ave.
Harry Raloff, 2213 Myrtle Ave.
William F. Alexander, 1818 Pasadena Ave.
P. B. Simmons, 1726 Gundry Ave.
Robert H. Cash, 2289½ Lewis Ave.
John E. McClung, 1076 E. 17th St.
Arne R. Tite, 2191 Chestnut Ave.

RAMBO WON'T ENTER RACE

John B. Rambo, prominent Long Beach athlete, ended speculation about his candidacy for a special 6th District councilmanic election Friday with an announcement he will not run.

He said his decision does not constitute a complete withdrawal "of my political aspirations, but rather a delay until the time I can fulfill my present obligations."

In a prepared statement, Rambo said, "For many years I have tried to serve my community in the best interest of its potential and would have welcomed the opportunity to serve as a representative of my district. However, as a consequence of several present commitments, I do not feel I could run a successful campaign nor function properly if I were elected to office."

Rambo expressed his "sincerest appreciation to the people who have encouraged my running and for their unparalleled support of my competency to compete for the 6th District position."

City Will Operate Queen Mary Parking

The city still controls general parking planned for the Queen Mary's permanent berth area, and will receive all profits from it, City Manager John R. Mansell has assured councilmen.

Councilman Paul R. Deats had asked whether Diners/Queen Mary will have control of the parking area.

Mansell said Diners/Queen Mary will have some valet parking, but the city will operate general parking.

Councilman Wayne B. Sharp asked if Diners Club will be given any parking area on the Pacific Terrace end of the proposed aerial tramway to the Queen Mary. Mansell said it would not.

The discussion arose this week as the council discussed acquisition of a special land-going "tugboat" transportation service to carry visitors from remote parts of the Queen Mary parking lot to ship-side.

Councilmen awarded a $61,306 contract to Minibus, Inc., of Pico Rivera, to modify two city-owned tow tractors so they will look like tugboats, and to furnish five passenger cars, which will be designed in a nautical style.

Leonard's Plans Huge Facility in Carson

By BOB ANDREW
Staff Writer

Leonard's Discount Department Store chain has applied for a building permit for a $2.1 million facility in Carson, just south of the San Diego Freeway at Wilmington Avenue.

"This would be by far the largest building permit issued by the city of Carson since its incorporation two years ago," said Gary Nehrenberg, director of the city's building and safety department.

The 350,000-square-foot building at the southwest corner of 223rd Street and Wilmington Avenue will provide the major warehouse facility for the discount chain, as well as corporation offices and a 36,700-square-foot retail sales department specializing in hard goods, such as appliances and furniture.

Robert Leonard, president of the company, said the project is expected to break ground within a month and be completed in eight months. The contracting firm of Carpenter and Smallwood of Los Angeles will build the 1,000-foot-long structure.

"We picked this location because of the excellent freeway access and rail service in order to provide centralized warehouse facilities for all of our Southern California stores," Leonard said.

$180 Tape Deck Stolen from Car

Polly Johnson, of 940 Pacific Ave., told police Friday that thieves broke into her car while it was parked near her home and took a tape deck and tapes worth $180.

Existing warehouse areas near the Los Angeles International Airport will be phased out after the new building is completed.

Leonard said three other sales outlets for his firm are in the planning stages, but he did not reveal their location.

In addition to the firm's own warehouse space, two other warehouse areas in the building will be available to lease to other occupants.

New Ice Floor for Arena to Cost $15,500

Plans for replacement and modification of the ice-floor system equipment in Long Beach Arena have been approved by the City Council.

The work will involve replacement of a deteriorated 3,000-gallon brine-storage tank, reconstruction of the existing pump and replacement of piping and insulation.

Estimated cost of the work is $15,500. The city manager's office was authorized to advertise for bids.

City Manager John R. Mansell said the project is to be completed in time for the 1970 Ice Capades show, scheduled to open in the arena on May 18.

Salt and Peppers in Comedy Debut

The Salt and Pepper Actor's Workshop (formerly Actors' Workshop) will present its first public performance Sunday with a series of blackout comedy sketches at the group's new headquarters, 2020 Atlantic Ave.

Show times are 6, 7:30 and 9 p.m. The six-month-old, ghetto-based workshop is a non-professional operation that is providing free drama tutoring for disadvantaged Long Beach youngsters.

Director Tom Moses said the performances are primarily an effort to raise funds to finance the operations of the workshop building, the Salt and Pepper Theatre.

Television actor Larry Hagman of the "I Dream of Jeannie" series, and several other show business personalities, are expected to attend the show, Moses said.

Donations are $2.

Matt Finds There is a Silver Lining

Matt Haynes' life, which hasn't looked too sunny lately, brightened considerably Friday.

Jobless, recovering from an illness and beset with problems trying to maintain himself and his 16-month-old son on state and county welfare, Haynes had been backed against the wall when his state unemployment payment was suspended.

Matt's story appeared in Friday's editions of the Independent Press-Telegram. Late in the day he called the newspaper with good tidings.

"A lot of people came by today," he said. "They brought food for the baby and food for me. The lights are turned on again — and the gas, too.

"The biggest thing to happen was that one man offered me a job," Matt added. "That was what I wanted most. If it works out, maybe I'll be able to get off the welfare."

"It looks like I'm going to be alright," he said. "And so is little Mike."

Tape Deck, Radio Equipment Stolen

COOL BREAK ON THE BRIDGE

Jimmy Flood takes time out for short drink of water Friday during work on Queen's Way Bridge, which will link downtown with Pier J site of the Queen Mary. First section of the $13.9 million span was slipped into place Tuesday. When completed, the mile-long bridge will channel traffic to Long Beach's newest attraction.

EARL WILSON

Gleason, in Love, Tired by Work

NEW YORK—With rumors afloat that Jackie Gleason is so much in love with Beverly Sills that he wants to stay off the air next season and just be a lover, we hear stories that Jackie feels he works too hard on his show to be a lover-boy, too.

His pal, chum, partner and manager, Jack Philbin, supposedly took a long look at the Great One not long ago when he was lamenting about working too hard.

"Now wait a second," Philbin allegedly said. "About you working too hard. . . You worked a half hour Monday and 15 minutes Tuesday and you're going to work a little Thursday and several hours Friday and that's about it."

Jackie of course had an answer, and cherubic grin. "But Pal," he said, "I'm thinking about it every hour of the day and night!"

MRS. HOWARD HUGHES, beautiful Jean Peters, who wants a divorce, has been seen with another man—good-looking late 40ish, 6-foot-3, 200-pound Stanley Hough, the 20th Century-Fox production boss who modestly says, "I just run the tool shed."

When they turned the studio around to make a New York set for "Hello, Dolly!" his boys did it.

"Jean's an old friend," Hough said when I phoned him in LA about the inside information. "We went to the Rose Bowl 20 years ago. We went to the 'Hello, Dolly!' premiere. I think I first met her when she was in the picture 'Captain from Castile' right after the war in '46 or '47."

"But they say you might get married," we said.

"She's still married to Mr. Hughes, whom I've never met," he said. "At this point it's not a romance. It would not help anybody to say anything. About the future, I don't know."

Hough has been twice a widower. And—just like in the Hollywood movies—they recently "re-met" and found mutual interests. (In fact, what a picture that's going to make. I hope to have the outline done tomorrow.)

JOE NORBAN, boss of El Morocco, heard two customers claiming that Hughes is now wearing a beard and whipping around Las Vegas in a Volkswagen. The story persists that he was lugged into a Boston clinic in a trunk so he could avoid people, that for the same reason he had himself carried into the Las Vegas Desert Inn in an icebox. . . and that due to fear of germs, he gave up shoes for Kleenex boxes.

TODAY'S WORST PUN: Author Leonard L. Levinson heard of a household

gadget, a combination clock and can opener, and suggested an ad slogan: "It'll help you, through tick and tin."

WISH I'D SAID THAT: It's a darn good thing that man invented the wheel—otherwise, no pizza pie.

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "About the only way we motorists will ever get to look at scenery is if it's painted on billboards."

EARL'S PEARLS: Someone described a particularly thrifty comedian: "His wallet is untouched by human hands."

MAURIZIO POLLINI 'No Less Than Impressive'

written for an American orchestra by and American composer before 1940—but its strengths seem to have accumulated extra compound interest in the 31 years since Koussevitzky first introduced it in Boston. It is a knockout of a piece, and, Thursday at least, music director Zubin Mehta delivered most of the energy and thrust it contains. Harris himself appeared—he will be 72 next month, but he looks hale and hearty as ever—on the stage afterward and took several bows.

HARRIS' celebrated and stirring Third Symphony, which has never been heard at The Music Center (and which, indeed, the Philharmonic has not played since Hollywood Bowl's 1958 season), was this program's focal point. It always sounded exactly like what it is—a work pillar was the Chopin concerto, given a beautifully sculptured, wonderfully literal reading by Maurizio Pollini, the acclaimed Italian pianist now making a belated first American tour.

Pollini's solid, and solidly musical, playing may be the opposite of spontaneous, and he does tend to make harsh sounds at upper dynamic levels, but this debut was no less than deeply impressive, nonetheless. Judging from the excited behavior of a portion of the audience, it was a good deal more than that to some of those present.

The Haydn Symphony opened the concert; the Ravel piece closed it. In the Haydn, the oboe solos were taken by Barbara Winters, who thereby earned her own ovation.

A COMMENT on the insky, come home!

'Incongruous' Philharmonic Program Deeply Impressive

By DANIEL CARIAGA Music Critic

The Los Angeles Philharmonic's eleventh pair of Pavilion concerts of this 51st season—Thursday and Friday nights, with a third hearing scheduled for Sunday's three o'clock matinee—looked incongruous on paper: the Symphony No. 96, in D, of Haydn, Chopin's F minor Piano Concerto, Roy Harris' Third Symphony, and Ravel's "La Valse."

To the eye, this did seem an odd assortment of medium-length works from four corners of the repertory. But, in the ear, it proved perfectly valid. And the chosen pieces surprised us by putting each other in new perspective.

HARRIS' celebrated and stirring Third Symphony, which has never been heard at The Music Center (and which, indeed, the Philharmonic has not played since Hollywood Bowl's 1958 season), was this program's focal point. It always sounded exactly like what it is—a work pillar was the Chopin concerto, given a beautifully sculptured, wonderfully literal reading by Maurizio Pollini, the acclaimed Italian pianist now making a belated first American tour.

The Haydn Symphony opened the concert; the Ravel piece closed it. In the Haydn, the oboe solos were taken by Barbara Winters, who thereby earned her own ovation.

A COMMENT on the insky, come home!

Philharmonic's new program notes, which this season are being written by a new, and many-membered stable of musical journalists: Yes, they're informative, and yes, some of them are very well done. But they are in no way an improvement on the singular and brilliant annotations of Nicolas Slonimsky, who wrote for these programs from 1966 to 1969.

I miss Slonimsky's peevish, eccentric, pertinent, and Nabokovian prose. It was provocative; it made one think, and listen; it sent us regularly to the dictionary—a wonderful place to be sent, by the way; occasionally, it made us angry. And now we are getting the hohums over the very competent, but generally colorless tone of the new annotators. Slonimsky, come home!

They look seaward—and into their dreams of adventure. Beyond the dying sun and the gull circling lazily await the spice of the Orient and secrets locked forever in the rusted holds of ships that never came back. The searchers on

FREEDOM OR OBSCENITY?

Smut Trial Arguments End

By MOLLY BURRELL
Staff Writer

How far does freedom of expression go in the context of a changing society? This question, posed by the prosecution, was the major issue before Long Beach jurors Friday as the smut trial of two "adult" book store merchants ended in Municipal Court. The defendants, Martin Allen, 40, operator of the A&A Bookstore, 214 W. Anaheim St., and Robert Burrus, 31, of Los Angeles, clerk at the A&A Shop, 23 N. Locust Ave., are charged with possession and peddling of pornographic materials. Police said three films and two magazines introduced as evidence at the trial Thursday were bought at the stores by officers prior to the arrest of the two men last October during a six-store smut crackdown.

"Does consumption or use make a thing right or acceptable or legal by community standards?" City Prosecutor Alfred Dovbish asked in his final summation.

"If this were the case, we could say 'let's throw out all our laws against homosexuality, marijuana, and prostitution he said.

"WE MUST weigh the right to profit with the danger to society, and the law which says sale of obscene material is illegal," he told the jury.

"This seems to be a problem of trying to impose the will of a minority on the majority. That minority says 'we must be able to buy whatever we want.' But the law says no — you can't buy obscene material, narcotics without prescription, stolen goods, or imports from Red China. Profit doesn't justify the existence of any business dealing in any of these," Dovbish said.

Defense attorney George Grove Jr. argued that "the Constitution protects the individual's right to receive and express ideas regardless of their social value."

"To some, these materials have a value. Are we to condemn a person because he wants something — wants to buy something?" he asked.

GROVE URGED jurors to weigh testimony of Sgt. Jack Greenlees of the Sheriff's vice detail, whose survey of community standards was a major point of discussion in the trial.

"Remember this is a police officer whose job it is to prosecute obscenity — if indeed there is such a thing," Grove told the panel.

Grove also urged jurors to consider Supreme Court standards for determining obscenity: that which appeals solely to prurient interest, lacks redeeming social value, and exceeds contemporary community standards.

"There is no expert testimony here on what is prurient, whether this material appeals solely to those interests. Nor is there any expert testimony on redeeming social value," Grove said.

Grove earlier had put his own survey taker on the stand in an effort to establish a "community standard" at variance with that reported by Sgt. Greenlees.

Grove's witness, Arthur Kidder, told of interviewing 100 people in four large cities — 95 per cent of them male — 90 per cent of whom had no objection to having materials similar to the trial exhibits available in stores.

Defendant Allen testified that he reviewed all materials prior to placing them on sale in an effort to determine if they were within legal bounds.

Judge Charles Litwin adjourned the jury until 9:30 a.m. Monday when they will be instructed prior to adjourning for deliberations.

Leonard's Plans Huge Facility in Carson

By BOB ANDREW
Staff Writer

Leonard's Discount Department Store chain has applied for a building permit for a $2.1 million facility in Carson, just south of the San Diego Freeway at Wilmington Avenue.

"This would be by far the largest building permit issued by the city of Carson since its incorporation two years ago," said Gary Nehrenberg, director of the city's building and safety department.

The 350,000-square-foot building at the southwest corner of 223rd Street and Wilmington Avenue will provide the major warehouse facility for the discount chain, as well as corporation offices and a 36,700-square-foot retail sales department specializing in hard goods, such as appliances and furniture.

Robert Leonard, president of the company, said the project is expected to break ground within a month and be completed in eight months. The contracting firm of Carpenter and Smallwood of Los Angeles will build the 1,000-foot-long structure.

"We picked this location because of the excellent freeway access and rail service in order to provide centralized warehouse facilities for all of our Southern California stores," Leonard said.

Existing warehouse areas near the Los Angeles International Airport will be phased out after the new building is completed.

Leonard said three other sales outlets for his firm are in the planning stages, but he did not reveal their location.

In addition to the firm's own warehouse space, two other warehouse areas in the building will be available to lease to other occupants.

New Ice Floor for Arena to Cost $15,500

Plans for replacement and modification of the ice-floor system equipment in Long Beach Arena have been approved by the City Council.

The work will involve replacement of a deteriorated 3,000-gallon brine-storage tank, reconstruction of the existing pump and replacement of piping and insulation.

Estimated cost of the work is $15,500. The city manager's office was authorized to advertise for bids.

City Manager John R. Mansell said the project is to be completed in time for the 1970 Ice Capades show, scheduled to open in the arena on May 18.

Salt and Peppers in Comedy Debut

The Salt and Pepper Actor's Workshop (formerly Actors' Workshop) will present its first public performance Sunday with a series of blackout comedy sketches at the group's new headquarters, 2020 Atlantic Ave.

Show times are 6, 7:30 and 9 p.m. The six-month-old, ghetto-based workshop is a non-professional operation that is providing free drama tutoring for disadvantaged Long Beach youngsters.

Director Tom Moses said the performances are primarily an effort to raise funds to finance the operations of the workshop building, the Salt and Pepper Theatre.

Television actor Larry Hagman of the "I Dream of Jeannie" series, and several other show business personalities, are expected to attend the show, Moses said.

Donations are $2.

Matt Finds There is a Silver Lining

Matt Haynes' life, which hasn't looked too sunny lately, brightened considerably Friday.

Jobless, recovering from an illness and beset with problems trying to maintain himself and his 16-month-old son on state and county welfare, Haynes had been backed against the wall when his state unemployment payment was suspended.

Matt's story appeared in Friday's editions of the Independent Press-Telegram. Late in the day he called the newspaper with good tidings.

"A lot of people came by today," he said. "They brought food for the baby and food for me. The lights are turned on again — and the gas, too.

"The biggest thing to happen was that one man offered me a job," Matt added. "That was what I wanted most. If it works out, maybe I'll be able to get off the welfare."

"It looks like I'm going to be alright," he said. "And so is little Mike."

Tape Deck, Radio Equipment Stolen

Five More File for Council Seat in April Election

By DON BRACKENBURY
Staff Writer

There are 17 potential candidates in the April 7 special election to fill the Sixth District vacancy on the City Council.

To qualify, each must file with the city clerk by 5 p.m. Tuesday a nomination petition signed by a minimum of 50 registered voters within the Sixth District.

The other 12 who filed previously, are:

James P. McGuinness Sr., 2052 Cedar Ave.

Richard Tate, 1885 Corinne Ave.

Ben Lett, 1164 Sall Lake St., Apt. No. 1.

Stephen D. Kokinas, 325 W. 17th St.

John B. Emmons, 2348 Atlantic Ave.

Vance A. Hardy, 2465-A Atlantic Ave.

Harry Radloff, 2213 Myrtle Ave.

William F. Alexander, 1818 Pasadena Ave.

P. B. Simmons, 1726 Gundry Ave.

Robert H. Cash, 2289½ Lewis Ave.

John E. McClung, 1076 E. 17th St.

Arne R. Tite, 2191 Chestnut Ave.

RAMBO WON'T ENTER RACE

John B. Rambo, prominent Long Beach athlete, ended speculation about his candidacy for a special 6th District councilmanic election Friday with an announcement he will not run.

He said his decision does not constitute a complete withdrawal "of my political aspirations, but rather a delay until the time I can fulfill my present obligations."

In a prepared statement, Rambo said, "For many years I have tried to serve my community in the best interest of its potential and would have welcomed the opportunity to serve as a representative of my district. However, as a consequence of several present commitments, I do not feel I could run a successful campaign nor function properly if I were elected to office."

Rambo expressed his "sincerest appreciation to the people who have encouraged my running and for their unparalleled support of my competency to compete for the 6th District position."

City Will Operate Queen Mary Parking

The city still controls general parking planned for the Queen Mary's permanent berth area, and will receive all profits from it, City Manager John R. Mansell has assured councilmen.

Councilman Paul R. Deats had asked whether Diners/Queen Mary had been given control of the parking area.

Mansell said Diners/Queen Mary will have some valet parking, but the city will operate general parking.

Councilman Wayne B. Sharp asked if Diners Club will be given any parking area on the Pacific Terrace end of the proposed aerial tramway to the Queen Mary. Mansell said it would not.

The discussion arose this week as the council discussed acquisition of a special land-going "tugboat" transportation service to carry visitors from remote parts of the Queen Mary parking lot to ship-side.

Councilmen awarded a $61,306 contract to Minibus, Inc., of Pico Rivera, to modify two city-owned tow tractors so they will look like tugboats, and to furnish five passenger cars, which will be designed in a nautical style.

COOL BREAK ON THE BRIDGE

Jimmy Flood takes time out for short drink of water Friday during work on Queen's Way Bridge, which will link downtown with Pier J site of the Queen Mary. First section of the $13.9 million span was slipped into place Tuesday. When completed, the mile-long bridge will channel traffic to Long Beach's newest attraction.

EARL WILSON

Gleason, in Love, Tired by Work

NEW YORK—With rumors afloat that Jackie Gleason is so much in love with Beverly Sills that he wants to stay off the air next season and just be a lover, we hear stories that Jackie feels he works too hard on his show to be a lover-boy, too.

His pal, chum, partner and manager, Jack Philbin, supposedly took a long look at the Great One not long ago when he was lamenting about working too hard.

"Now wait a second," Philbin allegedly said. "About you working too hard. You worked a half hour Monday and 15 minutes Tuesday and you're going to work a little Thursday and several hours Friday and that's about it."

Jackie of course had an answer, and cherubic grin. "But Pal," he said, "I'm thinking about it every hour of the day and night!"

MRS. HOWARD HUGHES, beautiful Jean Peters, who wants a divorce, has been seen with another man—good-looking late 40ish, 6-foot-3, 200-pound Stanley Hough, the 20th Century-Fox production boss who modestly says, "I just run the tool shed."

When they turned the studio around to make a New York set for "Hello, Dolly!" his boys did it.

"Jean's an old friend," Hough said when I phoned him in LA about the inside information. "We went to the Rose Bowl 20 years ago, we went again two years ago. We went to the 'Hello, Dolly!' premiere. I think I first met her when she was in the picture 'Captain from Castile' right after the war in '46 or '47."

"But they say you might get married," we said.

"She's still married to Mr. Hughes, whom I've never met," he said. "At this point it's not a romance. It would not help anybody to say anything. About the future, I don't know."

Hough has been twice a widower. And—just like in the Hollywood movies—they recently "re-met" and found mutual interests. (In fact, what a picture that's going to make. I hope to have the outline done tomorrow.)

JOE NORBAN, boss of El Morocco, heard two customers claiming that Hughes is now wearing a beard and whipping around Las Vegas in a Volkswagen. The story persists that he was lugged into a Boston clinic in a trunk so he could avoid people, that for the same reason he had himself carried into the Las Vegas Desert Inn in an icebox... and that due to fear of germs, he gave up shoes for Kleenex boxes.

TODAY'S WORST PUN: Author Leonard L. Levinson heard of a household

gadget, a combination clock and can opener, and suggested an ad slogan: "It'll help you, through tick and tin."

WISH I'D SAID THAT: It's a darn good thing that man invented the wheel—otherwise, no pizza pie.

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "About the only way we motorists will ever get to look at scenery is if it's painted on billboards."

EARL'S PEARLS: Someone described a particularly thrifty comedian: "His wallet is untouched by human hands."

GUIDE TO MOVIES

As a guide to moviegoers, this newspaper on Wednesdays and Saturdays lists capsule contents of major motion pictures playing the Long Beach area. Most classifications represent the judgment of the Film Board of national organizations.

BATTLE OF BRITAIN — A dramatic recreation of the World War II air battle that saved the British Isles. The all-star cast is headed by Laurence Olivier and Michael Caine. (G).

FANNY HILL — John Cleland's notorious heroine is updated in this sometimes amusing Swedish exploitation import. (X).

TAKE THE MONEY AND RUN — Woody Allen flaps about in comic fashion as a hapless crook. His girl is Jane Fonda. (M).

THE DUNWICH HORROR — Ed Begley and Sandra Dee star in an H.P. Lovecraft horror story of the supernatural. (M).

DE SADE — A rather punishing film with Keir Dullea as the sadistic marquis, along with Senta Berger, Lilli Palmer and John Huston. (X).

FUNNY GIRL — Oscar winner Barbra Streisand portrays Fanny Brice, the neighborhood ugly duckling, who becomes a Ziegfeld Follies star. (G).

BUTCH CASSIDY AND THE SUNDANCE KID — An often witty western with Paul Newman and Robert Redford cast as a pair of outlaws in the early 1900s. (M).

THE REIVERS — Steve McQueen plays a Southern scoundrel who borrows a car and with a friend and

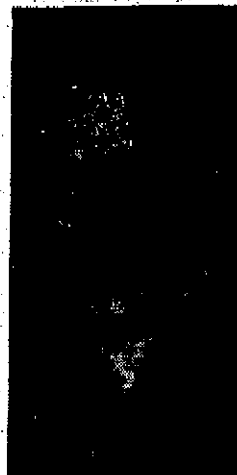

'Incongruous' Philharmonic Program Deeply Impressive

By DANIEL CARIAGA
Music Critic

The Los Angeles Philharmonic's eleventh pair of Pavilion concerts of this 51st season—Thursday and Friday nights, with a third hearing scheduled for Sunday's three o'clock matinee—looked incongruous on paper: the Symphony No. 96, in D, of Haydn, Chopin's F minor Piano Concerto, Roy Harris' Third Symphony, and Ravel's "La Valse."

To the eye, this did seem an odd assortment of medium-length works from four corners of the repertoire. But, in the ear, it proved perfectly valid. And the chosen pieces surprised us by putting each other in new perspective.

HARRIS' celebrated and stirring Third Symphony, which has never been heard at The Music Center (and which, indeed, the Philharmonic has not played since Hollywood Bowl's 1958 season), was this program's focal point. It always sounded exactly like what it is—a work written for an American orchestra by and American composer before 1940—but its strengths seem to have accumulated extra compund interest in the 31 years since Koussevitzky first introduced it in Boston. It is a knockout of a piece, and, Thursday at least, music director Zubin Mehta delivered most of the energy and thrust it contains. Harris himself appeared—he will be 72 next month, but he looks hale and hearty as ever—on the stage afterward and took several bows.

MAURIZIO POLLINI
'No Less Than Impressive'

THE PROGRAM'S other pillar was the Chopin concerto, given a beautifully sculptured, wonderfully literate reading by Maurizio Pollini, the acclaimed Italian pianist now making a belated first American tour.

Pollini's solid, and solidly musical, playing may be the opposite of spontaneous, and he does tend to make harsh sounds at upper dynamic levels, but this debut was no less than deeply impressive, nonetheless. Judging from the excited behavior of a portion of the audience, it was a good deal more than that to some of those present.

The Haydn Symphony opened the concert; the Ravel piece closed it. In the Haydn, the oboe solos were taken by Barbara Winters, who thereby earned her own ovation.

A COMMENT on the Philharmonic's new program notes, which this season are being written by a new, and many-membered stable of musical journalists: Yes, they are informative, and yes, some of them are very well done. But they are in no way an improvement on the singular and brilliant annotations of Nicolas Slonimsky, who wrote for these programs from 1966 to 1969.

I miss Slonimsky's peevish, eccentric, pertinent, and Nabokovian prose. It was provocative; it made one think, and listen; it sent us regularly to the dictionary—a wonderful place to be sent, by the way; occasionally, it made us angry. And now we are getting the homilies over the very competent, but generally colorless tongue of the new annotators. Slonimsky, come home!

GARDENING

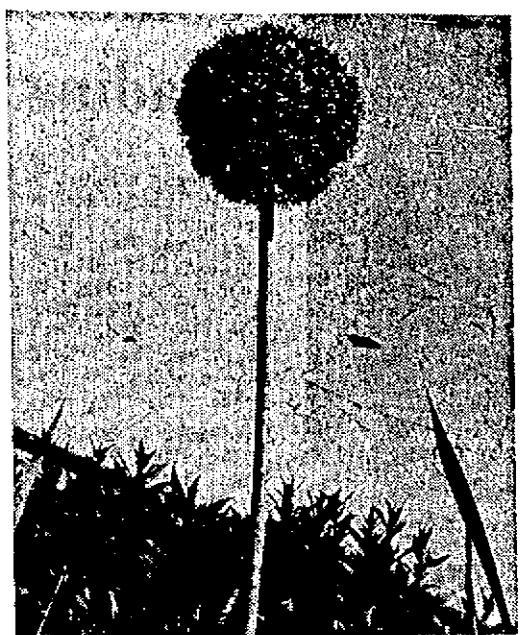

By JOE LITTLEFIELD

The large ball of rosy-violet flowers on a tall stem of Allium giganteum is striking and showy whether in the garden or indoors in a tall vase. The late James N. Gridlian of Oakhurst Gardens, an authority on out-of-the-ordinary bulbs, once counted the number of florets in one umbel, the cluster of flowers comprising a ball of blossoms) and surprisingly discovered 5,266 florets.

The first time Mrs. Littlefield saw these Alliums was in a florist shop, while I was checking on a bedding plant in the nursery department. She was enchanted by the flowers. I went in to the florist shop to buy some for her. I asked the price of the Alliums. The sales lady looked me in the eye and said, "I'll give you $4.00 per blossom." I went back to the car, explained the cost to Mrs. Littlefield, then told her we could buy a bulb for $2.50, and grow our own $4.00 Allium blossoms.

AND THAT'S not all about these flowers. You can dry some and use them for arrangement material. Hang the cut tall flower stems upside down in the garage to dry. Take them down a month later and use them in a dry arrangement. They'll last a year, or maybe longer.

BATON . . . Allium Giganteum

You will like these bulbs. As you plant them, be sure to place a stake near each bulb to serve as a marker when the foliage has died down. Otherwise, you might dig into the dormant bulb and lose it. The stake should be several inches above the ground.

If you were to ask us, "When is the right time to prune our roses?" we'd first say, "closely observe the branches. As soon as the buds begin to swell up and down the branches, that's the right time regardless what the calendar date is." But, it isn't always convenient to do that. Rosarians who grow roses for spring flower shows prune theirs between February 10th and the harvest for the shows. Some folk in milder areas start pruning their roses in late December. Gardeners in cold sections might not prune them till March, maybe later. We prune ours the third week of January.

Garden Jobs to Do Now

Pick faded camellia blossoms off the bush and continue to take them off the ground. This is done to avoid possible petal blight disease.

Feed hydrangeas a balanced plant food for better, longer-lasting flowers. Prune back the branches if this wasn't done when they finished blooming last summer. Cut back the branches to within two to three nodes of the previous season cuts. Hydrangeas will benefit from a dormant clean-up spray which is the spray used for deciduous fruit trees.

LINNETS nibble on apricot buds just as they are about to burst into bloom. If such has been the problem with your apricots, spray the tree with nicotine sulphate.

Prune crape myrtle tree or bush. Feed it a balanced plant food.

Rhododendron should be fed an acid food, then given a treatment of iron sulphate a month later.

Sow California wild flower mixture seeds in the bare sunny areas of your back yard for lots of spring color.

By JOE LITTLEFIELD

Q.—I have a Christmas cactus I started from a couple of leaves several years ago. It has reached maturity, and the past two years was full of flower buds. These dropped off one by one before they reached full bloom. It is in a pottery pot with very good drainage. I fed it fish emulsion two or three times last summer. I brought it in to protect it from the wind and cold in the fall. What can I do to get it to hold the buds? They get almost to the point of bursting open then drop without turning brown. That is what is so puzzling, they look so healthy. Mrs. O. H.

A.—1) There's too much nitrogen fertilizer in Fish Emulsion. Use a balanced plant food, not a liquid, that contains less nitrogen than phosphoric acid, plus potash. There's a new pellet-form fertilizer containing only phosphoric acid and potash, for blooming and for fruit setting. 2) Don't keep the soil moist constantly. Water well when soil is dry, then no more till plant thirsts again.

Q.—My two large avocado trees grow in open ground, get little water except during the rainy season, produce loads of blooms but no fruit. Why? Mrs. J.J.F.

A.—Avocado trees need water between the rainy seasons. Water periodically, to about a two foot depth, but beyond the drip-line spread of the branches. Trees should have a mulch, either of their leaves, or manure or some form of organic material. Feed them in the spring, summer, and early fall, with citrus-avocado food, or a complete plant food with less nitrogen than the other major fertilizer elements.

Q.—I have two pomegranate seedlings. One is flowering about three feet tall. Can these be transplanted in large pots? Can it be done successfully at this time?

A.—Yes, if you'll hurry up and do it. Give them water with vitamin B-1 added after transplanting them. Repeat vitamin B-1 in water applications at weekly intervals. Do it five or six times. The vitamin B-1 cushions the shock of transplanting, and helps the plants. Be sure to dig a good size firm ball of roots.

COMMENT — I read and enjoy your "garden clinic" as I enjoy gardening. I wish you would give simple, understandable information on how to prune a rose. Instead of saying the plant needs such and such, please state what kind of fertilizers. I've ruined many of my choice shrubs by using wrong fertilizers. S.P.

A.—The newspaper's policy is not to name products except when introduced.

GARDEN GROWTHS?

Not quite, but designer Ken Scott offered the asparagus motif in Rome as a part of the Italian spring and summer fashion show. The earthy appeal was said to be his objective as a 'model' gardener.

BRIEFLY . . .

The Cardinal, an Airlift, 18s and 16s, and McKay

By LES RODNEY

The stepping down of Cardinal McIntyre came as a surprise this week, lessened by the disclosure that he had submitted his resignation two years ago, at age 81. This was already six years past the usual suggested retirement time in the church.

While all join in sincerely wishing him well, and emphasis is properly upon his magnificent achievements as organizer, builder and spiritual leader during two decades of fantastic growth, there have been mixed feelings in the Roman Catholic community about McIntyre, and there's no point in blinking the fact.

Some saw him as an arch reactionary who had this archdiocese lagging behind the rest of the country and who was hurting the church's image. A considerably larger number of parishioners backed the cardinal unqualifiedly and devotedly, and considered his critics to be the ones harming the church.

Then there are many who have been torn between two feelings — admiration and appreciation for the cardinal's hard and selfless years of building and caring for his people, and, on the other hand, a feeling that he had, in less tangible ways, fallen behind the times and was not fully in accord with the changes asked by Vatican II.

For these moderate and concerned churchmen and women, including not a few priests, and nuns, there is no conflict, and no hypocrisy, in hailing James Francis Cardinal McIntyre as a devoted man of God who gave his great talents to the benefit of the archdiocese and the general community, and in also feeling that the younger, more flexible Archbishop Manning may now be better able to lead the archdiocese into the 1970s, hopefully reconciling some of the differences which have developed.

Those of us who had the pleasure of meeting the cardinal received an unmistakable impression of great spiritual force, and a sincere Christian humility which expressed itself in an aversion to personal publicity for his good works. We join in wishing him many years of continued vigor and serenity.

THE CALIFORNIA Council of Churches has endorsed the statewide 18-year-old vote petition drive, saying "Extension of the vote to 18, 19 and 20 year olds recognizes that persons of this age are prepared for political involvement and provides for the assumption of responsibility in mutual trust." The endorsing churchmen said they based their approval on their experiences as ministers, educators and youth workers.

Sounds reasonable. In fact, one wonders, exactly who is AGAINST the 18-year-old vote, and what are their arguments? How about lowering the vote to 18, and raising the driving age from 16 to 18 (with apologies to some fine 16-year-old drivers, but no apologies to many immature and reckless ones, not ready for such lethal weapon!)

THE BILLY GRAHAM paper "Decision" had a swinging review of the September - October crusade in the Angel's ball park at Anaheim, in which it referred to the "sermon on the mound."

WITH THE FALL of Biafra, a daring, dangerous, extra-legal but compassionate church venture came to an end. For more than a year, Protestant, Roman Catholic, Orthodox and Jewish agencies in 21 countries, acting together through Joint Church Aid, used 13 planes for 25 flights per night in a border-jumping airlift of mercy which delivered 350 tons of food and medicine each night.

At least 25 fliers, volunteer recruits, lost their lives in helping to save millions from starvation. Eight planes were lost. At the end, only the church alliance was making the risky run with food and medicine. The International Red Cross quit last June when a plane was shot down.

Several hundred people were involved, including about 35 air crewmen and 75 ground personnel at Sao Tome, and more than 200 courageous missionary church workers inside Biafra. They developed a technique by which they could unload a plane's 16-ton cargo on the primitive, until airstrip in 4½ minutes.

The driving motivation behind the unique operation was expressed by one of its leaders. "Hungry kids should not be made the pawns of any kind of politics or military strategy."

THE DEATH this week of David O. McKay at 94 brought many reminiscences about the respected Mormon leader. One went back to 1960, when John Kennedy was campaigning for the presidency and spoke at the Tabernacle in Salt Lake City. Kennedy, who was battling a certain amount of Protestant feel-

'Best Second Man in Business' Lauded for 20-Year Ministry

More than 800 people gathered at First Christian Church last Sunday afternoon to honor Loran and Eunice Hancock on the 20th anniversary of their ministry with the old downtown church at Fifth and Locust.

They applauded, laughed, and cried and sang as a "This Is Your Life" presentation bringing back friends and relatives from all over the country was climaxed by eleven grandchildren who came on the platform to surround their grandfather and grandmother, and then to sing "Jesus Loves Me."

Tributes were many. Col. Carl Armbrust, a former quartette associate of Mr. Hancock: "Wouldn't it be a wonderful world if all of us could be Loran Hancocks? Unfortunately, we cannot. However, those of us who know him can consider this a distinct privilege."

A minister from Rowland Heights: "Many a young man is in the ministry today because of you, Loran, including me."

Recent First Christian senior minister James McKown: "Loran is the best second man in the business."

The former and current president of Pacific Christian College told of his work with the college. More than 30 letters were received from ministers all over the country, telling how he loved working with and for people, and always remained "Number Two" man by choice.

Hancock filled in as senior minister during last summer before the arrival of George McLain.

He has been active in a variety of ministries over the years, including with Southland youth camps, from which several "graduates" traveled from Northern California to the Sunday event to testify to Hancock's impact on their lives.

Mr. and Mrs. Hancock (ministers of the Christian Church do not use the word Reverend) received a stereo entertainment center as a gift of the congregation.

Churches Hail 'Y's Work in Long Beach Services

By BOB SANDERS

YMCA Sunday — the day in which churches all over the Long Beach area and, incidentally, the United States, devote all or part of their services to the goals of the YMCA — is tomorrow.

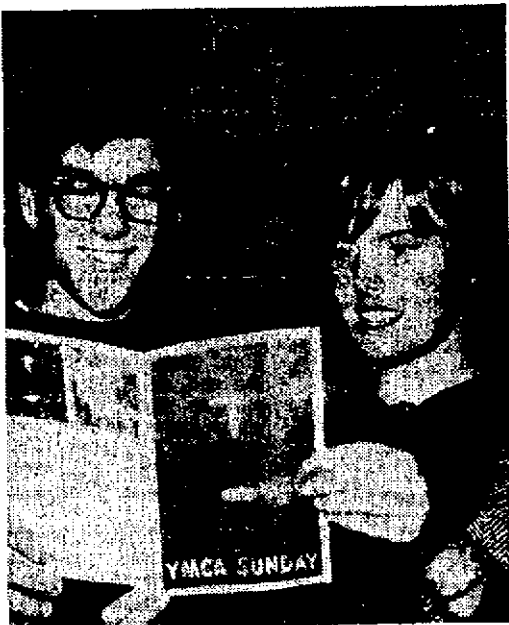

More than 20,000 special bulletin jackets and inserts have been distributed to churches throughout the Long Beach area to be given worshippers.

As in past years the YMCA of Greater Long Beach has chosen YMCA Sunday as the kick-off date for its annual membership drive. This year it expects to sign up at least 5,000 new members and collect a goal of $102,000 in additional revenue between now and when the drive ends March 1.

Many Long Beach churches will hold special programs, put on by the young people, to celebrate YMCA Sunday and to recognize the good it has done, and is doing, in the community.

Almost 16,000 members are active in the five branches of Greater Long Beach.

Most recent among the innovations of the YMCA of Greater Long Beach are such special activities as the Detached Worker program which send trained workers into the community to contact young people with problems and help them, the Inter-City program which caters to helping minority groups and the Cal-Y program which, through courses at California State College at Long Beach, serves continually to upgrade the Y's staff personnel.

MILLIKAN HIGH juniors Chris Edmonds and Kris King, both 17, and both active at Los Altos YMCA, study YMCA Sunday announcement in preparation for special services.

'PORTRAITS OF AMERICAN WOMEN' PRESENTED HERE

"Portraits of American Women," a national organization representing various cultural and racial groups, will present a panel discussion Sunday at 10:50 a.m. as part of the worship service at Atlantic Avenue United Methodist Church, 1535 Atlantic Ave.

Working closely with the Community Relations Conference of Southern California, "Portraits" has been active for 15 years in the field of better understanding between neighbors, as have chapters in 50 major American cities.

Sunday's panel, says program chairman Mrs. Eddie Gray, will include Mrs. Bernard O'Loughlin, chairman; Mrs. Ronald O'Reilly, Roman Catholic; Mrs. Martin Sklar, Jewish; Mrs. Paul Morin, Mexican American; Mrs. Melvin Talbert and Mrs. George Schroeder, Protestants (black and white).

The public is invited to share in the occasion.

College Combo Leads Lutherans in New Liturgy

Under direction of Ronald Logan, a Long Beach City College faculty member, bringing a seven-piece instrumental group with him, an experimental liturgy will be used at an evensong service Wednesday, 7:30 p.m. in St. Timothy Lutheran Church of Lakewood.

The liturgy in contemporary mode was first presented to an international festival in Washington, D.C. Church musicians and choirs will sing hymns which relate closely to the new form.

Dr. G. L. Belgum, pastor, explains that while he deeply appreciates the traditional musical forms, and will continue using them at Sunday worship, he is aware of the dangers of sterility and ritualism, and is thus willing to experiment with modern musical modes.

"We often forget," he said, "that older liturgical forms also arose out of the musical creativity present in the various periods of church history. The famed Lutheran Hymody of the Reformation era was an adaptation of musical form which was then contemporary. I have noticed in my own home that while the parents enjoy listening to traditional and classical records, the children tune in and turn on with entirely different musical sounds. I invite all of those, young and old, who are open to new sounds in praising God to worship with us Wednesday evening."

SENN IN LONG BEACH TALK Anti-Bias Leader Says Churches Aid Progress

Anti-semitism in America is not dead, says a veteran Jewish leader in the fight against all discrimination, but there is today a "greater awareness of the right of differences," thanks to Christian initiatives.

Milton A. Senn, regional director of the Pacific Southwest office of the Anti Defamation League of B'nai B'rith, discussed the problems of prejudice in his address in Long Beach last Sunday at a banquet honoring Revan W. Komaroff and William Broom for their community contributions.

"VATICAN II supplied the spur," Senn said. "Even more than that, the followup actions of the American Conference of Catholic Bishops, supplying guidelines to implement Vatican policy, was vital. They changed some long standing objectionable texts in parochial schools, and took a whole new look at the total curriculum of the seminaries from the new perspective."

Many major Protestant denominations have also issued declarations making clear that there was no historical basis for general Jewish responsibility for the crucifixion of Christ, Senn added.

"Because of the structure of Protestantism, with no kind of comparable single voice, this has not perhaps registered with the impact of the Catholic declaration."

A more recent area in which some misunderstanding exists, Senn noted, is relationship to Israel.

"It is important," he said, "for Christians to understand that Israel has a special historical and cultural meaning for Jews, which has nothing to do with where they are living and their national allegiance to their own particular country as Americans."

L.B. CHURCHES AMONG HOSTS 35th Torrey Bible Conference Slates Leading Speakers

Including a Christian psychologist, scientist, theologian, radio personalities and pastors, the 35th annual Torrey Memorial Bible Conference will be held from Sunday through Friday in 19 locations, including First Baptist and North Long Beach Brethren Churches of Long Beach.

According to Dr. Samuel H. Sutherland, president of Biola College, the sponsors, the purpose of the conference is "to saturate Southern California with a week of outstanding Bible teaching."

Speakers participating include Dr. Henry Brandt, noted Christian psychologist; Rev. Stanley Collins, executive director, Forest Home Christian Conference Center; Dr. Robert Cook, president, The King's College; Dr. James B. Crichton, president, Mid South Bible College; Dr. John Haggai, Haggai Evangelistic Association; Bob Harrison, conference soloist; Dr. Howard Hendricks, professor of Christian Education, Dallas Theological Seminary; Dr. Dick Hillis, founder-director, Overseas Crusades, Inc.; Dr. Ralph Keiper, associate professor of English Bible, Conservative Baptist Seminary, Denver; Dr. John M. Moore, pastor, Central Baptist Church, Victoria, B.C.; Dr. Henry M. Morris, president, Creation Research Society Dr. J. Dwight Pentecost, professor of Bible Exposition, Dallas Theological Seminary; Dr. Robert Smith, Department of Philosophy, Bethel College; Dr. Lehman Strauss, Bible teacher and author; Dr. Paul Van Gorder, teacher, Radio Bible Class, and Dr. John F. Walvoord, president, Dallas Theological Seminary.

In addition to the two Long Beach churches, other area churches hosting the conference are Magnolia Baptist of Anaheim, Central Bible of Costa Mesa, First Baptist of Downey, Village Bible of Garden Grove, and North Redondo Chapel.

Information on schedules can be obtained at the churches or at Biola College in La Mirada.

FROM THE PULPIT

The Scripture teaches that God is not the author of confusion, but is always a God of order. We therefore conclude that the confusion of this age, prompted sometimes under the name of Christianity, is a false one.

We are suffering from revolt in the home, in the schools, and in the nation. Change is not always wrong. The Reformation testifies to that. But change that destroys law and order, takes away authority, and badly proclaims that the purpose of the change is complete chaos, then to endorse such actions by pseudo-Christians is a sin against self, community, nation and God.

God not only rules. He also overrules. The wilds and the waves obey His voice. Who are we to imagine ourselves, out of protest, or revolt against Him to be in accord with His workings?

"Let them praise unto me" is His cry. Let us listen to Him and heed His call.

GARDENING

By JOE LITTLEFIELD

The large ball of rosy-violet flowers on a tall stem of Allium giganteum is striking and showy whether in the garden or indoors in a tall vase. The late James N. Giridlian of Oakhurst Gardens, an authority on out-of-the-ordinary bulbs, once counted the number of florets in one umbel, the cluster of flowers comprising a ball of blossoms and surprisingly discovered 5,288 florets.

The first time Mrs. Littlefield saw these Alliums was in a florist shop, while I was checking on a bedding plant in the nursery department. She was enchanted by the flowers. I went in to the florist shop to buy some for her. I asked the price of the Alliums. The sales lady looked me in the eye and said, "4.00 per blossom." I went back to the car, explained the cost to Mrs. Littlefield, then told her we could buy a bulb for $2.50, and grow our own $4.00 Allium blossoms.

AND THAT'S not all about these flowers. You can dry some and use them for arrangement material. Hang the cut tall flower stems upside down in the garage to dry. Take them down a month later and use them in a dry arrangement. They'll last a year, or maybe longer.

BATON... Allium Giganteum

You will like these bulbs. As you plant them, be sure to place a stake near each bulb to serve as a marker when the foliage has died down. Otherwise, you might dig into the dormant bulb and lose it. The stake should be several inches above the ground.

If you were to ask us, "When is the right time to prune our roses," we'd first say, "closely observe the branches. As soon as the buds begin to swell up and down the branches, that's the right time regardless what the calendar date is." But, it isn't always convenient to do that. Rosarians who grow roses for spring flower shows prune theirs between February 10th and the harvest for the shows. Some folk in milder areas start pruning their roses in late December. Gardeners in cold sections might not prune them till March, maybe later. We prune ours the third week of January.

Garden Jobs to Do Now

Pick faded camellia blossoms off the bush and continue to rake them off the ground. This is done to avoid possible petal blight disease.

Feed hydrangeas a balanced plant food for better, longer-lasting flowers. Prune back the branches if this wasn't done when they finished blooming last summer. Cut back the branches to within two to three nodes of the previous season cuts. Hydrangeas will benefit from a dormant clean-up spray which is the spray used for deciduous fruit trees.

LINNETS nibble on apricot buds just as they are about to burst into bloom. If such has been the problem with your apricots, spray the tree with nicotine sulphate.

Prune crape myrtle tree or bush. Feed it a balanced plant food.

Rhododendron should be fed an acid food, then given a treatment of iron sulphate a month later.

Sow California wild flower mixture seeds in the bare sunny areas of your back yard for lots of spring color.

Q—I have a Christmas cactus I started from a couple of leaves several years ago. It has reached maturity, and the past two years was full of flower buds. These dropped off one by one before they reached full bloom. It is in a potting pot with very good drainage. I fed it fish emulsion two or three times last summer. I brought it in to protect it from the wind and cold in the fall. What can I do to get it to hold the buds? They get almost to the point of bursting open then drop without turning brown. That is what is so puzzling, they look so healthy. Mrs. O. H.

A.—I There's too much nitrogen fertilizer in Fish Emulsion. Use a balanced plant food, not a liquid, that contains less nitrogen than phosphoric acid, plus potash. There's a new pellet-form fertilizer containing only phosphoric acid and potash, for blooming and for fruit setting. 2) Don't keep the soil moist constantly. Water well when soil is dry, then no more till plant thirsts again.

Q.—My two large avocado trees grow in open ground, get little water except during the rainy season, produce loads of blooms but no fruit. Why? Mrs. J.J.F.

A.—Avocado trees need water between the rainy seasons. Water periodically, to about a two foot depth, but beyond the drip-line spread of the branches. Trees should have a mulch, either of their leaves, or manure or some form of organic material. Feed them in the spring, summer, and early fall, with citrus-avocado food, or a complete plant food with less nitrogen than the other major fertilizer elements.

Q.—I have two pomegranate seedlings. One is flowering about three feet tall. Can these be transplanted in large pots? Can it be done successfully at this time?

A.—Yes, if you'll hurry up and do it. Give them water with vitamin B-1 added after transplanting them. Repeat vitamin B-1 in water applications at weekly intervals. Do it five or six times. The vitamin B-1 cushions the shock of transplanting, and helps the plants. Be sure to dig a good size firm ball of roots.

COMMENT—I read and enjoy your "garden clinic" as I enjoy gardenings. I wish you would give simple, understandable information on how to prune a rose. Instead of saying the plant needs such and such, please state what kind of fertilizers. I've ruined many of my choice shrubs by using wrong fertilizers. S.P.

A.—The newspaper's policy is not to name products except when introduced.

BRIEFLY...

The Cardinal, an Airlift, 18s and 16s, and McKay

By LES RODNEY

The stepping down of Cardinal McIntyre came as a surprise this week, lessened by the disclosure that he had submitted his resignation two years ago, at age 81. This was already six years past the usual suggested retirement time in the church.

While all join in sincerely wishing him well, and emphasis is properly upon his magnificent achievements as organizer, builder and spiritual leader during two decades of fantastic growth, there have been mixed feelings in the Roman Catholic community about McIntyre, and there's no point in blinking the fact.

Some saw him as an arch reactionary who had this archdiocese lagging behind the rest of the country and who was hurting the church's image. A considerably larger number of parishioners backed the cardinal unqualifiedly and devotedly, and considered his critics to be the ones harming the church.

Then there are many who have been torn between two feelings—admiration and appreciation for the cardinal's hard and selfless years of building and caring for his people, and, on the other hand, a feeling that he had, in less tangible ways, fallen behind the times and was not fully in accord with the changes asked by Vatican II.

For these moderate and concerned churchmen and women, including not a few priests, and nuns, there is no conflict, and no hypocrisy, in hailing James Francis Cardinal McIntyre as a devoted man of God who gave his great talents to the benefit of the archdiocese and the general community, and in also feeling that the younger, more flexible Archbishop Manning may now be better able to lead the archdiocese into the 1970s, hopefully reconciling some of the differences which have developed.

Those of us who had the pleasure of meeting the cardinal received an unmistakable impression of great spiritual force, and a sincere Christian humility which expressed itself in an aversion to personal publicity for his good works. We join in wishing him many years of continued vigor and serenity.

THE CALIFORNIA Council of Churches has endorsed the statewide 18-year-old vote petition drive, saying "Extension of the vote to 18, 19 and 20 year olds recognizes that persons of this age are prepared for political involvement and provides for the assumption of responsibility in mutual trust." The endorsing churchmen said they based their approval on their experiences as ministers, educators and youth workers.

Sounds reasonable. In fact, one wonders, exactly who is AGAINST the 18-year-old vote, and what are their arguments? How about lowering the vote to 18, and raising the driving age from 16 to 18 (with apologies to some fine 16-year-old drivers, but no

THE BILLY GRAHAM paper "Decision" had a swinging review of the September-October crusade in the Angel's ball park at Anaheim, in which it referred to the "sermon on the mound."

WITH THE FALL of Biafra, a daring, dangerous, extra-legal but compassionate church venture came to an end. For more than a year, Protestant, Roman Catholic, Orthodox and Jewish agencies in 21 countries, acting together through Joint Church Aid, used 13 planes for 25 flights per night in a border-jumping airlift of mercy which delivered 350 tons of food and medicine each night.

At least 25 fliers, volunteer recruits, lost their lives in helping to save millions from starvation. Eight planes were lost. At the end, only the church alliance was making the risky run with food and medicine. The International Red Cross quit last June when a plane was shot down.

Several hundred people were involved, including about 35 air crewmen and 75 ground personnel at Sao

Tome, and more than 200 courageous missionary church workers inside Biafra. They developed a technique by which they could unload a plane's 18-ton cargo on the primitive, unlit airstrip in 4½ minutes.

The driving motivation behind the unique operation was expressed by one of its leaders. "Hungry kids should not be made the pawns of any kind of politics or military strategy."

THE DEATH this week of David O. McKay at 95 brought many reminiscences about the respected Mormon leader. One went back to 1960, when John Kennedy was campaigning for the presidency and spoke at the Tabernacle in Salt Lake City. Kennedy, who was battling a certain amount of Protestant feel-

Not quite, but designer Ken Scott offered the asparagus motif in Rome as a part of the Italian spring and summer fashion show. The earthy appeal was said to be his objective as a 'model' gardener.

'Best Second Man in Business' Lauded for 20-Year Ministry

More than 800 people gathered at First Christian Church last Sunday afternoon to honor Loran and Eunice Hancock on the 20th anniversary of their ministry with the old downtown church at Fifth and Locust.

They applauded, laughed, and cried and sang as a "This Is Your Life" presentation bringing back friends and relatives from all over the country was climaxed by eleven grandchildren who came on the platform to surround their grandfather and grandmother, and then to sing "Jesus Loves Me."

Tributes were many. Col. Carl Armbrust, a former quartette associate of Mr. Hancock: "Wouldn't it be a wonderful world if all of us could be Loran Hancocks? Unfortunately, we cannot. However, those of us who know him can consider this a distinct privilege."

A minister from Rowland Heights: "Many a young man is in the ministry today because of you, Loran, including me."

Recent First Christian senior minister James McKown: "Loran is the best second man in the business."

The former and current president of Pacific Christian College told of his work with the college. More than 30 letters were received from ministers all over the country, telling how he loved working with and for people, and always remained "Number Two" man by choice.

Hancock filled in as senior minister during last summer before the arrival of George McLain.

He has been active in a variety of ministries over the years, including with Southland youth camps, from which several "graduates" traveled from Northern California to the Sunday event to testify to Hancock's impact on their lives.

Mr. and Mrs. Hancock (ministers of the Christian Church do not use the word Reverend) received a stereo entertainment center as a gift of the congregation.

L.B. CHURCHES AMONG HOSTS 35th Torrey Bible Conference Slates Leading Speakers

Including a Christian psychologist, scientist, theologian, radio personalities and pastors, the 35th annual Torrey Memorial Bible Conference will be held from Sunday through Friday in 19 locations, including First Baptist and North Long Beach Brethren Churches of Long Beach.

According to Dr. Samuel H. Sutherland, president of Biola College, the sponsors, the purpose of the conference is "to saturate Southern California with a week of outstanding Bible teaching."

Speakers participating include Dr. Henry Brandt, noted Christian psychologist; Rev. Stanley Collins, executive director, Forest Home Christian Conference Center; Dr. Robert Cook, president, The King's College; Dr. James B. Crichton, president, Mid South Bible College; Dr. John Haggai, Haggai Evangelistic Association; Bob Harrison, conference soloist; Dr. Howard Hendricks, professor of Christian Education, Dallas Theological Seminary; Dr. Dick Hillis, founder-director, Overseas Crusades, Inc.; Dr. Ralph Keiper, associate professor of English Bible, Conservative Baptist Seminary, Denver; Dr. John M. Moore, pastor, Central Baptist Church, Victoria, B.C.; Dr. Henry M. Morris, president, Creation Research Society; Dr. J. Dwight Pentecost, professor of Bible Exposition, Dallas Theological Seminary; Dr. Robert Smith, Department of Philosophy, Bethel College; Dr. Leiman Strauss, Bible teacher and author; Dr. Paul Van Gorder, teacher, Radio Bible Class, and Dr. John F. Walvoord, president, Dallas Theological Seminary.

In addition to the two Long Beach churches, other area churches hosting the conference are Magnolia Baptist of Anaheim, Central Bible of Costa Mesa, First Baptist of Downey, Village Bible of Garden Grove, and North Redondo Chapel.

Information on schedules can be obtained at the churches or at Biola College in La Mirada.

Churches Hail 'Y's Work in Long Beach Services

By BOB SANDERS

YMCA Sunday — the day in which churches all over the Long Beach area and, incidentally, the United States, devote all or part of their services to the goals of the YMCA — is tomorrow.

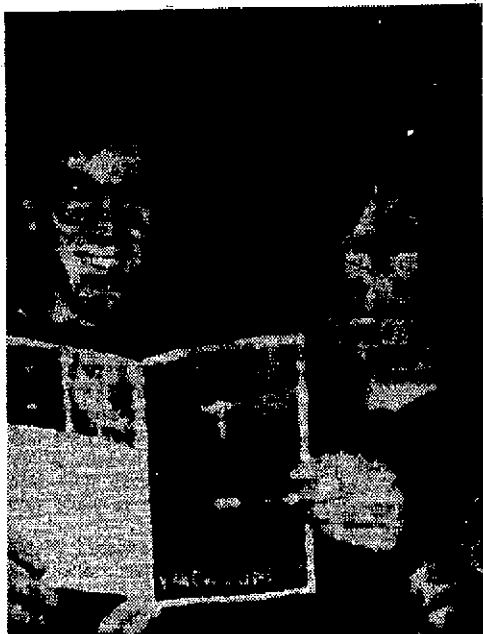

More than 20,000 special bulletin jackets and inserts have been distributed to churches throughout the Long Beach area to be given worshippers.

As in past years the YMCA of Greater Long Beach has chosen YMCA Sunday as the kick-off date for its annual membership drive. This year it expects to sign up at least 5,000 new members and collect a goal of $102,000 in additional revenue between now and when the drive ends March 1.

Many Long Beach churches will hold special programs, put on by the young people, to celebrate YMCA Sunday and to recognize the good it has done, and is doing, in the community.

Almost 16,000 members are active in the five branches of Greater Long Beach.

Most recent among the innovations of the YMCA of Greater Long Beach are such special activities as the Detached Worker program which send trained workers into the community to contact young people with problems and help them, the Inter-City program which caters to helping minority groups and the Cal-Y program which, through courses at California State College at Long Beach, serves continually to upgrade the Y's staff personnel.

MILLIKAN HIGH juniors Chris Edmonds and Kris King, both 17, and both active at Los Altos YMCA, study YMCA Sunday announcement in preparation for special services.

'PORTRAITS OF AMERICAN WOMEN' PRESENTED HERE

"Portraits of American Women," a national organization representing various cultural and racial groups, will present a panel discussion Sunday at 10:30 a.m. as part of the worship service at Atlantic Avenue United Methodist Church, 1535 Atlantic Ave.

Working closely with the Community Relations Conference of Southern California, "Portraits" has been active for 15 years in the field of better understanding between neighbors, as have chapters in 50 major American cities.

College Combo Leads Lutherans in New Liturgy

Under direction of Ronald Logan, a Long Beach City College faculty member, bringing a seven-piece instrumental group with him, an experimental liturgy will be used at an evensong service Wednesday, 7:30 p.m. in St. Timothy Lutheran Church of Lakewood.

The liturgy in contemporary mode was first presented to an international festival in Washington, D.C. Church musicians and choirs will sing hymns which relate closely to the new form.

Dr. G. L. Belgum, pastor, explains that while he deeply appreciates the traditional musical forms, and will continue using them at Sunday worship, he is aware of the dangers of sterility and ritualism, and is thus willing to experiment with modern musical modes.

"We often forget," he said, "that older liturgical forms also arose out of the musical creativity present in the various periods of church history. The famed Lutheran Hymody of the Reformation era was an adaptation of musical form which was then contemporary. I have noticed in my own home that while the parents enjoy listening to traditional and classical records, the children tune in and turn on with entirely different musical sounds. I invite all of those, young and old, who are open to new sounds in praising God to worship with us Wednesday evening."

SENN IN LONG BEACH TALK Anti-Bias Leader Says Churches Aid Progress

Anti-semitism in America is not dead, says a veteran Jewish leader in the fight against all discrimination, but there is today a "greater awareness of the right of differences," thanks to Christian initiatives.

Milton A. Senn, regional director of the Pacific Southwest office of the Anti Defamation League of B'nai B'rith, discussed the problems of prejudice in his address in Long Beach last Sunday at a banquet honoring Revan W. Komaroff and William Broom for their community contributions.

"VATICAN II supplied the spur," Senn said. "Even more than that, the followup actions of the American Conference of Catholic Bishops, supplying guidelines to implement Vatican policy, was vital. They changed some long standing objectionable texts in parochial schools, and took a whole new look at the total curriculum of the seminaries from the new perspective."

Many major Protestant denominations have also issued declarations making clear that there was no historical basis for general Jewish responsibility for the crucifixion of Christ, Senn added.

"Because of the structure of Protestantism, with no kind of comparable single voice, this has not perhaps registered with the impact of the Catholic declaration."

A more recent area in which some misunderstanding exists, Senn noted, is relationship to Israel.

"It is important," he said, "for Christians to understand that Israel has a special historical and cultural meaning for Jews, which has nothing to do with where they are living and their national allegiance to their own particular country as American."

FROM THE PULPIT

The Scripture teaches that God is not the author of confusion, but is always a God of order. We therefore conclude that the confusion of this age, promoted sometimes under the name of Christianity, is a farce.

We are suffering from revolt in the home, in the schools, and in the nation. Change is not always wrong. The Reformation testifies to that. But change that destroys law and order, takes away authority from those whom God has given authority, and boldly proclaims that the purpose of the change is complete chaos, then to endorse such actions by pseudo-Christianity is a sin against God, community, nation and God.

God not only rules. He also overrules. The winds and the waves obey His voice. Who are we to imagine ourselves, our protests, or revolts against Him to be in accord with His workings?

"Let them return unto me," He is saying. Let us listen to Him and heed His call.

Big Troubles Not New for America

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

I've heard so much talk lately about what's wrong with America and how divided we are as a nation, that I decided to do a little reading on the subject. I began browsing through the books written by our great historians.

It was a marvelous experience to explore and refresh my memory on all the things that have happened to this country in just 200 years. And right at the beginning, one particular fact caught my eye. I've been thinking about it ever since. When John Adams was asked to give his estimate of just how many colonists had supported the Revolution, he replied that one-third was for it. Another third remained loyal to the crown. Another third was undecided. With all those divergent opinions, and in all that confusion and doubt, America still became a nation.

THROUGHOUT AMERICA'S history this differing of opinions has continued. It is one reason for her greatness. We have had slave owners and abolitionists, internationalists and isolationists, conservatives and liberals. And perhaps that is the way it was meant to be. But with dissension and doubt prevalent throughout our national history we have also had faith and energy. This we must not forget today.

Nothing that we have accomplished in America has ever been easy. Just think of all the people who suffered hunger and hardships to move the frontier to the Pacific Ocean. Why, when we defied England in 1812, our navy consisted of nine ships. And in spite of the conflicts and confusion among ourselves, we produced leaders such as Thomas Jefferson and Abraham Lincoln.

As I studied the various crises that have constantly dotted America's history, I was reminded of a quote by Henry Ward Beecher, pulpit orator at the Plymouth Church in Brooklyn during the Civil War. Like all great preachers, Henry Ward Beecher had the gift of utter simplicity and he once said, "Every tomorrow has two handles. You can take hold of tomorrow with the handle of anxiety or you can take hold of it with the handle of faith."

Beecher made that statement during one of the darkest hours in our nation's history. It is still true today. Now I'm not a politician. But you don't have to be a politician to know that America is deeply troubled today. There is war, hunger, poverty, racial unrest, crime, and these are awesome problems that must be solved. But they are not going to be solved if we allow ourselves to be defeated by anxiety.

CHURCH HUMOR

"I told you - no calling for help!"

Each of us must grab hold of tomorrow with faith not fear. The well-known psychiatrist, Dr. Smiley Blanton, claimed that thousands of people destroy their lives because of their preoccupation with anxiety, worry, fear. Perhaps it helps to put our current problems in historical perspective and to realize that these things have happened before and we've still made it.

IF WE HAVE our problems, we also have our miracles. We have seen men walk on the moon. We have saved lives with open-heart surgery. These miracles were not accomplished by men who were anxious and afraid. They were done by men who had faith, who looked at tomorrow and grabbed the right handle and then went to work.

Perhaps now is the time for all of us to first renew our faith, and then to think about our problems. Unless we believe in ourselves, we are not going to lick those problems. And unless we believe in God and seek His help, we are hardly going to find the way to help ourselves and our country. A nation, after all, is a reflection of its people. If we are strong, if we have faith and energy, if we grab the right handle and refuse to be conquered by fear, we will come through all our present difficulties.

ing against a Roman Catholic becoming president, addressed himself eloquently to the Mormon's own history, in which they were harshly persecuted minority, making the point that they should be sensitive to the dangers of that kind of prejudice.

McKay, the story is related, took the microphone in a spontaneous reply. While differing with Kennedy in many basic matters, he said he was moved by his historically based plea for understanding, and that Mormons hopefully always judged the man rather than the label.

Among the sayings of McKay which made an impact on the lives of millions are these two:

"Happiness is the end and design of life, for man is that he might have joy. The real purpose of life is happiness. Obedience to God's will brings that happiness and abundance of life."

"No other success can compensate for failure in the home."

cans, Frenchmen, Englishmen, Canadians, etc.

The United States, he contended, has a stake in the survival of Israel, which he called "Our best friend in the Middle East, and a country which is not holding out for a price."

On the topic of discrimination against minorities in this country, Senn said that "Jews have a sensitivity to oppression, against anyone, because of their own history. Sometimes they have been accused of being oversensitive, but the facts of life explain their special awareness in this regard."

"IF THERE is still anti-Semitism," he added, citing evidence brought forward in a recent University of California study, "imagine how it is for other minority groups who may not be as well situated as American Jews!"

He recalled that when a French Jew came to Emile Zola to thank him for what he did to save the framed Capt. Dreyfuss, Zola replied: "If you think I did it for Dreyfuss, you are a fool. I did it for France."

"So today," Senn concluded, "we must fight prejudice of all kind, not for the sake of the individual victim, but for America."

5 GREAT SERVICES - PLAN NOW TO ATTEND

WILLIAM J. ANTHONY

Anthony New Head of Division

From Our L.A. Bureau

William J. Anthony, a law enforcement officer who teaches at California State College at Long Beach, is moving up from inspector in the sheriff's office to division chief.

The promotion, Sheriff Peter J. Pitchess said, will mean transferring Anthony from service as the department's executive assistant to commanding its corrections division. He will be in charge of the jail and other county detention facilities.

Anthony, 48, teaches courses in the administration of justice. He lives in Pasadena.

Welfare Office Plan Shelved

Rising costs of construction have forced the Orange County Board of Supervisors to reconsider a plan for a branch welfare office in Santa Ana.

Builder Harry Christeson, asked for more rent for the structure he proposes to build and lease to the county, explaining that costs of money to finance the construction in the 1600 block of East First Street are rising rapidly.

Welfare Director Granville O. Peoples said the county offered to pay $7,200 per month rent for 20,000 square feet of building, plus parking for 153 cars. The price would include all maintenance.

Christeson did not announce the proposed new rental terms.

Peoples said the county "might delay" need for the Santa Ana branch office by renewing its lease for three years on a branch at 2043 N. Broadway, Santa Ana, and post-employment worked out by the county with Christeson is not binding, since changes in the offer were made by the developer.

RUSSIAN SHIP WILL DOCK HERE 5 DAYS

The Russian research ship "Ogon" is scheduled to dock at the Port of Los Angeles Tuesday for a five-day stay.

The vessel, reportedly engaged in a hake fish survey in cooperation with the U.S. Bureau of Fisheries, will take on provisions while moored at Berth 160 in Wilmington.

Crew of the Ogon will be granted shore leave, according to L.A. Harbor Department spokesmen.

The Ogon will be the third Soviet vessel to call on the port in recent months.

Drug Abuse Conference

The Church of Scientology will conduct a drug abuse information conference at the Los Angeles Hilton Hotel from 10 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. today.

A number of speakers from city and county government, and the teaching and medical professions, will address the conference, which is open to the public.

Rites Set for Retired L.B. Oil Executive David Tupper

Services will be Saturday at 2 p.m. in Mottell's Mortuary Chapel for Horace David Tupper, former oil company executive who died Thursday. Mr. Tupper, of 3582 Gundry Ave., was 84.

A native of New York, he came to Long Beach 46

ery for many years until his retirement.

Mr. Tupper was a 60-year-member of Evening Star Lodge No. 75 F&AM of Watervliet, N.Y. Palos Verdes Lodge No. 389 F&AM will conduct the services.

Surviving are a son,

David, of Long Beach; daughters, Mrs. June Gier of Australia, Mrs. Hazel Burney of Long Beach, Mrs. Helen Stone of Sierra Madre, Mrs. Ruth Asher of Tulsa, Okla.; a sister, Mrs. Luena Hodges of

The Lord Jesus gave many astounding promises.

None more than this... "Seek ye first the Kingdom of God, and all other things will be added unto you."

Alright! But, even if this is so, how do I go about seeking His Kingdom, first? Dr. Gilliland brings The Good News on this promise Sunday at 9:45 & 11:00.

SUNDAY at SIX (p.m.) (New Time) Along with music to warm the spirit and lift you, Pastor Gilliland talks on a vital subject: "WHAT IS THE SPIRIT SAYING? REPENT."

low ourselves to be defeated by anxiety.

Each of us must grab hold of tomorrow with faith not fear. The well-known psychiatrist, Dr. Smiley Blanton, claimed that thousands of people destroy their lives because of their preoccupation with anxiety, worry, fear. Perhaps it helps to put our current problems in historical perspective and to realize that these things have happened before and we've still made it.

IF WE HAVE our problems, we also have our miracles. We have seen men walk on the moon. We have saved lives with open-heart surgery. These miracles were not accomplished by men who were anxious and afraid. They were done by men who had faith, who looked at tomorrow and grabbed the right handle and then went to work.

Perhaps now is the time for all of us to first renew our faith, and then to think about our problems. Unless we believe in ourselves, we are not going to lick those problems. And unless we believe in God and seek His help, we are hardly going to find the way to help ourselves and our country. A nation, after all, is a reflection of its people. If we are strong, if we have faith and energy, if we grab the right handle and refuse to be conquered by fear, we will come through all our present difficulties.

ing against a Roman Catholic becoming president, addressed himself eloquently to the Mormon's own history, in which they were harshly persecuted minority, making the point that they should be sensitive to the dangers of that kind of prejudice.

McKay, the story is related, took the microphone in a spontaneous reply. While differing with Kennedy in many basic matters, he said he was moved by his historically based plea for understanding, and that Mormons hopefully always judged the man rather than the label.

Among the sayings of McKay which made an impact on the lives of millions are these two:

"No other success can compensate for failure in the home."

Anti-Bias

cans, Frenchmen, Englishmen, Canadians, etc. The United States, he contended, has a stake in the survival of Israel, which he called "Our best friend in the Middle East, and a country which is not holding out for a price."

On the topic of discrimination against minorities in this country, Senn said that "Jews have a sensitivity to oppression, against anyone, because of their own history. Sometimes they have been accused of being oversensitive, but the facts of life explain their special awareness in this regard."

"IF THERE is still anti-Semitism," he added, citing evidence brought forward in a recent University of California study, "imagine how it is for other minority groups who may not be as well situated as American Jews!"

He recalled that when a French Jew came to Emile Zola to thank him for what he did to save the framed Capt. Dreyfuss, Zola replied: "If you think I did it for Dreyfuss, you are a fool. I did it for France."

"So today," Senn concluded, "we must fight prejudice of all kind, not for the sake of the individual victim, but for America."

WILLIAM J. ANTHONY

From Our L.A. Bureau

William J. Anthony, a law enforcement officer who teaches at California State College at Long Beach, is moving up from inspector in the sheriff's office to division chief.

The promotion, Sheriff Peter J. Pitchess said, will mean transferring Anthony from service as the department's executive assistant to commanding its corrections division. He will be in charge of the jail and other county detention facilities.

Anthony, 48, teaches courses in the administration of justice. He lives in Pasadena.

Welfare Office Plan Shelved

Rising costs of construction have forced the Orange County Board of Supervisors to reconsider a plan for a branch welfare office in Santa Ana.

Builder Harry Christeson asked for more rent for the structure he proposes to build and lease to the county, explaining that costs of money to finance the construction in the 1600 block of East First Street are rising rapidly.

Welfare Director Granville O. Peoples said the county offered to pay $7,200 per month rent for 20,000 square feet of building, plus parking for 153 cars. The price would include all maintenance.

Christeson did not announce the proposed new rental terms.

Peoples said the county "might delay" need for the Santa Ana branch office by renewing its lease for three years on a branch at 2043 N. Broadway, Santa Ana, and rearrangement worked out by the county with Christeson is not binding, since changes in the offer were made by the developer.

RUSSIAN SHIP WILL DOCK HERE 5 DAYS

The Russian research ship "Ogon" is scheduled to dock at the Port of Los Angeles Tuesday for a five-day stay.

The vessel, reportedly engaged in a hake fish survey in cooperation with the U.S. Bureau of Fisheries, will take on provisions while moored at Berth 160 in Wilmington.

Crew of the Ogon will be granted shore leave, according to L.A. Harbor Department spokesmen.

The Ogon will be the third Soviet vessel to call on the port in recent months.

Drug Abuse Conference

The Church of Scientology will conduct a drug abuse information conference at the Los Angeles Hilton Hotel from 10 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. today.

A number of speakers from city and county government, and the teaching and medical professions, will address the conference, which is open to the public.

Services will be Saturday at 2 p.m. in Mottell's Mortuary Chapel for Horace David Tupper, former oil company executive who died Thursday. Mr. Tupper, of 3582 Gundry Ave., was 84.

A native of New York, he came to Long Beach 46

years ago and in 1922 was one of the first employees of Hancock Oil Co., now Signal Oil. He was supervisor of the firm's refinery for many years until his retirement.

Mr. Tupper was a 60-year member of Evening Star Lodge No. 75 F&AM of Watervliet, N.Y. Ralos Verdes Lodge No. 300 F&AM will conduct the services.

Surviving are a son,

David, of Long Beach; daughters, Mrs. June Gier of Australia, Mrs. Hazel Burney of Long Beach, Mrs. Helen Stone of Sierra Madre, Mrs. Ruth Asher of Tulsa, Okla.; a sister, Mrs. Luena Hodges of

New York, eight grandchildren and 12 great grandchildren.

$238 AN HOUR JOB REAL RIB TICKLER

MIAMI (AP) — If you're out of a job, there's an interesting opening in Miami's sunny climate.

—$250 a week.

—All expenses for a suite at the classy Four Ambassadors hotel.

—Six gourmet meals a day.

—You work just nine minutes a day. That's six days a week and comes to $238.09 an hour.

There is one catch: your nine minutes daily will be spent in the ring as a sparring partner for heavy-weight boxing champion Joe Frazier.

Frazier's human punching bag for three years has been a Philadelphia heavyweight, Don Warner.

A patched-up, bruised Warner quit and headed north Friday.

"I didn't have enough tape to hold his ribs together," said Yank Durham, manager of Frazier. "The body blows from Joe during the past three years finally wore him out."

That's why you get $238 an hour.

Frazier still has two sparring partners remaining as he trains for a Feb. 18 title bout against World

Boxing Assn. champion Jimmy Ellis. Ellis is training at Miami Beach.

Frazier worked two rounds apiece with Ran Anderson and Mole Man Williams, the remaining training camp victims.

"Joe still weighs 215, about 10 pounds over his fighting weight," said Durham. "But once it begins to shed it'll really fly and Frazier will be fit for Ellis."

Wind Fails to Hamper Yancey, 70

By DAVE LEWIS
Staff Writer

PEBBLE BEACH — Bing Crosby sang a couple of verses of one of his big hits — "When You Wish Upon A Star" — Thursday night at an informal get-together and the heavens so appreciated his crooning that his wish "for the rain to stay away" was granted long enough Friday to get in the second round of his pro-am golf classic.

But the weatherman insists it will take a miracle to save the tournament from rain today.

Heavy rains, delayed Friday by the formation of a new low pressure system off the coast, are due early this morning. Officials are fearful of the fate of the third round, which is scheduled to be nationally televised (KNBC, Channel 4, 3 p.m.).

But Bing remained in an optimistic mood despite the forecast: "Maybe we can beat the weather yet," he said.

Wind was the worst part of Friday's weather. Gusts ranging from 28 to 35 miles an hour made the Monterey Peninsula courses even more monstrous than they are normally. Wind will continue to be a vital factor today.

Golfers playing the second round among the sheltering pines of Spyglass

Hill in the Del Monte Forest found it to their advantage as winds punished those playing the other two courses. Only the first five holes are exposed at Spyglass while trees pretty much protect the rest of the course.

Bert Yancey was one of those fortunate to draw Spyglass and as a result he broke away from the pack to take a two-stroke lead in the Crosby Clambake with a 36-hole total of 137, seven under par.

Still having "more fun playing golf" than ever before, Yancey carded a two-under-par 70 to go with his 67 at Cypress on Thursday.

Two of the three golfers tied with Yancey for the first-round lead with 67's did not fare very well. Ron Cerrudo, with a triple bogey seven on the 17th hole, had a 76 at Cypress while Bob Murphy soared to a 78 at Pebble Beach.

Only Bob Goalby, the 1968 Masters winner who also played Spyglass Thursday, hung in there. He had a par 72 and is tied with burly Jim Wiechers for second at 139. Wiechers had a 71 at Spyglass.

As indicated by the scoring of the golfers who

Compromise Was KO'd by S'Anita, Unions Contend

The striking service employees unions claimed Friday that Santa Anita and other California tracks refused to accept a compromise settlement worked out between authorized negotiators.

The statement was made by attorney Leo Gaffner, representing the unions. Gaffner said the unions have sent telegrams to strikebound racing plants asking for face-to-face negotiations next week.

Gaffner said that he and Sidney Korshak, a management representative, had reached an agreement Tuesday, but the next day the tracks rejected the compromise.

The lawyer said the only alternative left to the unions was to go back to their original demands for a raise of $4 a day.

Gaffner said the union would await some reply from the Racing Assn. on the offer to meet face-to-face Tuesday in downtown Los Angeles and stay in session until an agreement was reached.

"We could not afford to pay any more than we offered last week, we can't afford to pay any more this week and we won't be able to pay any more next week," Stewart said. "We made our offer in good faith. It was all we felt we could honestly pay without going into bankruptcy."

"This might well be the strike that kills California racing," Stewart concluded.

The strike has cost the state more than $2.5 million in revenue it would have received as its share of the parimutuel wagering, and horsemen have lost more than $1 million in purses as a result of the dispute.

SUED FOR $4 MILLION

STARS SEEING STARS

Zeimo Beaty's jump from the Atlanta Hawks of the NBA to the Stars of the ABA was the basis for a $4.5 million damage suit filed Friday.

The Hawks named Beaty and the Los Angeles team in the superior court action which claimed the seven-year pro basketball veteran had agreed orally to play with Atlanta through 1973.

Beaty is sitting out the current season and plans to play with the Stars next season.

in the regular season, so McCarter would have to make an amazing recovery to return for the playoffs.

McCarter had just dropped in two long jumpers and had stolen a pass when the injury occurred. He drove on Clemens, tired to spin around him and fell. He came up clutching his ankle and the 11,393 fans knew immediately the injury was serious.

A split second earlier Jerry West, who had been taken out with the game won, commented to Mullane how well McCarter had progressed in recent weeks, and the coach agreed that his top draftee was playing his best ball.

"I can't believe it," said a disillusioned West. "It doesn't seem fair this should happen to our team. We've had so darn much misery."

Neither Elgin Baylor nor Dick Garrett were able to play Friday, and they won't be available for tonight's game in Seattle.

The 29-year-old Beaty signed a four-year, no-out contract with the Stars last October that was to pay him an estimated $150,000 each year.

The court action asked for an injunction to prevent Beaty from going to the Stars. The suit charged that Stars' owner Jim Kirt and general manager Jim Hardy had "contrived" to destroy the Hawks' business. Both were named as defendants in the suit.

Tragedy struck the "jinxed" Lakers again Friday night as guard Willie McCarter, just beginning to show why he was the No. 1 draft choice, suffered a serious ankle injury that probably will sideline him for the remainder of the season.

McCarter fell awkwardly over the leg of Barry Clemens with 60 seconds remaining as the Lakers drubbed Seattle, 128-100, at the Forum.

McCarter had to be carried from the court on a stretcher. His right ankle was so badly bent that coach Joe Mullaney said he felt nauseated looking at it.

The diagnosis by Dr. Robert Kerlan was that McCarter suffered torn ligaments but no break. His ankle will be put in a cast for six weeks.

Only eight weeks remain

The injury jinx started way back on Nov. 7 when Walt Chamberlain suffered a torn tendon in his right knee that has imperiled his career.

Johnny Egan, Keith Erickson, Rick Roberson, West and Baylor missed at least three games as the season wore on, and Baylor's injury turned out to be more serious than first expected.

The captain missed his 19th game Friday, and Dr. Kerlan warned the Lakers that he would be an in-and-out performer the rest of the season.

Garrett's ankle sprain is worse than first diagnosed. He missed three games, played eight minutes in Houston, and now is out until Tuesday — or longer.

McCarter's misfortune took the spotlight away from Happy Hairston, who, with West, is carrying the team on offense.

Happy scored a career high of 34 points, giving him 135 in his last five games (27.0). He has hit at a fantastic 66 per cent from the field in that span and also has averaged 16 rebounds a game.

West had 30 points, the 15th time in the last 17 games he has had 30 or more. Until this one he led the Lakers in scoring in 16 consecutive games.

Seattle, which has never won at the Forum, held the Lakers scoreless for five minutes in the first period and jumped ahead 32-21, but the Sonics were

Seattle Future Is Grim

Combined News Services

SEATTLE—The future of the Seattle Pilots is as clear as a scrambled jigsaw puzzle, but the pieces may come together Tuesday when American League president Joe Cronin and club owners meet in Oakland.

When it all goes together, it probably will add up to no better than a reprieve for Seattle fans in any case. It could well be a funeral service and the death knell for King County's plans to build a domed stadium in Seattle by 1973.

Seattle mayor Wes Uhlman went to court Friday in a last-ditch attempt to keep the Pilots amid increased indication that the team will move to Milwaukee or Dallas.

Superior court judge F.A. Walterskirchen ordered Pacific Northwest Sports, Inc., owner of the team, to show cause at a hearing Thursday why he should not grant Uhlman's request for a preliminary injunction barring removal of the franchise.

William R. Daley, major stockholder of the Pilots, said he thinks Milwaukee "would be a fine place for the Pilots," but added that they could move to Dallas. He said the team was "up for grabs."

'I'd Pay to See 49ers Play UCLA,' Sighs Gaucho Coach

By LOEL SCHRADER

UC Santa Barbara was the winner of the . . . Uh, gruelling 4-minute and 59-second marathon Friday night at Pauley Pavilion.

Unfortunately for the Gauchos, there were still 35 minutes remaining in their basketball game with UCLA and they were underwhelmed by the top-ranked Bruins, 89-80.

It may have been unfortunate for the Bruins, too, that the game went the distance.

The frazzled side of their game eventually came out in the chagrin of most of the 12,522 fans.

UC Santa Barbara refused to panic in the unfriendly atmosphere of Pauley and took a 12-10 lead at 4:59 on nifty outside shooting, principally by 66 forward John Tschogl.

UCLA came back quickly to tie the score and finally forged a permanent advantage at 15-14.

UC Santa Barbara stayed with its deliberate game, however, and trailed by only 39-34 at halftime and was within a point of the Bruins at 43-42 after 2½ minutes of the second half.

UCLA used its superior board strength to control the game thereafter and twice held leads of 15 points in the second half.

A mixture of reserves and regulars let the margin slide to seven points with 27 seconds remaining.

The unbeaten Bruins achieved their 13th consecutive victory of the season and their 17th in a row over two years.

Gaucho coach Ralph

Barkey was impressed with the Bruins, but noted that he had seen another team this season that had drawn his admiration, too.

"I wouldn't want to make any comparisons," said Barkey, who then proceeded to make one. "But I would pay admission to see a game between Cal State Long Beach and UCLA."

Long Beach has exceptional personnel in people such as George Trapp and Sam Robinson. The 49ers and Bruins would be a great game.

Bruin coach John Wooden was anything but ecstatic over his team's performance.

"They (UC Santa Barbara) beat us on loose balls and beat us on the boards," he sighed. "They were just more alert than we were."

"Maybe, subconsciously, some of our players looked at Santa Barbara's 7-7 record and couldn't get emotionally prepared for this game."

"We'll see whether that was it when we play a team with a good record tomorrow night."

The Bruins close out their weekend action to-night against Wyoming, which boosted its record to 12-2 with an 84-74 win over Stanford Friday night. Game time is 8.

The UCLA team was in Wooden's doghouse before Friday night's game got under way.

$238 AN HOUR JOB REAL RIB TICKLER

MIAMI — If you're out of a job, there's an interesting opening in Miami's sunny climate.

—$250 a week.
—All expenses for a suite at the classy Four Ambassadors hotel.
—Six gourmet meals a day.

—You work just nine minutes a day. That's six days a week and comes to $238.09 an hour.

There is one catch: your nine minutes daily will be spent in the ring as a sparring partner for heavyweight boxing champion Joe Frazier.

Frazier's human punching bag for three years has been a Philadelphia heavyweight, Don Warner.

A patched-up, bruised Warner quit and headed north Friday.

"I didn't have enough tape to hold his ribs together," said Yank Durham, manager of Frazier. "The body blows from Joe during the past three years finally wore him out."

That's why you get $238 an hour.

Frazier still has two sparring partners remaining as he trains for a Feb. 16 title bout against World

Boxing Assn. champion Jimmy Ellis. Ellis is training at Miami Beach.

Frazier worked two rounds apiece with Ran Anderson and Mole Man Williams, the remaining training camp victims.

"Joe still weighs 215, about 10 pounds over his fighting weight," said Durham. "But once it begins to shed it'll really fly and Frazier will be fit for Ellis."

Wind Fails to Hamper Yancey, 70

PEBBLE BEACH — Bing Crosby sang a couple of verses of one of his big hits — "When You Wish Upon A Star" — Thursday night at an informal get-together and the heavens so appreciated his crooning that his wish "for the rain to stay away" was granted long enough Friday to get in the second round of his pro-am golf classic.

But the weatherman insists it will take a miracle to save the tournament from rain today.

Heavy rains, delayed Friday by the formation of a new low pressure system off the coast, are due early this morning. Officials are fearful of the fate of the third round, which is scheduled to be nationally televised (KNBC, Channel 4, 3 p.m.).

But Bing remained in an optimistic mood despite the forecast. "Maybe we can beat the weather yet," he said.

Wind was the worst part of Friday's weather. Gusts ranging from 28 to 35 miles an hour made the Monterey Peninsula courses even more monstrous than they are normally. Wind will continue to be a vital factor today.

Golfers playing the second round among the sheltering pines of Spyglass

Hill in the Del Monte Forest found it to their advantage as winds punished those playing the other two courses. Only the first five holes are exposed at Spyglass while trees pretty much protect the rest of the course.

Bert Yancey was one of those fortunate to draw Spyglass and as a result he broke away from the pack to take a two-stroke lead in the Crosby Clambake with a 36-hole total of 137, seven under par.

Still having "more fun playing golf" than ever before, Yancey carded a two-under-par 70 to go with his 67 at Cypress on Thursday.

Two of the three golfers tied with Yancey for the first-round lead with 67's did not fare very well. Ron Cerrudo, with a triple bogey seven on the 17th hole, had a 76 at Cypress while Bob Murphy soared to a 78 at Pebble Beach.

Only Bob Goalby, the 1968 Masters winner who also played Spyglass Thursday, hung in there. He had a par 72 and is tied with burly Jim Wiechers for second at 139. Wiechers had a 71 at Spyglass.

As indicated by the scoring, of the golfers who

McCarter Injured as Lakers Thump Seattle

By DOUG IVES
Staff Writer

Tragedy struck the "jinxed" Lakers again Friday night as guard Willie McCarter, just beginning to show why he was the No. 1 draft choice, suffered a serious ankle injury that probably will sideline him for the remainder of the season.

McCarter fell awkwardly over the leg of Barry Clemens with 60 seconds remaining as the Lakers drubbed Seattle, 128-100, at the Forum.

McCarter had to be carried from the court on a stretcher. His right ankle was so badly bent that coach Joe Mullaney said he felt nauseated looking at it.

The diagnosis by Dr. Robert Kerlan was that McCarter suffered torn ligaments but no break. His ankle will be put in a cast for six weeks.

Only eight weeks remain

The injury jinx started way back on Nov. 7 when Wilt Chamberlain suffered a torn tendon in his right knee that has imperiled his career.

Johnny Egan, Keith Erickson, Rick Roberson, West and Baylor missed at least three games as the season wore on, and Baylor's injury turned out to be more serious than first expected.

The captain missed his 19th game Friday, and Dr. Kerlan warned the Lakers that he would be an in-and-out performer the rest of the season.

Garrett's ankle sprain is worse than first diagnosed. He missed three games, played eight minutes in Houston, and now is out until Tuesday — or longer.

McCarter's misfortune took the spotlight away from Happy Hairston, who, with West, is carrying the team on offense.

Happy scored a career high of 34 points, giving him 135 in his last five games (27.0). He has hit at a fantastic 66 per cent from the field in that span and also has averaged 16 rebounds a game.

West had 30 points, the 15th time in the last 17 games he has had 30 or more. Until this one he led the Lakers in scoring in 16 consecutive games.

Seattle, which has never won at the Forum, held the Lakers scoreless for five minutes in the first period and jumped ahead 32-21, but the Sonics were in the regular season, so McCarter would have to make an amazing recovery to return for the playoffs.

McCarter had just dropped in two long jumpers and had stolen a pass when the injury occurred. He drove on Clemens, tired to spin around him and fell. He came up clutching his ankle and the 11,393 fans knew immediately the injury was serious.

A split second earlier Jerry West, who had been taken out with the game won, commented to Mullaney how well McCarter had progressed in recent weeks, and the coach agreed that his top draftee was playing his best ball. "I can't believe it," said a disillusioned West. "It doesn't seem fair this should happen to our team. We've had so darn much misery."

Neither Elgin Baylor nor Dick Garrett were able to play Friday, and they won't be available for tonight's game in Seattle.

Compromise Was Kod by S'Anita, Unions Contend

The striking service employees union claimed Friday that Santa Anita and other California tracks refused to accept a compromise settlement worked out between authorized negotiators.

The statement was made by attorney Leo Geffner, representing the unions. Geffner said the unions have sent telegrams to strikebound racing plants asking for face-to-face negotiations next week.

Geffner said that he and Sidney Korshak, a management representative, had reached an agreement Tuesday, but the next day the tracks rejected the compromise.

"The lawyer said the only alternative left to the unions was to go back to their original demands for a raise of $4 a day.

Geffner said the union would await some reply from the Racing Assn. on the offer to meet face-to-face Tuesday in downtown Los Angeles and stay in session until an agreement was reached.

James D. Stewart, president of Hollywood Park and secretary of the Federation of California Racing Assn., said that the Federation is holding firm to its offer of a pay increase of $2 daily for the next three years.

"We could not afford to pay any more than we offered last week, we can't afford to pay any more this week and we won't be able to pay any more next week," Stewart said. "We made our offer in good faith. It was all we felt we could honestly pay without going into bankruptcy."

"This might well be the strike that kills California racing," Stewart concluded.

The strike has cost the state more than $2.5 million in revenue it would have received as its share of the parimutuel wagering, and horsemen have lost more than $1 million in purses as a result of the dispute.

SUED FOR $4 MILLION

STARS SEEING STARS

Zelmo Beaty's jump from the Atlanta Hawks of the NBA to the Stars of the ABA was the basis for a $4.5 million damage suit filed Friday.

The Hawks named Beaty and the Los Angeles team in the superior court action which claimed the seven-year pro basketball veteran had agreed orally to play with Atlanta through 1973.

Beaty is sitting out the current season and plans to play with the Stars next season.

The 29-year-old Beaty signed a four-year, no-cut contract with the Stars last October that was to pay him an estimated $150,000 each year.

The court action asked for an injunction to prevent Beaty from going to the Stars. The suit charged that Stars' owner Jim Kirt and general manager Jim Hardy had "contrived" to destroy the Hawks' business. Both were named as defendants in the suit.

NCAA Cites Black Athlete as Militant Target

New York Times Service

NEW YORK — Walter Byers, sometimes known as "that power-mad Walter Byers," is the executive director of the National Collegiate Athletic Assn., sometimes referred to as "that Kansas City mob."

Byers and the NCAA are probably American sports' most available target for criticism. Authoritarian, Midwest-oriented, politically conservative, the NCAA is frequently attacked by liberals, Easterners and partisans of the Amateur Athletic Union, with whom the NCAA wars.

Some of that criticism is highly justified. The NCAA sets up as protector of the so-called "student athlete," and has often failed, perhaps because rigorously policing its member institutions is impossible, and perhaps because it is, after all, a trade association for college athletic departments.

Every so often, Byers and the NCAA take a stand so rigid and seemingly perverse that one might think they were going out of their way to irritate their friends.

An example was an article in last month's issue of the NCAA News attacking such groups as the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee, Black Student Union, Black Panther Party, Students for a Democratic Society and the Peace and Freedom Party. The NCAA intimated that recent turbulence in college sports among blacks could be traceable to their plotting and agitation.

Citing government sources, the article stated: "The evidence is clear that there is operating in this country a hard-core revolutionary force designed to destroy the present governmental and educational system of the United States."

The article links the plot to sports: "Intercollegiate athletics is a prime target because of the publicity value inherent in sports and the fact that the Negro or black athlete involved in a mild disorder will be a subject of newsprint from coast to coast, whereas the acts of a less-publicized Black Student Union party member may only be reported in the campus newspaper." A conclusion is offered: "It is evident that one of the basic aims of the militants is to polarize the races. It is equally evident that there cannot be athletic esprit de corps or teamwork on that basis. Several NCAA members have stressed that the black athlete will earn his own self-respect and leadership status in the United States—not only with fellow Negroes but with the American citizenry at large—by his preparation and accomplishments as a student, with the assistance of his athletic success."

Byers said that he felt that the "problem had peaked" because he sensed "little sympathy for the militants in the black athletic community."

Byers also said that the NCAA felt it was important that coaches and recruiters make "explicitly clear" the conditions the new student-athlete would face, the coaching policies he would train under and the social attitudes he would be exposed to.

Byers also suggests that the athletic department, after offering an advance educational campaign, would follow with an "open door" policy so problems could be spotted and discussed.

'WAR IS ON'

Expand ABA's Big Aim

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — The American Basketball Assn. reversed its announced policy Friday night and announced it will aim for expansion for the 1970-71 season.

Commissioner Jack Dolph, who earlier in the day said the ABA had no plans now to expand, revealed at a news conference that the three-year-old league had appointed an expansion committee with himself as chairman.

"We are not expanding for expansion's sake," Dolph said. "We believe as a result of negotiations with the NBA that the war is on."

Dolph said the ABA has set a franchise price at $1.5 million.

"We have made our overtures to the NBA and still believe that merger talks are the sane and sensible policy."

The ABA puts its red, white and blue ball and top players before a nationwide television audience for the first time today in the league's All-Star game.

The game at Indiana Fairgrounds Coliseum will be televised by CBS (Channel 2, 11 a.m.).

The television audience reaction to the caliber of play by such stars as Spencer Haywood, Mel Daniels, Rick Barry, Warren Armstrong and Louie Dampier may determine how many future ABA games the network will televise under options in its contract with the league.

have shot par golf or better for the first 36 holes, a total of 19 played Cypress Point Thursday and Spyglass Friday. They will tackle Pebble Beach today.

The leading exceptions are Don Massengale, 1966 Crosby winner; Arnold Palmer; Canadian George Knudson, and Jack Nicklaus, who won the '67 Crosby.

Massengale posted a 70 at Cypress for a 140, good for a tie for fourth at 140 with Italian champion Roberto Bernardini and Tom Shaw, while Palmer, who opened with a 69 at Pebble Beach, came back with a par 72 at Cypress despite taking a bogey on the 16th hole when he missed a three-foot putt. Knudson is tied with Palmer and defending champion George Archer at 141.

Nicklaus, who had a 70 on Thursday at Spyglass, caught the brunt of the wind at Pebble Beach, but played exceptional golf and had a sub-par round going until he settled for a bogey six on the last hole after missing the green.

Also at 142 is U.S. Open champ Orville Moody. Cerrudo is at 143 along with Lee Trevino and Doug Sanders.

But for the 17th holes on the first two rounds, Yancey would be hiding from the field at this point. They have cost him three strokes.

He was seven under par Thursday when he took a double bogey on the 17th when the wind caught his approach and carried it into the ocean.

Friday, Bert was three-under for the day when he misjudged his second shot on the 17th at Spyglass and cost himself a valuable stroke when he hit it too easy and came up short of the green.

In parring the first 10 holes, he missed "two excellent opportunities for birdies." He blew a four-foot putt on No. 6 and a poor chip on No. 7 cost him still another stroke.

But he came back to birdie the 11th when he reached the green of the par-five hole with two good woods and then two putts from 20 feet; also birdied the 12th with a 10-foot putt, and collected his third bird on the 16th after "hitting two of the best shots of my life—a drive and a 3-iron approach which 'cleared a trap and stopped just three feet from the hole.'"

Ring King Won't Fight; Disqualified

ROME (UPI) — Eddie Pace of Los Angeles scored a controversial upset victory Friday night over world light middleweight champion Freddie Little of Las Vegas, who was disqualified in the eighth round for failing to fight.

A crowd of 15,000 booed, jeered and showered the ring with fruit and bread before referee Fernando Anello waved Little to his corner after 2:40 minutes of the eighth round of a scheduled 10-rounder.

The 33-year-old Little, who entered the ring at 137 pounds for the non-title fight, was warned in the fourth, fifth, sixth and seventh rounds to mix it up with slightly lighter and more aggressive Pace.

The outcome virtually eliminated any chance of Little meeting world middleweight champion Nino Benvenuti in a title fight.

The uproar in the Rome Sports Palace was so heated at times that announcers at ringside threatened to send police into the crowd to stop the fruit and coin throwing. Several persons at ringside were hit and one man was led away bleeding.

The victory for Pace was his 31st in 53 professional fights. He has lost 21 and drawn one.

Little has won 44 of 50 fights, lost five and been involved in a no contest verdict. The no contest decision sparked a near-riot in the same Rome arena more than a year ago and led to the stripping of the light middleweight title from then champion Sandro Mazzinghi of Italy.

YOUR HOROSCOPE by JEANE DIXON

Forecast for Sunday

Your birthday today: Your progress in the coming year depends on your ability to learn from the past. The steady effort to improve your skills. Past errors should be dropped once and for all. A turning point comes in late spring. Activity increases, your earnings tend to improve. Family life falls into new circumstances which indicate change.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Join with your neighbors for community unity. Children swarm about and create noisy confusion; no harm done. Career timing makes the difference today. Exercise will reason.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Gambling would not work. Even as an entertainment this Sunday, take a lot of money, dress well but not beyond normal for the situation. There should be some news for an evening celebration.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Family conferences are favored. Fresh ideas about the future and what can be done with your share of it probably come up almost casually. Invest some time and perhaps a bit of money in getting up to date.

CANCER (June 21-July 21): After your share of the community expression of faith, make a tour of your community to see the latest changes. Some of it does not appeal to your sense of beauty, but perhaps something can be done yet. A quiet home evening is preferable.

LEO (July 22-Aug. 22): Competitive action is indicated strongly. Meet your rivals, seek a chance to work with the ground rules. Gather support for your side of any debate. By evening you should be tired enough to simply sit and enjoy your home.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Strangers, outsiders have comments to offer. However, you are more aware of the reality of what mood you were suffering from at face value. Keep any reservations to yourself. Your own initiative continues to prevail. The evening is good for mood entertainment.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): A longstanding secret wish shows signs of coming true and, if it is quiet, and keep your own counsel until later, take the day a pleasant exercise in moderation.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Be straightforward and, in turn, take everything at face value. Keep any reservations to yourself. Your own initiative continues to prevail. The evening is good for mood entertainment.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Set out early in good humor for a day of exploration. Seek places you have not seen before, new acquaintances. Hidden social or political backing is available if you do not make a specific effort to organize or direct it.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): You receive an unexpected favor and have no ready way of acknowledging it. Extra effort is needed. Catch up with your favorite sports and pastimes. Much family business can be settled in long evening discussions.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): An idea that comes to you is valid regardless of what mood you were suffering from when it occurred. Make use of every connection you have to check facts and find further information for your new plan.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): You are called on to understand more than most people do, and meet the demands. Take your share in the community's expression of faith. Catch up on all the news. Spend the evening reflecting on what you have learned. Visitors are frequent.

Your birthday today! Your progress in the coming year depends on your ability to learn from experience and steady effort to improve your skills. Past errors should be dropped and for all. A turning point comes in late spring. Activity increases, your earnings tend to increase. Family life runs into new circumstances which indicate change.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Join with your neighbors for community work. Children, swarms about, and create noisy confusion; no harm done. Care in timing makes the difference today. Exercise a day within reason.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Gambling would not work out even as an entertainment this Sunday. Take a formal manner, dress well but not beyond normal for the situation. There should be some news for an evening celebration.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Family conferences are favored. Fresh ideas about the future and what can be done with your share of it probably come up almost casually. Invest some time and perhaps a bit of money in getting up to date.

CANCER (June 21-July 21): After your share of the community expression of faith, make a tour of your community to see the latest changes. Some of it is not appeal in your sense of beauty, but serious something can be done yet. A quiet home evening is preferred.

LEO (July 22-Aug. 23): Competitive action is indicated strongly. Meet your rivals, seek a chance to work out the crowd rates. Gather support for your side of any debate. By evening you should be tired enough to simply sit and enjoy your home.

VIRGO (Aug. 24-Sept. 22): Strangers, outsiders have comments to offer. However, you are more aware of the reasons things are as they are. The evening fills with gossipy, humorous conversation.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): A long-standing secret wish shows signs of coming true. Work at it coolly, and keep your own counsel until later. Make the day a pleasant exercise in moderation.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Be straightforward and, in turn, take advantage of face value. Keep any reservations to yourself. Your own initiative continues to prevail. The evening is good for modest entertainment.

NEW YORK (AP) — President Nixon's long-a-

The 10.56 drop in the Dow Jones industrial average Friday to 775.54 was the sharpest nosedive of the new year and pushed it to a loss of 7.06 on the

The decline was an "instant analysis" of the President's speech, said Shearson, Hammill & Co., referring to which more than 99.9 per cent of the company's shareholders subscribed.

For the week, "Ma Bell" finished No. 4 on the most active list with a loss of $\frac{7}{8}$ to 48 $\frac{3}{4}$ on 569,400 shares.

Trades generally appeared unmoved by President Nixon's State of the Union Address, although pollution

"Basically, the economic situation is the same as it was in Nixon's address and to a rebound of "highflying" glamor stocks that had suffered recent losses.

The decline for the week was wide ranging. Stocks that dropped in price on the New York Exchange

OVER THE COUNTER

By HOWARD LUXENBERG

Another analyst said he thought Nixon would devote more attention to the problem of inflation. "Now I guess we'll just have to wait for his budget message," he added.

The UPI market indicator, measuring all stocks traded, showed a loss of 1.54 to 95.69 on 1,734 issues crossing the tape. Of these, 1,020 declined, 562 gained. There were 233 new 1969-70 lows set, 35 new highs.
